FIRST STORY OF CORAL SEA BATTLE TOLD BY EYEWITNESS

TRIBUNE MAN ON LEXINGTON SEES DEFEAT OF JAPS

Watches U. S. Navy Flyers Win Fight.

This is the first in a series of nine thrilling stories of the Coral sea battle by Mr. Johnston. In his other stories the Tribune correspondent will tell of life aboard the Lexington before it was destroyed, American destruction of Japanese ships, the Jap attack on the Lexington, the desperate fight of the crew to save the ship, and how American survivors were rescued.

BY STANLEY JOHNSTON.

[Tribune Foreign Correspondent.]

[Copyright: 1942: By The Chicago Tribune.]

From the deck of the aircraft carrier Lexington which was bombed, machine gunned, and torpedoed, I witnessed the battle of the Coral sea. For five full, never-to-be-forgotten days I lived with the American heroes—airmen and seamen alike—who there won a magnificent victory.

Now, five weeks after the battle, its story, replete with the dramatic details of deeds of valor as thrilling as any in American history, can be told. The veil of official silence can be lifted. The vivid pictures of this action, etched in my memory and hurriedly scratched in disjointed exclamations in my notes in the midst of battle shocks, can be reported fully.

First Big Defeat for Japs.

It was a battle that naval authorities believe may prove to have been the turning point in the Pacific phases of World War II.

It was the first great naval defeat ever dealt Japanese fleets—and ironically enough it was fought entirely in the air. It was a battle of aircraft carriers—the modern rulers of the seas. It may have saved Australia from invasion.

The naval developments of these five days were scattered over 400,000 square miles of tropic seas. The surface fleets which fought the battle never saw each other, and during most of the fighting were from 80 to 180 miles apart. This is the story I have to tell—the first of its kind in all history.

A Story of the Navy.

There were, of course, other sides to the entire Coral sea engagement. In these, Gen. MacArthur's bombardment squadrons based on Australian soil pounded Japanese installations in and around New Guinea. I was, however, at sea, and my story is the navy's story.

First of all this was an engagement of aircraft carriers — two American against three Japanese. It was disclosed how completely the carrier has displaced the battleship in importance in modern war.

It was a battle of dive bombers, torpedo bombers, and fighter pilots. It also was a battle of anti-air aft gunners.

When it was finished two of the Japanese carriers had been

The Coral Sea Story

(AN EDITORIAL)

The Tribune this morning gives the world the first story in Stanley Johnston's remarkable series on the battle of the Coral sea. Mr. Johnston is a Tribune reporter. It was his great good fortune to be the only newspaper man present during the battle. He was aboard the Lexington thruout the engagement, almost until she went down. His is an eye-witness account and the only such account available to any newspaper.

We had a clean scoop, but this was no ordinary newspaper story which had come into our hands. Here was a great historical document, the authentic account, blow by blow, of one of the crucial battles of history, a battle fought as no sea battle ever was fought before.

The Tribune holds the copyright to Mr. Johnston's narrative and in law, of course, we could have kept it for ourselves. The circumstances were so unusual, however, that we have made the story available to three big press services for distribution to newspapers thruout the world. It has been given for simultaneous publication to the news services without cost to them. To do so, we felt, was a patriotic duty, for we doubt if anything could go further to hearten the American people and our friends abroad than to read Mr. Johnston's narrative of heroism crowned with victory. We felt that the possession of the story was a public trust, to be shared as widely as possible.

Competition in the newspaper business is keen. We do not intend to make a practice of giving away news and do not expect our colleagues and competitors to do so either. It is highly improbable that circumstances will arise again in this generation to warrant the unusual action taken this morning by The Tribune.

There is one aspect of the story in the Coral sea which Mr. Johnston has failed to include. He has said nothing of his own conspicuous heroism in battle. It is to be expected that in due time the part of the story which in modesty Mr. Johnston has withheld will be told.

Johnston Only Correspondent to See Battle

For the first time in World War II. a newspaper—THE TRIBUNE—has been fortunate enough to have a man who is both a trained newspaper reporter and a naval and aerial expert in the midst of a five day major naval engagement. This man is Stanley Johnston. His dispatches describing the battle of the Coral sea begin in THE TRIBUNE today.

To Discuss Grand Strategy.

Johnston's eye-witness stories of the bravery of officers and men of the United States navy will take his readers into the cockpits of the fighter planes, the torpedo bombers, and dive bombers as attacks are made on Japanese planes and warships. His knowledge of naval affairs permits him to discuss the grand strategy of the battle, and his ability as a trained observer and reporter permits him to write vividly of the individual valor which studded the struggle.

Johnston was the only correspondent with the American sea forces in the Coral sea battle. He made notes and recordings in the heat of the conflict.. Some of his notes have been incorporated in the navy's official reports on the engagement. He was presssed into service to assist in interviewing pilots on his airplane carrier when the pilots returned from their attacks. He got their stories first hand. His stories have retained the ring of the conflict.

Lived with Flyers.

Johnston has been a war observer for THE TRIBUNE since the summer of 1940 when he joined this newspaper's staff in its London bureau. He was at Dover and on Kentish airfields during Germany's big air assaults on Britain and lived with the British flyers who saved England. He was in a Dover hotel with Guy Murchie, another Tribune correspondent, when the hotel was smashed by a Nazi bomb and fell four stories in the crash of the structure. Johnston knows modern air fighting from first hand experience. He knows war because he fought for four years—from 1914 to 1918—with an Australian artillery unit equipped with naval guns at Gallipoli and in Flanders.

CORAL SEA FIGHT BOX SCORE: U. S. LOST 3 SHIPS, JAPANESE 15

The navy department in a communique yesterday admitted the sinking of the aircraft carrier Lexington, a destroyer and a tanker in the battle of the Coral sea early in May. The navy also listed the following Japanese losses in that battle and the March 10 attack on Japanese bases in New Guinea:

One aircraft carrier, three heavy cruisers, one light cruiser, two destroyers and more than eight transport and small vessels sunk; a cruiser and a destroyer probably sunk; an aircraft carrier, three cruisers, three destroyers, two aircraft tenders and more than 11 other vessels severely damaged; and more than 100 aircraft destroyed.

DROP TWO WEEKS' FURLOUGH PLAN FOR DRAFTEES

Springfield, Ill., June 12 (AP).—Plans to allow all draftees to return to civil life for two weeks immediately after induction have been dropped and requests for such furloughs should be limited to cases of "emergent necessity" to settle business or personal affairs, state selective service headquarters said today.

Draftees who prove the need for additional time to settle their affairs will be transferred to the enlisted reserve after June 16.

Two Pages of Battle Pictures

On page 10 and the back page of this edition of The Tribune are two full pages of pictures of the battle of the Coral sea.

Navy department officials said that the photographs were taken by "anonymous" enlisted men especially trained to get action shots for their strategic and historic, as well as their dramatic, value.

The photographs, described as "the most dramatic pictures ever taken of a sea battle," were made at close range, under heavy fire by men who risked their lives, officials said.

Telephoto lenses were not used. The men were in the thick of the battle they were photographing, and in one instance the blast of the concussion was so intense it rocked a nearby ship and rendered one picture of the U. S. S. Lexington explosion blurry.

VOTE 8-9 MONTH DEFERMENT FOR MEN OF FAMILY

Agree to Call Most Single Boys First.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 12.—Legislation authorizing draft deferment for married men and men with children or other dependents until all others eligible for military service have been summoned to the colors was approved today by a house and senate conference committee.

Enactment of the new deferment provisions is expected to postpone for at least eight or nine months the induction of men in the dependency classification, according to committee members. They declared this group must not be touched until "substantially all" men in 1-A have been called up.

The measure, an amendment to the selective service law, is included in the allowance and allotment bill which is scheduled for final congressional action next week. Both houses have approved the scales of financial assistance allowed under the bill.

Boards to Be Informed.

Selective service officials said that as soon as the bill is enacted and signed by President Roosevelt, temporary instructions will go out to local draft boards preventing the induction of dependency registrants until more detailed instructions are issued.

The committee emphasized that the legislation does not provide blanket deferments for every one with dependents. It empowers President Roosevelt to issue orders thru the selective service system for deferment, until further notice, of any or all categories of men with dependents. This is in line with provisions of existing law which permit Mr. Roosevelt to defer men by age groups.

Registrants to Be Reclassified.

Under the amendment local boards would be required to reclassify all married men in groups, depending upon the degree of family relationship. For example, in one group would be men with a wife only, in another would be men with a wife and one child, and so on.

Presumably, men with fewer dependents would be inducted before heads of larger families when the man power supply in the 1-A classification is exhausted.

Committee members said the provision was adopted to prevent any widespread drafting of family men whose dependents would suffer undue hardship despite the allotments.

The amendment would not serve to exempt from induction a man now enjoying a dependency deferment because he contributes to the support of a relative other than a wife or child with whom he lives. However, it provides that the amount of such support shall be considered in the light of allowance aid, with the inference that he shall be called if his dependent would not suffer.

Two Classes Set Up.

Two classes of dependents, A and B, are set forth in the allowance measure. Class A dependents are wives and children; class B are parents, brothers, and sisters.

Wives and children would receive $22 per month from the pay of an enlisted man. To this the government would add $28 per month for a wife, $40 per month for a wife and one child, and $10 per month for each additional child.

Allowances to B dependents would be optional with the man in service. If he already had one or more class A dependents, he could order $5 additional to be taken from his monthly pay, or $27 in all. If not, he could pay $20 per month to B dependents. The government then would make similar contributions.

The allowances were made retroactive to June 1, the date on which the new pay scales for soldiers and sailors takes effect. First payments sailors take effect. First payments November, however.

Report 4 Jap Carriers Lost in Midway Battle

PEARL HARBOR, June 12 (AP).—Japanese aircraft carriers lost in the battle of Midway Island reached four today, on the basis of late battle reports, and estimates of the loss of enemy personnel mounted to more than 10,000.

Two carriers, and possibly a third, had been officially announced as sunk up to two days ago, when it was said there would be later reports because of the distant pursuit of the fleeing enemy.

Japs Admit One Carrier Lost.

These communiques also claimed the damaging of three enemy battleships and 8 to 11 other vessels.

The Japanese officially have admitted the loss of one carrier and the damaging of a second carrier and a cruiser. They have claimed the sinking of two American carriers and a transport.

Officially announced American losses have been a destroyer and a carrier damaged.

Transports Carried 6,000.

Estimates of the loss of enemy personnel in the historic engagement that smashed an attempt to invade the Hawaiian Islands exceeded 10,000 as additional reports reached authoritative quarters. Each of the four carriers destroyed had a complement of 1,500 men and officers, and loss of life on these must have been heavy. At least three enemy transports, each carrying about 2,000 troops, have been torpedoed, again with heavy casualties.

Fighting Americans who participated in the Midway actions have told how the enemy warships fled without attempting to rescue the survivors of their sinking ships.

Boy, 2, Killed by Baseball as He Tries to Intercept It

Donald Testolin, 2 years old, whose father, Lewis, is a steelworker, was killed yesterday in front of his home at 11339 Harvard avenue when he was struck by a baseball with which two youths were playing catch. Cornelius Hohmann, 18 years old, 11340 Harvard, threw the ball to Raymond Peterson, 15, who lives in the same building with the Testolins. Donald toddled out to try to intercept it and was struck over the heart.

BRIEF SUMMARY OF DEVELOPMENTS ON WAR FRONTS

Latest war developments:

Opening of the decisive battle for eastern Libya, with fierce fighting by armored units below Tobruk, was reported by the British. The RAF also pounded axis units in the sector where tanks and dive bombers were being massed for a showdown thrust.

Counterattacks by Russian armies against advancing Nazi forces on the Kharkov front and new blows at the enemy around Sevastopol, where 50 German tanks were destroyed and ground regained, were reported in a Moscow communique. Russian artillery blasted German siege lines around the Crimean naval base.

American Flying Tigers went into action in China and scored a nine to nothing victory over 18 Japanese bombers and fighters sent to raid Kweilin, southern Chinese base, which has been under almost daily bombardment.

A small scale Japanese landing on Attu Island, in the Aleutian group, was announced by the navy. It said enemy ships also were sent into Kiska harbor, in the Rat Islands, but had been driven out. The landing party also has been compelled to retire from the village of Attu after army and navy air attacks.

Latest naval action reports reaching Pearl Harbor indicated that four Japanese carriers had been lost in the battle off Midway, but a navy announcement listed the American aircraft carrier Lexington, the destroyer Sims and the tanker Neosho as lost in the Coral sea conflict. Japanese losses were put at 15, with 20 others severely damaged.

Tornadoes Kill 25, Hurt 100 in Oklahoma City

Oklahoma City, Okla., June 12 [Special].—Twenty-five were known to be dead as a result of two tornadoes which struck the city about 9:30 tonight, 10 minutes apart. Seventy residences were demolished in a 16 block area in the southwest section, south of the North Canadian river. It was believed several more bodies are in the ruins of some of the homes. At least 100 were injured.

The twister cut a path about two miles long. Wind, rain, and hail, followed in its wake, hampering rescuers. Power lines are down, gas mains broken. About 75 men from the sheriff's office and the state highway patrol took charge of the district. At 1:30 this morning none of the dead had been identified.

The territory heaviest hit is about two miles from Will Rogers airfield, where pilots are being trained for the army. A busload of about 40 of the student pilots were stopped on their way back to the field and at once began helping with the rescue work.

Citizens who started to flock to the district were warned by radio to stay away. Authorities said wild confusion reigned in the district.

JAPANESE LAND ON WESTERN TIP OF ALASKA ISLES

Foe's Ships Driven from Kiska Harbor.

Washington, D. C., June 12 (AP).—The Japanese have made a small scale landing on remote and rocky Attu Island in the Aleutian group, the navy announced tonight, and have sent ships in among the Rat Islands in their first effort to gain a toehold in the western hemisphere.

Both the ships and the landing party on Attu, the navy said, have been attacked by army and navy aircraft and a series of minor engagements was presumed to be still in progress.

As a result of the attacks, the landing party has been compelled to retire from the vicinity of the village of Attu, only populated place on the island so far as is known here, and the ships have been driven out of Kiska harbor in the Rat group, which is part of the Aleutian chain.

The enemy inroads had been anticipated by naval authorities, who reasoned that the Japs probably would attempt some occupation of the stepping stones to Alaska, primarily as a means of bolstering prestige lost in the failure of their drives toward Australia and Midway Island.

Has Small Radio Station.

No strategical significance was attached to the occupation of Attu, where apparently the only thing of military value was a small radio station maintained by the Territory of Alaska. Under the protection of fog and bad weather so frequent in the North Pacific, the landing on Attu, therefore, should have been a simple matter.

"Weather conditions in these outlying islands precluded air search operations until now," the navy communique said.

The landing on Attu followed by about a week apparently the Japanese air raid on Dutch Harbor June 3.

Except for a reconnaissance flight a few hours after the first attack, Dutch Harbor so far as is known has not been further molested.

Attu, westernmost of the Aleutians and directly opposite Russia's Komandorski Islands, is 769 nautical miles from Dutch Harbor. Kiska is 585 nautical miles west of Dutch Harbor, while the nearest point to Dutch Harbor in the Rat group is 561 nautical miles.

The navy statement said the Japanese had been forced to retire from populated regions. This was said authoritatively to refer only to Attu and the Rat group.

Japs Claimed Landing.

However, it was presumed that the Japanese are still active in the area and may attempt to turn their landings into real occupations, probably for prestige reasons chiefly, altho they might hope thru occupation to set up aircraft reconnaissance over American bases in the Aleutians.

The Japanese claimed several days ago to have effected a landing in the Alaskan islands but a navy spokesman said on Wednesday that none of "our inhabited areas, islands or rocks are troubled with uninvited visitors up to this time" and that the navy had no information about any Japanese on Alaskan soil.

The landing on Attu was not the first on American territory but was the first so far as is known on American soil on the eastern side of the international dateline, technically in the western hemisphere.

Attu Island is about 20 by 35 miles in extent, and indented by many bays and long inlets. It has mountains up to 3,000 feet high, and reefs offshore make navigation hazardous.

Attack Begun, Canada Says.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 12 (AP).—Vice Adm. Percy W. Nelles, chief of the Canadian naval staff, said "the attack has begun" when informed tonight of the Japanese landing on Attu Island and the movement of Japanese ships among the Rat Islands of the Aleutian group. He declined to comment further.

RATTLES GO WITH SIX MINUTE MILE ON 1909 TROLLEY

Reporter Tells of Bumpy Street Car Rides.

(This is the second article in a series telling experiences of a Tribune reporter making a survey of Chicago's street car service under the new 8 cent fare.)

BY DAVID ANDERSON.

At exactly 11 a. m. you board a Clark street car going south at Lunt avenue [7000 north]. It's a hot, sunny day. The car, No. 612, is a 1908-'09 model, built by the Pullman company and rebuilt in 1921 to pull trailers, now no longer used by the surface lines.

The car is one-third filled and the passengers, mostly women, are struggling to open the dusty windows, spotted by the rains of last week.

The motorman squints at his watch and slows the car down to walking speed several blocks before coming to the car barns at Devon avenue. He's ahead of schedule and he has to stall. But once past Devon avenue and out of sight of checkers in the switch yard, he opens the throttle again.

46 Blocks in 30 Minutes.

At 11:30 you are pounding past Fullerton avenue at a fair clip. You've gone 46 blocks in 30 minutes, averaging almost a mile every 5 minutes.

At Chicago avenue all the seats are taken and more women get on. They stand in the aisles, leaning on edges of the seats and clinging to straps.

The sun is higher now and waves of heat filter thru the open windows. Over the Clark street bridge the car bumps and clangs. A tiny breeze floats in from the river. Squealing and rattling, the car pushes into the crowded loop. Most of the passengers get off at Madison street. Your watch says 11:49—70 blocks in 49 minutes. Pretty good time so far, you tell yourself.

Tap Dance on Floor Gong.

From that point on the car crawls, jerks, stops, grinds, worms its way thru heavy traffic. The motorman is doing a steady tap dance on the floor gong. The car passes Harrison street before he stops clanging. At Roosevelt road, exactly one mile from Madison street, you look at your watch again. That mile has taken 10 minutes.

You get off at 18th street. It's 12:02. You've done about 82 blocks in 62 minutes, taking approximately six minutes for each mile.

You lean on the 65 year old cornerstone of St. John's church for six more minutes waiting for a westbound 18th street car. You board No. 3106, a car built 20 years ago, according to the records of the Illinois Commerce commission. It's a one man car, operated by a jack-of-all trades, who, like a one man band, can do them all at once.

It's a small car with tiny rattan seats and few passengers. Everybody has a window seat. The seats, you decide, are about right for one and one-half persons, or fairly comfortable for a couple of midgets. Idly you wonder what happens when two 225 pound customers sit down together.

34 Year Old Car Slower.

The car tosses and pitches like a jeep in army maneuvers. You clutch the seat in front of you and sway with the car. Glancing out in front, you notice holes in the right of way pavement where whole paving blocks have worked loose. The Clark street car compared to this one, was silent and smooth. At Damen avenue the car comes to a shrieking stop. You get off with a touch of seasickness. Riding time: 12 minutes for 2¼ miles.

You walk to Cermak road and take No. 353, an eastbound car to Blue Island avenue. This car, a fairly smooth running vehicle, is 34 years old, and quieter but slower than the 18th street trolley. The street between the tracks from Damen to Blue Island avenue is newly paved. Riding time: 4 minutes for half a mile.

No. 731, a Blue Island car built in 1909, takes you to Dearborn and Monroe streets in 16 minutes.

At 3:52 you take a northbound Clark street car at Grand avenue. This car, No. 3366, is only 13 years old and the most comfortable you have been on during the day. The passengers are all early loop workers and women with packages. There are plenty of seats, of leather, incidentally. You get off at Lunt avenue, having gone 65 blocks—about 7 miles—in 48 minutes. You are glad you paid attention to signs telling you to avoid rush hour traffic.

Draftees Get Brass Band Sendoff

Draft boards 54 and 55 combined yesterday to give a brass band sendoff for their total of 107 draftees. The parade started at Draft Board 54, 5200 West Chicago avenue, accompanied by the ROTC unit from Austin High school and Boy and Girl Scouts. Fifty-three draftees were present, together with numerous relatives and friends.

At Board 55, 360 North Laramie avenue, 54 more draftees, a 60-piece girls' band from Austin High school, and representatives of the Austin Kiwanis club and police department were added to the marchers. The parade ended when the draftees boarded two special Madison street cars which were bound for the induction center at 515 South Franklin street. Frank Campbell, 5433 Ohio street, a member of Board 54, arranged the send-off.

MacARTHUR DAY IS TODAY; HE'LL REMAIN AT WORK

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, June 13 [Saturday]—(AP).—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, commenting on the designation of June 13 as MacArthur day commemorating his entrance into the United States military academy at West Point, said:

"The action of my fellow countrymen in commemorating this day rededicates each one of them to the immortal ideals of West Point: 'Duty, honor, country.' It reaffirms the implacable will of our great nation to maintain its inalienable rights to 'life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.' It repledges 'our lives, our fortunes, our sacred honor' that ordinary men shall be made secure.

"The fortuitous circumstance that the day I entered the service of my beloved country should have been the one selected to focus this great patriotic outpouring of men on the march fills me with humble thanksgiving. I ask that each participant say a simple, silent prayer that merciful God may guide our steps."

MacArthur will observe the day at work.

Prime Minister John Curtin in a broadcast last night reaffirmed Australia's determination to seize the initiative in the southwest Pacific. The country will have a three day celebration, MacArthur day, American Flag day, and King George VI.'s birthday Monday.

F. D. R. Signs Bill Naming This as MacArthur Day

Washington, D. C., June 12 (AP).—President Roosevelt told a press conference today he had signed legislation making tomorrow MacArthur day in honor of the united nations commander in the southwestern Pacific. Asked his views on the general principle of honoring a living hero, Mr. Roosevelt replied that he thought it was a good thing occasionally. He added that he was receiving tomorrow 15 living heroes and he thought that was much better than seeing dead ones.

55 Havana Dairymen Jailed in Price Strike

HAVANA, Cuba, June 12.—Fifty-five dairymen were held in jail tonight as the government strove to settle a strike that threatens to deprive Havana of its milk supply. The dairymen say it is impossible to operate at government fixed prices and several days ago began refusing to sell milk. The Urgency court ordered their detention on the ground the strike was illegal.

CITY SET FOR BIG MacARTHUR FETE, FLAG DAY PARADE

Salute Hero Tomorrow as Thousands March.

Flag day will be celebrated with two patriotic spectacles in Chicago's "front yard" tomorrow. A mass salute to Gen. Douglas MacArthur will take place from 2 p. m. until 5 p. m. in Soldiers' field and a gigantic united nations parade for victory—involving thousands of marchers and hundreds of floats—will occupy Michigan avenue from 10 a. m. until late in the evening.

The MacArthur rally is expected to draw scores of thousands because of its tribute to the popular hero of the Philippines and its cast of celebrities. Main speakers will be Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Production board; John J. Sullivan, assistant secretary of the treasury; Dr. Alexander Loudon, Netherlands ambassador to Washington; Lewis Bernays, British consul-general; Gov. Green, and Mayor Kelly.

Broadcast Nelson Speech.

Nelson's speech will be heard between 4 and 4:30 o'clock on a nationwide hookup over the Mutual Broadcasting system and rebroadcast at 7 p. m. over W-G-N.

Bob Hope, radio comedian, will be master of ceremonies. Among the stage and screen stars scheduled to appear are Marlene Dietrich, Arleen Whelan, Shirley Ross, Bert Lahr, Bert Wheeler, Joe E. Lewis, Larry Adler, and Mrs. Pat O'Brien, head of Hollywood's army nurses corps.

A colorful section of the spectators will be a delegation of Filipinos clad in native costume. They will honor their countrymen who fought with Gen. MacArthur in the Philippines.

Choral Groups to Sing.

Nine choral organizations also will participate in the program. One will be a chorus of 1,000 Negroes, which will sing "Our Goal Is Liberty," written especially for the rally.

Other choral organizations will represent the Ukrainian St. Vladimir Orthodox church, the Ambrosian Choral society, the Lithuanian Pirmyn choir, the Italian Choral society, and a combined choir of the Norwegian Singers league, the Svithiod Singers, the Bohemian Singing society, and the Polish Women's "Echo" chorus of 100 voices.

The parade is intended to display the effectiveness of the local Office of Civilian Defense and the might of Chicago's war production. It will include three sets of the massed colors of the 26 united nations, contingents from the army, the navy, and the marine corps, and the music of 500 bands and drum and bugle corps.

Here's Order of March.

The OCD has announced the order of march as follows:

1. Military units, civilian air patrol, policemen and firemen.
2. Industrial floats, showing Chicago's war production might.
3. Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, CIO, AFL, and Chicago teachers groups.
4. The 220 communities of the Chicago area as defined by the OCD.
5. Representatives of the main offices of the OCD and the city public works departments.
6. Auxiliary police organized by the OCD.
7. Chicago fire department equipment.

The parade will be described over W-G-N between 11:05 and 11:30 a. m., and Gov. Green will give his impression of the spectacle.

Barnet Hodes, civilian defense coordinator in charge of the pageant, yesterday requested Police Commissioner Allman to assign policemen to investigate anonymous phone calls to block captains trying to discourage their participation in the parade. Hodes said neighborhood defense leaders were receiving calls from purported OCD spokesmen telling them not to appear Sunday because they were not needed.

Labor to March in Force.

Among the marchers will be 550 of the 580 members of the Lathers' union, local 74, which recently voted unanimously to fine members a day's pay for failing to participate. Nearly 15,000 of the 18,000 members of the painters' locals also will participate, according to Arthur Wallace, secretary-treasurer of the Painters' district council. Wallace said he had threatened two of the locals with fines if they fail to march.

In an address over W-G-N last night, Mayor Kelly urged all Chicagoans who are not working tomorrow to watch or join in the parade.

CHURCH MARCHES WITH LUTHERANS UNDER U.S. ARMS

Program Set Up Ahead of Japan's Attack.

(This is the last of four articles telling what four great religious groups are doing to further the war effort and aid America's fighting men.)

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

"They shall not march alone."

This is what Lutheran leadership in America said of fighting men of that faith. Today that communion marches with its men in a comprehensive spiritual and recreational program which extends virtually around the world.

When the first draftees arrived at camp, the Lutheran church was on hand to greet them. Uprooted by war, thousands of men confronted the most serious readjustment of their lives. Lutheranism long had been girding itself to help them do it. The church was ready far before the attack on Pearl Harbor.

It was in January, 1941, in Columbus, O., that the service commission of the National Lutheran council was launched. This council represents official general coöperative action of about two-thirds of all Lutherans of the country, and provides for joint action in war service work by all major Lutheran groups. The service commission was in operation three months before the United Service organization was set up. Lutherans also coöperate in maintenance of the USO.

Activity in 1935.

In 1935, however, the Evangelical Lutheran synod of Missouri, Ohio, and other states, which comprises about one-third of American Lutheranism, but is not represented in the general coöperative program of the National Lutheran council, had established its army and navy commission for chaplains. The office of this commission, first directed by the Rev. Edmund W. Weber, who is now a regular chaplain, is at 221 North La Salle street.

Probably the outstanding achievement of the commission is the maintenance of a complete mailing list of all Missouri synod service men thruout the world, adding 2,500 new names to the list each month. It was stated by Theodore H. Schlake, an assistant state's attorney who has just returned from an inspection trip of Lutheran service centers in the south and west, that the Missouri synod is the only church in the country with a complete mailing list of its members in the armed forces of the nation.

The commission maintains a staff of 17. More than 20,000 items are mailed to service men each month. Once a week a list of all new names at each camp is sent to the respective chaplain, service pastor, or contact key pastor. Then there are changes of address—about 3,000 during May—with the figure rising monthly.

25 Steps to Change Address.

One Chicago boy already has had 10 changes of address since his induction. Twenty-five steps are involved in making a single change of address, but the commission regards it worth while, because a service prayer book, "Loyalty—Christ and Country," a letter from home, or other communication is of little value in "return mail."

The commission was named by the Rev. Dr. J. W. Behnken of Oak Park, president of the Missouri synod. It meets monthly to consider questions of policy and attend to executive matters. It is composed of the Rev. Paul L. Dannenfeldt, Fort Wayne, Ind., chairman; the Rev. Frederick C. Proehl, Milwaukee, Wis.; Chaplain Karl W. F. Schleede; the Rev. Otto E. Sohn, Flint, Mich.; Otto C. Rentner, 2711 West 23d street; the Rev. O. Adelbert Sauer, Richmond, Va.; Mr. Schlake, and the Rev. Lambert Brose, service pastor at the headquarters.

The commission provides each service man with a directory of Lutheran agencies of spiritual helpfulness at home and abroad. Approved by the office of the chief of chaplains in Washington, D. C., the directory is sized to fit in the cover of the service prayer book, which was prepared by the Rev. Otto H. Theiss, executive secretary of the International Walther league and preaching assistant at St. Luke's church, Belmont and Greenview avenues, and the Rev. Adalbert R. Kretzmann, pastor of that church.

Key Pastors Listed.

The directory also lists the 100 key pastors thruout the world. Key pastors are especially prepared to aid service men from their own studies and churches. For Illinois, the Lutheran Service center in Waukegan is listed at 405 South Genesee street, under the direction of the Revs. O. C. Thusius and Owen J. C. Norem. Key pastors of Illinois are the Rev. J. G. Kaiser, Champaign; the Rev. Louis J. Schwartzkopf, 82 West Washington street; the Rev. Paul E. Meyer, Glenview; the Rev. E. Wiedbusch, Mount Carroll, and the Rev. Mr. Thusius. Pastors are listed for Africa, Alaska, Australia, China, England, Hawaii, India, New Zealand, Argentina, Brazil, Paraguay, and the West Indies.

These key pastors serve without compensation. Their duties, which might be summarized by the term "civilian chaplains," include correspondence with Lutheran service men and the providing of automobile transportation to and from church services on Sunday mornings and to social functions during the week. Pastor Schwartzkopf, who is head of the Lutheran publicity bureau, maintains vespers each Sunday afternoon in Kimball hall which are especially designed for service men who cannot attend regularly scheduled worship.

Another duty which key pastors believe of great importance is letter writing to parents, families and pastors of Lutheran service men.

All Efforts Coördinated.

Unique in the history of American Lutheranism is the relationship recently established between the Missouri synod and the National Lutheran council's service commission. This relationship, described as functional rather than a union effort, coördinates the extraordinary wartime efforts of virtually all Lutherans in the country. There are three basic Lutheran groups in America—the American Lutheran conference, the Synodical conference [Missouri synod], and the United Lutheran church.

On Sunday, May 10, nearly every Lutheran church of the country participated in a financial drive for the service commission and other extraordinary wartime demands. More than $1,000,000 was contributed. No federal or USO financial grants are given to the Lutheran service program.

Headquarters of the Lutheran Service commission of the National Lutheran council is in Minneapolis, Minn., with Dr. P. O. Bersell, president of the National Lutheran council and president of the Evangelical Lutheran Augustana synod as chairman. Dr. Armin George Weng, 860 North Wabash avenue, president of the Illinois synod of the United Lutheran church of America, is the secretary.

The executive director is the Rev. Dr. N. M. Ylvisaker, who is also executive secretary of the Young People's Luther league of the Norwegian Lutheran Church of America. Others on the commission are Dr. L. W. Boe, president of St. Olaf college, Northfield, Minn.; Dr. Ralph H. Long, executive director of the National Lutheran council, and Dr. William Sodt, stewardship secretary of the American Lutheran church.

In addition to the service center at Waukegan the commission has set up similar centers at 18 other points with 22 full time service pastors and 29 part time or student pastors.

Ordinarily there are two pastors at each center, one from the Missouri synod and the other from a member synod or church of the National Lutheran council. In addition to the centers are 12 parish centers, which are smaller than service centers. Where neither parish nor service centers are located near concentrations of service men the key pastor setup has been arranged.

Lutheran chaplains in the armed services now total 175.

All parochial schools of the Missouri synod sell war bonds and stamps.

BRITAIN TRACKS DOWN LEAKS IN TROOP MOVES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 12.—Following leakages of information concerning troop maneuvers, special detachments of military police, it was disclosed tonight, have been assigned to the areas affected with instructions to arrest any service man heard discussing matters concerning the fighting services. Printed notices warning that all hotels and pubs in these areas will be placed out of bounds to officers and men unless they cease "careless talk" will be posted at hotels and bars. Hotel proprietors and managers are said to be coöperating and to have ordered their staffs not to enter into discussions with servicemen and to request any one talking on service affairs to leave the premises. Offenders have been warned that heavy penalties will be imposed.

Sailors Train at Great Lakes

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Navy recruits raising boats on davits after rowing practice in training basin. To make the training realistic, the boats are hung around the basin exactly as they would be on shipboard.

SEE GREAT LAKES AND JOIN NAVY, RECRUITER URGES

Training Station Picture of Trim Efficiency.

Navy recruiting in the Chicago area soon would reach the goal of 10,000 for June, in the opinion of Lieut. David N. Goldenson, district recruiting officer, if all potential candidates could only get a preinduction view of the navy's training station at Great Lakes.

While praising the world's largest naval training station yesterday, Lieut. Goldenson did not forget to mention the service schools where qualified men are sent for advanced training, and where they become eligible for higher ratings. But it is Great Lakes which gives the new sailor his first glimpse of navy life.

Ship-shape under a warm June sun or early summer rain, Great Lakes presents a trim picture of naval efficiency. From Camp Barry, where the recruit receives his clothing and spends a period in quarantine, past the drill grounds, along avenues of shade trees, and over clipped green lawns to the water's edge, the station is dotted with the navy's colorful blue, white, and khaki uniforms, worn by men busy at work becoming seamen for the world's greatest navy.

Altho far from salt water, the recruits get a taste of sea going life months before they are assigned to the fleet. This training comes in the handling of whaleboats, cutters, and motor launches.

Boat Drills Realistic.

To make the boat drills a realistic as possible, whaleboats and cutters are hung on davits around the training basin in the same manner as lifeboats attached to ships. Under the direction of veteran petty officers the recruits learn to lower and man the craft and become familiar with the commands of the coxswain.

Classes in sailing also are held at Great Lakes. Many recruits receive instruction in operation of motor launches.

Sailors From Landlubbers.

A look at these bluejackets' classification cards shows the navy is making sailors out of men accustomed to far different trades. For example:

Thurston Alexander, 23 years old, of rural route 1, Rockport, Ill., a former assistant purchasing agent for a manufacturing company; Orville M. Liffick Jr., 21, rural route 2, Jasonville, Ind., an aircraft engine mechanic; Chet Robinson, 20, Prophetstown, Ill., employed in a lawn mower factory; Bernard A. Gola, 31, rural route 3, Murphysboro, Ill., junior accountant; Allen G. Shirey, 25, Mentone, Ind., cloth cutter; Ward Ordway, 29, of 59 East 69th street, service department of a steel company; and Norman Grewe, 27, Brookfield, a butcher.

Gives $100 for Relief.

Elby E. Phillips, 30, 1027 North 18th street, Milwaukee, Wis., earns $60 a month as a fireman, first class. Recently the Navy Relief society received its largest contribution fron an enlisted man—$100 from Fireman Phillips. Said Phillips modestly:

"I've always been interested in social work."

Radio station W-G-N is represented in one of the newest additions to the Great Lakes choir, Lon Saxon, 31, a baritone who has sung with the orchestras of Harold Stokes, Charlie Agnew, and Louis Panico. He enlisted as an apprentice seaman.

The Zellmer family of Belleville, Ill., now has enough men in the navy to from a football backfield. Wilmer, who joined the navy as a patternmaker, second class, has three naval brothers, Howard, Emil, and Elmer.

Twenty-five Chicago men were among the recent graduates of the hospital corps men's school and have been promoted to hospital apprentice, second class. They will receive additional training at naval hospitals before being assigned to general duty at sea or ashore.

Joseph Negri, 31, of 2327 Cleveland avenue, an honor man in the graduating class, led the Chicago contingent with a grade average of 96.2.

Graduates from Chicago.

Will C. Kirk, 8146 Morgan street; Charles F. Maxwell, 4375 25th street; Royal B. Kime, 2920 North Seeley avenue; Leslie Maringer, 5348 Byron street; Edwin L. Ligman, 1934 North Hoyne avenue; Francis X. Syevens, 507 West 55th street; Richard E. Szafranski, 8338 Muskegon avenue; and Anthony Schiavo, 2218 Ohio street.

Richard Schubert, 1926 North Rutherford avenue; Edward Sergeant, 5916 North Artesian avenue; Gordon A. Vaundry, 5504 Dorchester avenue; William Wessel, 6234 South Western avenue; Edward Hallbauer, 3939 Lexington street; James Faher, 5237 Kamerling avenue; Philip Foley Jr., 7801 Yates avenue; John Gough, 1000 Loyola avenue; Frederick Breakey, 63 East 100th place; Earl Bathgate, 7050 Princeton avenue; James Burian, 5018 South Winchester avenue; Thomas Begg, 1241 North Mayfield avenue; James Cunningham, 4952 Chicago avenue; Peter Chernowsky, 7357 Madison street; John F. Crowley, 7949 South Paulina street; and William Brigman, 400 North Trumbull avenue.

Praises Chicago Drive.

Commander Webb C. Hayes, national director of navy recruiting, after a conference yesterday with recruiting officers, praised the combined military, official, and civilian navy recruiting drive.

If Chicago's goal of 10,000 is reached this month, he said, he would recommend installing the same plan in every other recruiting area. The navy by yesterday had raised 2,655 recruits toward the goal.

CATHOLIC WAR BOND CAMPAIGN TO YIELD $325,000

The nation's war chest has been enriched by a war savings drive conducted by students in 51 Catholic colleges, high schools, and academies in the Chicago area.

Mrs. Leo P. Cummings co-chairman of the Catholic committee of the Illinois war savings staff, reported yesterday that the First Catholic Youth Victory drive already has accumulated $115,000 in sales of war bonds and stamps. Charles C. Smith, chairman of the campaign, said the final tabulation would show a total of more than $325,000.

Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, director of the drive, awarded a V-pin to each student who sold at least $25 in bonds or stamps. A second campaign will be started in September.

ROOSEVELT ASKS NATION TO TURN IN SCRAP RUBBER

Gasoline Stations to Pay Penny a Pound.

BY JOHN FISHER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 12.—Old rubber can help win the war by providing material to build planes to bomb Tokio and Berlin and tanks to crush the enemy, President Roosevelt said tonight in a radio appeal for scrap rubber.

He inaugurated a 15 day rubber collection drive, which he announced earlier today at his press conference. The campaign will begin at 12:01 a. m. Monday and will continue until midnight June 30. Four hundred thousand gasoline filling stations thruout the nation will receive old rubber for the government, paying donors a penny a pound.

Mr. Roosevelt said in his radio talk that there are two simple rules "for this rubber emergency: [1] Turn in all the old rubber—anywhere and everywhere; [2] Cut the use of your car—save its tires by driving slowly and driving less."

50 Per Cent Cut Urged.

At his press conference the President suggested that motorists cut their mileage in half, saying this is even more important than driving slowly in saving tires.

"We do not want you to turn in essential rubber that you need in your daily life—rubber you will have to replace by buying new things in the store," the President said in his radio talk. "We do want every bit of rubber you can possibly spare—and in any quantity—less than a pound—many pounds. We want it in every form—old tires, old rubber raincoats, old garden hose, rubber shoes, bathing caps, gloves—whatever you have that is made of rubber. If you think it is rubber, take it to your nearest filling station.

"Once the rubber is in, we will know what our supplies of used rubber are and we will make our plans accordingly. One thing you can be sure of—we are going to see to it that there is enough rubber to build the planes to bomb Tokio and Berlin—enough rubber to build the tanks to crush the enemy wherever we may find him—enough rubber to win this war."

Operators Win Praise.

He praised the filling station operators and the oil companies for donating their services in this campaign. The stations will pay for the rubber as collected and weighed and will be reimbursed by the rubber recovery corporation, a new unit under Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones.

The President reiterated in his message that the rubber shortage is not to be confused with the gasoline shortage in the east and other limited sections. He said rubber is a nationwide problem, because modern wars cannot be won without rubber and because 92 per cent of America's normal supply has been cut off by the Japanese.

"Neither the stockpile, nor the synthetic plants which are now being built, nor both together, will be enough to provide for the needs of our great new army and navy plus our civilian requirements as they now exist," the President continued. "The armed forces have done what they can; they have eliminated rubber wherever possible. The army, for example, has had to replace rubber treads with less efficient steel treads on many of its tanks. Army and navy estimates of use of rubber have had to be curtailed all along the line."

Use Reduced 25 Per Cent.

In his press conference statement Mr. Roosevelt said army and navy use of rubber has been cut 25 per cent.

He said all the rubber collected will be reclaimed and added to the nation's war supply. Further steps to conserve rubber, such as possibly nation-wide gasoline rationing to curb use of motor vehicles, awaits this inventory of the nation's rubber supply. The big mystery has been the exact figure on scrap rubber available. This drive is to provide fairly accurate data on that hidden storehouse in attics, cellars, barns, and junk heaps thruout the nation.

Oil company trucks will pick up the rubber collected at stations and, upon request, also will pick up bulky items too heavy to take to filling stations. The rubber will be transported from the stations to central collection points and sold to the RRC.

In rural areas county war boards will organize searches for discarded rubber items and rubber scrap and oil delivery trucks will pick up and pay for the rubber from farms.

HOARDING GAS IS DANGEROUS, AUTOISTS TOLD

Warnings that it is unwise to hoard gasoline in anticipation of nation-wide rationing were issued yesterday.

"Every drop of gasoline is a stick of dynamite, designed to blow up in your automobile engine, not in your home," said John Plant, chief engineer for the Chicago fire prevention bureau. "A few miles of extra driving are not worth the risk."

Robert J. Daly, in charge of the local office of the state fire marshal, warned that use of any equipment not underwriter-approved is against the law if more than five gallons are to be stored. WPB officials said special orders of that agency prohibit installation of tanks or pumps for such purposes.

B. L. Majewski, chairman of the district petroleum marketing committee, asserted no reputable gasoline dealer knowingly will sell the fuel to a person for hoarding purposes.

GIRL KILLED BY TRAIN.

Margaret Konsoer, 12 years old, was killed yesterday when she was struck by a Rock Island railroad passenger train at the Vernon street crossing in Blue Island. She was on her way to her home at 2024 Union street in the suburb at the time.

OIL AND GAS MEN MAKE PLANS TO COLLECT RUBBER

None to Make a Profit, Representatives Say.

Representatives of the oil companies and retail gasoline merchants pledged their help yesterday in carrying out the request of President Roosevelt for a drive to collect scrap rubber. It was also promised that no one would make a profit on the collection, which is to begin Monday.

"Our 2,500 members will pay a cent a pound for all rubber brought to filling stations," said B. M. Provis, president of the Gasoline Retailers association. "This rubber will be taken on trucks of the major oil companies to bulk plants, where it will be sold to the Rubber Reserve company, a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Difference Goes to Relief.

"There is a difference in the price paid to the public—$22.40 a long ton—and the $25 offered by Rubber Reserve. But the difference will be given to the USO, Red Cross, and the Army and Navy Relief organizations."

Arrangements for the drive were explained at a meeting yesterday afternoon in the office of Nathaniel Leverone, Illinois salvage director for the War Production board.

Thousands Will Coöperate.

Leverone was told that 10,000 filling stations in the state would coöperate. He expressed the belief that hundreds of tons of old rubber would be found in attics and basements as well as in industrial plants and retail establishments.

"Every ounce of rubber can be used and will forward the progress to victory," he said.

Charles Rosenthal, head of the Apex Motor Fuel company, is state chairman of the drive.

PETAIN STARTS NEW DRIVE FOR FRENCH UNITY

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VICHY, France, June 12.—Chief of State Marshal Petain left Vichy in his special train tonight for two days of French Legion ceremonies in the Pyrenees. The legion of war veterans now is the only recognized political party in unoccupied France. It has been rehabititated to cement French unity.

Thirty thousand veterans will be assembled in Toulouse on Sunday when the 87 year old marshal will present the regional organization with its flag and review the men. He will return to Vichy Sunday night.

On Saturday he will visit the picturesque towns of Narbonne, Carcassonne and Castelnaudary where ceremonies and visits to local prefectures will take place.

Control of the legion now is under Pierre Laval, chief of government, who recently took over command of the French police.

ASK ORDINANCE FOR CUTTING OF RAGWEED IN CITY

The city council health committee yesterday ordered the corporation counsel's office to draw up an ordinance requiring property owners to cut ragweed on their grounds between July 1 and July 15, and Aug. 1 and Aug. 15 to reduce the hay fever menace. Violators would face fines ranging from $5 to $200.

The proposed ordinance was submitted by Ald. Frank J. Keenan [49th], a hay fever sufferer, who said he was acting in the interests of 150,000 fellow sufferers. The committee's meeting was open to the public, but only two citizens appeared.

One observer suggested that civilian defense workers be directed to cut down the ragweed, a proposal previously made but discouraged by Mayor Kelly, who said defense workers already had enough work to do. Ald. Joseph C. Ross [40th], committee chairman, likewise opposed the proposal, as did Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works. Hewitt said he doubted ragweed cutting was a matter of national defense.

SIGNING OF PLEDGES TO CONSERVE TIRES WILL START TODAY

Springfield, Ill., June 12 (AP).—The first campaign of its kind will be launched here tomorrow, when motorists will be asked to pledge themselves "honor bright" to conserve tires by four principal methods outlined on the pledge cards.

Harold W. Prehn, chairman of the war transportation committee for Springfield, said the plan is devised to forestall gas rationing in this area.

Motorists, in signing the pledge, agree to:

Reduce passenger car mileage in 1942 by 50 per cent under last year.

Reduce speed by half and refrain from driving more than 40 miles an hour, limiting vacation and nonessential driving to 10 per cent of the total mileage driven in 1942.

Share car with fellow workers and neighbors.

Coöperate in any staggering of working hours to relieve peak traffic.

Motorists signing the pledge will receive a small card and automobile sticker proclaiming: "Honor bright, Uncle Sam, I will conserve my tires."

Gov. Green signed the first pledge and asked all state employés to enroll.

EASTERN ALASKA HIGHWAY SCORED AS 'VALUELESS'

Engineer Tells Senators Route Inaccessible.

Washington, D. C., June 12 (AP).—A member of the Alaska international highway commission told a senate foreign relations subcommittee today that an eastern overland route to Alaska, ordered by the Canadian-American joint defense board, was inaccessible, valueless for defense, and "an economic and engineering monstrosity."

Appearing in behalf of a western coastal route which he helped plan, Donald McDonald, an Alaskan engineer for 28 years, asserted that a highway close to the sea would be "far more strategic" as a supply line to Alaska and for enabling defense against enemy invasion.

The subcommittee, considering a resolution by Sen. William Langer [R., N. D.] requesting a senate inquiry to determine if "real reason exists" for the eastern or so-called "C" highway, was informed by McDonald that "the future of this country may well depend on the location of an Alaskan supply line.

World's Strategic Center.

"Alaska," McDonald declared, "is the most strategic point in the world. If an enemy once took control there he could dominate this continent as well as the entire civilized world."

McDonald explained that the proposed coastal or "A" route from Prince George, B. C., to Fairbanks, Alaska, could be built more economically, and that fighter planes, operating from potential fields along the highway, could better resist naval invasion than if either of two other routes were built.

The eastern route, which would start at Dawson Creek, he added, would be 400 miles from the coast. Planes operating from two fields along this highway, he contended, would have a range of but 500 miles and would be "valueless" against a coastal invasion.

Opposes Central Route.

Further, he said, Alaska's main supply base at Seattle is only 600 miles from Prince George but about 1,900 miles from Dawson Creek.

A proposed central or "B" route, McDonald continued, would be "equally as inaccessible and costly" to construct as the "C" route.

Langer's resolution requesting the inquiry stated that the route selected by the joint defense board "confers great peacetime commercial benefits on certain Canadian corporate interests" and is "enabling these interests to monopolize present and future rail and air transport facilities."

"The Canadian Pacific railroad," McDonald told the subcommittee, "has had years of experience in Canadian politics and it knows how to handle things."

YOUTHS 18 AND 19 TO SIGN DRAFT ROLL THIS MONTH

Four Day Registration Will Begin June 26.

Registration for the newest draft class, the young men of 18 and 19 who were recently made eligible for selective service by act of congress, will be held in Illinois from June 26 thru June 30.

Announcement of the registration was made yesterday by Paul G. Armstrong, Illinois director of selective service. Men who have become 20 since Dec. 31, and who have not yet registered for the draft, also will sign up.

Armstrong estimated that the new class will draw 288,000 in Illinois. This number includes an estimated 132,480 in Chicago and 25,920 in the suburban areas of Cook county, making the total for the county 158,400.

Total to Reach 1,582,345.

On the basis of selective service estimates the expected registration will run up Cook county's total to 1,582,345 since the first registration of Oct. 16, 1940. This would be broken down into 1,337,139 for Chicago and 245,206 for the suburban areas.

Armstrong said that registrants will sign up in the draft board offices of their neighborhoods, instead of at public schools, as was done in previous registrations. In rural areas where one board may cover a wide district, special registration places will be established.

Draft board offices will be open from 9 a. m. until 6 p. m. on June 26 and 27; from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. on June 29, and from 7 a. m. to 9 p. m. on June 30. There will be no registration on Sunday, June 28.

Negroes Take Air Exams.

Twenty-four young Negro men, all enrolled in the Civilian Pilot Training program at the Coffey School of Aeronautics, yesterday took the cadet examinations to qualify for training as flyers with the army air force. They were given the tests by Maj. Floyd M. Showalter, president of the army aviation cadet examining board, in his office, room 283, of the United States courthouse.

Upon completion of army training the successful candidates will be sent to the all Negro 99th squadron, or to other squadrons of Negro flyers which may be formed. Seven of the cadet applicants have already completed their primary and secondary training of the CPTP program, under the direction of Miss Willa Brown, director of the Coffey school.

All Are Guests at Rally.

They are Simeon Brown, 5440 Indiana avenue; Norman Gray Jr. and Joseph Hamilton, 5450 Indiana avenue; Wilbur Long, 5340 Michigan avenue; Walter Robinson, 5520 Prairie avenue; Mansfield Session, 3763 Wabash avenue, and Lavoisier Thornton, 620 East 40th street.

Last night all were guests at a rally for army aviation cadet enlistment at the Wabash avenue YMCA, Pershing road and Wabash avenue. Mrs. Marva Trotter Louis, wife of the heavyweight champion, who is community air force advisor for her district, was chairman. Maj. Showalter spoke.

Deb Is Bride

BETTY CORDON.

New York, June 12 (AP).—The marriage of Betty Cordon, New York's "glamor debutante of 1941," to army Pvt. Robert S. Saalfield Jr., of Akron, O., three months ago was announced today by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Windley Cordon of Park avenue.

Betty made her debut in 1941 at the debutantes' ball in her native city of Raleigh, N. C., and also at an afternoon reception at her family's apartment here last December. Saalfield, a grandson of the late Henry Manton of Akron, left Princeton university last February in his senior year to enlist. Further details of their marriage were not made known. Saalfield is at Mitchel field with the interceptor command.

ACCUSE TRUCKER OF CONTEMPT IN DIVORCE CASE

Sidney J. Williams, trucking magnate who was divorced June 2, has five days in which to answer contempt charges brought yesterday in Superior court by his former wife, Emma, also operator of a trucking company, who lives at 10442 Oakley avenue.

Attorney Joseph M. Scanlon said Williams has failed to fulfill the $75,000 property settlement agreed upon and that he has annoyed and harassed her, particularly between the hours of 2:30 and 5 a. m., by phone. He alleged his client has been brought to the point of nervous collapse by these tactics. Judge Rudolph Desort ordered Williams to answer his ex-wife's charges within five days.

DECISIVE BATTLE OF LIBYA BEGINS IN TOBRUK AREA

Armored Units Clash; Axis Girds for Drive.

CAIRO, Egypt, June 12 (AP).—The decisive battle for eastern Libya was developing tonight in heavy conflicts of armored units on the approaches to Tobruk.

Freed of the menace of Bir Hacheim, southern anchor of the allied desert line from which a "Free French" garrison was withdrawn Wednesday night, Axis Marshal Erwin Rommel was massing tanks and dive bombers for a showdown thrust north and east.

All day yesterday his advanced armored units fought with the British 8th army some 30 miles southeast of Tobruk and somewhat east of a line between Bir Hacheim and Harmat. Harmat, which the British wrested back from the axis last week, is six miles south of the desert crossing of camel tracks called Knightsbridge, scene of much earlier fighting.

Two Courses Open to Axis.

Eventually the German tanks turned north and west, and they last were seen between Harmat and Knightsbridge.

There appeared two immediate courses for Rommel—to try to smash frontally thru Knightsbridge and on to Tobruk, 25 miles distant, or to slash north for Acroma and endeavor to envelop the British and South African forces entrenched near El Gazala, on the sea end of the original Gazala-Hacheim line.

Axis supply lines were shortened and secured by the capture of Bir Hacheim, and Rommel was free now to concentrate in the main battle area behind the Gazala line.

Curiously enough, however, an Italian broadcast heard by Reuters news agency tonight said the axis offensive was not aimed at Tobruk or Egypt, but, instead, had the purpose of forestalling a British offensive due to start next month.

Tobruk at Full Strength.

In any event, the British armored forces in the Harmat area were reported to be very strong and the defenses of the Tobruk perimeter, which the axis found impenetrable last year, again are at full strength.

Most of the Bir Hacheim garrison fought out of the axis envelopment [despite axis claims of having taken 2,000 prisoners and having killed about 1,000 "Free French" and British troops].

In the last hours of the Bir Hacheim fight, axis dive bombers and fighters estimated as high as 120 swarmed over the "Free French" positions while German guns up to 9 inchers pounded the defenders.

Yesterday the RAF was in heavy action against the enemy motorized units around Knightsbridge, and other bombers hit hard far to the west, at Jalo and Antelat. The RAF also reported that "large fires" were started in the dockyard area at the Italian naval base of Taranto in a raid of Wednesday night, third of a series on that objective.

Italy Admits 2 Ships Lost.

ROME, June 12 [from Italian broadcasts]—(AP).—The Italians today announced the loss of two torpedo boats, one sunk by allied torpedoes and another by a floating mine.

[Destroyer and torpedo boat classes are loosely distinguished in Italian naval circles and the British news agency Reuters interpreted the Rome broadcast as a reference to destroyers.]

A thrust by British armored units north of Bir Hacheim, Libya, was reported smashed by an Italian division, whose artillery was said to have destroyed a large number of tanks. The high command also said the RAF bombed the Italian naval base at Taranto last night for the fourth consecutive night. It listed 41 persons killed in the first three attacks.

Five Ships Sunk, Say Germans.

BERLIN, June 12 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—German U-boats in the eastern Mediterranean have sunk a 6,000 ton transport and two steamers totaling 4,000 tons, the German high command reported today. The communique said two sailing cargo ships also were sunk.

FIRE ON SWEDISH FREIGHTER PERILS CARGO OF COFFEE

New York, June 12 (AP).—The American Swedish News exchange today said fire broke out in the 5,294 ton Swedish freighter Uruguay when she arrived in Swedish waters but that most of the cargo, including 174 tons of coffee, the first to reach Sweden in many months, was saved. The ship was damaged only slightly.

The exchange previously had announced that the Uruguay, carrying cotton and cottonseed oil, had arrived in Gotenburg.

Sweden also announced that its third coastal submarine of a new secret type, displacing 367 tons, had been launched at the Karlskrona shipyards.

BELIEVES RUSSIA HAS THE KEY TO LENGTH OF WAR

German morale still is good and will remain so until the Nazis suffer a major military defeat, Hugo Speck, newspaper man who returned to the United States last week in a prisoner exchange agreement, said at an executives' club luncheon yesterday.

He said the length of the war depends on what Russia does in the next few months.

"If Hitler is not successful in defeating Russia this year the war might be over by the fall of 1943," Speck said. "I don't look for a victory this year, for Hitler still has the greatest war machine ever created."

WOMAN KILLED BY TRAIN.

Mrs. Rolla Mith, 39 years old, 1108 Summer street, Hammond, was killed yesterday when she fell in front of a Nickel Plate railroad train as she was hurrying across the tracks near her home.

HITLER STEPS UP POLITICAL DRIVE IN MIDDLE EAST

Timed with Crimean, Libyan Thrusts.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 12.—Possible political repercussions from a gigantic German pincers movement which seems to be developing from Libya and the Crimea to the Caucasus and middle east is creating concern here. None doubt that military operations in these areas would have an effect on the Arab, Afghan, Indian, and possibly the Turkish populations.

In anticipation of military developments Hitler already has prepared the political field. Recently he had several interviews with the former grand mufti of Jerusalem, and Rashid Ali, former premier of Iraq, and in the presence of Joachim von Ribbentrop conferred at length at his headquarters with Subhas Chandra Bose, Indian rebel.

Arab broadcasts from axis territory have been proclaiming for weeks that the hour of liberation is at hand. Bose has urged his followers and the Indian people to revolt against British rule and expel the British as a necessary preliminary to independence for India.

The difficulties of the Iraq government are intensified by axis propaganda thru the agents of Rashid Ali and the former grand mufti.

Underground Movement Begun.

Couriers from these Arab rebel leaders are going regularly to Palestine and Iraq via Turkey and Syria with detailed instructions. A big underground movement has been created with networks spreading over the Arabian peninsula.

The undercurrent of unrest in Arabia is responsible for the reassurance which the British government had to repeat this week regarding Arab rights in Palestine. In Arabia the former grand mufti's agents are declaring that Hitler has recognized the rights and independence of the Arabs and are distributing thousands of copies of a photograph of Hitler with the mufti to back up the statement.

The "Free India" radio, under Bose's control, has been telling the Indian people that they have everything to gain by allying themselves with the tripartite powers, which are said to be willing to recognize Indian independence once the British have withdrawn from India.

The movement which Mohandas Gandhi is threatening to initiate does not conflict with the policy. Gandhi and Jawaharlal Nehru are asking that the British withdraw from India, according to today's information, under threat of a new civil disobedience movement if they refuse.

Next Move Up to India.

In the house of commons yesterday L. S. Amery, secretary for India, reaffirmed the government's decision not to take the initiative in reopening negotiations with the Indian leaders on the political situation, which leaves matters at the point stated by Sir Stafford Cripps: That Britain has now taken over the complete military defense of India but is leaving the next move toward settlement of political differences up to the Indian leaders.

The delicate diplomatic situation in Turkey seems unlikely to be improved by the latest military developments in the Crimea and the Caucasus. Her increasing isolation can be a powerful weapon in the hands of Franz von Papen, who has just conferred with the Turkish president in a persistent campaign to win Turkey from its position of strict neutrality. Even if rumors of a secret understanding between Germany and Turkey are false, yet the uneasiness naturally increases as the German campaign develops.

Latest reports from the Afghan capital indicate that proaxis elements are showing more activity there also.

BRITISH KING TELLS INDIA WAR IMPEDES PLANS FOR FREEDOM

NEW DELHI, India, June 12 (AP).—King George VI., in a message broadcast by his brother, the duke of Gloucester, told India today that the "long and bitter war" had "inevitably impeded the fulfilment of my hopes for the progress of India along paths of peace and freedom."

The duke, personal aid-de-camp to the king, has just completed an inspection of United States forces in India.

The king's message added:

"Your task is a hard one and, altho we are bringing you all help in our power, the dangers that beset you are many. You will meet them, I know, with the courage and determination that have marked the pages of India's history. With all my heart I pray that out of this common peril you may draw inspiration to overcome impediments that spring from distrust and to lay deep and enduring foundations of good will on which the destiny of India may safely rest."

RAID AXIS SHIPS OFF HOLLAND, 2 OUT OF 4 BOMBED

LONDON, June 12 (AP).—Two American made Hudson bombers, flown by Canadians, damaged two axis vessels in a convoy off Holland last night, the air ministry reported today.

One bomber scored at least three direct hits on the largest ship in the convoy, composed of four vessels. Hits on a smaller vessel were made by the other plane.

Military quarters said continued bad weather prevented the royal air force, for the third consecutive night, from attacking Germany. This evening a few enemy aircraft dropped bombs near the east coast of England, causing a small number of casualties, it was announced.

REDS SMASH AT ADVANCING NAZIS IN KHARKOV AREA

Destroy 50 German Tanks at Sevastopol.

MOSCOW, June 13 [Saturday]—(AP).—Soviet armies of the Ukraine, bolstered by American-British pledges of a second European front, have counterattacked tank supported German forces advancing on the Kharkov front, the government announced early today.

Altho the communique dismissed the Kharkov front with one brief sentence, the operations there were on a major scale, and with the Germans on the offensive Hitler's long threatened summer campaign appeared rapidly developing.

On a second blazing front, red defenders of Sevastopol fought stubbornly yesterday against continuing Nazi assaults and were credited with destruction of 50 German tanks and damage to a dozen others.

Blast German Lines.

The German siege lines drawn taut about the Crimean naval base were blasted heavily by Russian artillery and during yesterday, the midnight communique said, 10 enemy batteries were smashed. In addition, it listed three Nazi infantry regiments and a squadron of cavalry as annihilated.

Striking back after seven days of relentless aerial and artillery pounding and almost unending assault, the army regulars, militia, and naval infantry who have held the Germans at bay around Sevastopol were said to have forced the Nazis to give ground in several sectors.

Red Star, the army newspaper, reporting heavy German losses in tanks, artillery and men, indicated the Russian counterthrusts had bitten well into some parts of the siege line.

Red Star said that despite the local improvement in the Russian positions around Sevastopol the situation there remained "extremely tense." It said the Germans were repulsed in some places at the very walls of Russian fortifications where they were mowed down with terrible losses by point blank artillery and machine gun fire.

Guerrillas Blow Up 13 Bridges.

In other places Black sea naval infantry and Red army troops were said to have taken a heavy toll of the Germans by pinning their advanced forces between flanking counterattacks.

Guerrillas operating behind the German lines in the Crimea were said to have blown up 13 bridges and done serious damage to the invaders' supply lines.

Meanwhile, behind their own lines, the Russians were preparing to handle the fresh flood of supplies to be received from the United States under the lend-lease agreement.

The Kirov railroad, connecting northern Russian ports with central Russia, was reported operating regularly despite German bombing.

Claim Gains at Kharkov.

BERLIN, June 12 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—German forces east of Kharkov have carried out successful attacks which are increasing in volume, the German high command reported today.

On the Sevastopol front, the high command communique said, attacks around numerous defense works of the Russians "gained ground in stubborn fighting. Repeated enemy counterattacks collapsed with heavy losses."

Several soviet attacks failed on the Volkhov front below Leningrad, the Germans said.

BODY RECOVERED FROM RIVER.

The body of Grady Glen, 51 years old, colored, of 9 East 38th street, one of two WPA workers washed to their death over a spillway in the north branch of the river at Argyle street last Monday, was recovered by police yesterday.

ASSERTS ALLIED INVASION WAITS ONLY FOR SHIPS

Claims Armies Match Defenders Now.

LONDON, June 12 (AP).—Ships are the crux of plans for the allied invasion of Europe and "when they are ready we are ready to invade," a naval informant declared tonight.

Armies far stronger in equipment and at least equal in training to those which hold western Europe for the Germans are ready to cross the English channel and the North sea, he said.

These forces, the naval observer said, will be preceded by an overwhelming air force, which by February, 1943, will outnumber the German air force, as now constituted in the west, by about 2½ to 1.

Promises Unexpected Blow.

"But," he added, "I can promise you the invasion will not come in the way everybody expects."

This source's insistence on the need for shipping to move an invasion army reflected the primary objection to the "invasion now" idea voiced by British military, naval, and air men during the past three months.

He pointed out, however, that with "shipping now on the way in Australia, America and Britain, and other shipping now planned, we can invade not only Europe but the Japanese islands."

Germans Bolster Defenses.

Apparently in anticipation of an allied invasion attempt, following the American-British-Russian accord of yesterday, German commanders of the occupation forces were reported bolstering their defenses along the channel coast. British sources said the Germans were erecting new machine gun nests and anti-tank gun positions.

The heavy guns which the Germans have brought up from France's dismantled Maginot line to stop an invasion were reported manned day and night by full crews.

Gen. Von Reeder, chief of the German military administration in Belgium, proclaimed heavy penalties for any one encouraging a state or resistance.

Build New Railways, Forts.

Under Albert Speer, Nazi minister for armaments and munitions, work crews were said to be building a new network of railways in supporting areas of the Low Countries and northern France.

Preparing a system of defense in depth, they were reported converting farm houses and buildings into pillboxes and fortifications.

20 FREIGHT CARS DERAILED.

U.S. FLYING TIGERS SCORE 9 TO 0 AIR TRIUMPH IN CHINA

Account for Half of Jap Raiding Planes.

CHUNGKING, June 12 (AP).—The Flying Tigers and their shark-nosed combat planes entered the battle of China proper today, scoring a nine to nothing victory over a Japanese force of 18 bombers and fighters sent to raid Kweilin, a southern Chinese base, a communique announced.

This triumph, considered merely one of many surprises in store for the enemy in the Chinese skies, served to offset in part the Chinese high command's announcement that Chuhsien, railway town and air station in western Chekiang province, had been lost.

Kweilin, capital of Kwangsi province, has been under almost daily bombardment by Japanese airmen in the widespread campaign to soften Chinese communications and bases thruout south central China. Kweilin is known for its natural caves, now handy as air raid shelters. One of them can hold upwards of 30,000 persons.

Seasoned in Battles.

Evidently the AVG [American volunteer group], seasoned in the battles of Burma and the Burma road and minor actions over French Indo-China and Kwangtung province, has been assigned to curb the Japanese campaign. On July 4 the Flying Tigers will become a part of the United States army air force.

The Chinese abandoned the "utter ruins" of once walled Chuhsien Wednesday morning, it was announced, but only after a nine day battle in which the defenders inflicted more than 18,000 casualties.

Apart from the high price exacted, the loss of Chuhsien was tempered by official reports that Chinese infiltration forces, including guerrillas, operating well behind the enemy's Chekiang front, had recaptured Pukiang and Iwu, along with several other places while still others were held under Chinese siege or harassment.

Iwu is a station on the Chekiang-Kiangsi railway about halfway between Chuhsien and the Hangchow terminus, 160 miles to the northeast, while Pukiang lies about 20 miles northwest of Iwu.

Intercept Jap Forces.

Japanese forces were credited by the Chungking command today with breaking into Changshan, west southwest of Chuhsien, on Tuesday and with a continued drive in the direction of Yushan, 10 miles inside the border of neighboring Kiangsi province. Somewhere west of Changshan, however, the foe was intercepted and the battle still raged at latest reports.

The Chinese acknowledged, too, that the Japanese had taken Tengpu, in Kiangsi, which narrowed the gap on the Chekiang-Kiangsi railway, between the enemy's westward driving Chekiang forces and his eastward driving Kiangsi columns to little more than 100 miles.

The Chekiang-Kiangsi fighting has centered on the railway. Hangchow and the opposite terminus, Nanchang, have been in Japanese hands for about four years with the Japanese never before controling more than the terminal section of the 450 mile line.

IROQUOIS CHIEFS SIGN RESOLUTION OF WAR ON AXIS

Syracuse, N. Y., June 12 (AP).—The new world's oldest democracy today moved nearer a formal state of war with the axis, as Indian chiefs of the Iroquois confederacy voted to join the united nations in battle.

A council of chiefs signed a resolution urging a tribal declaration of war by the confederacy's six nations against Germany, Italy, Japan, and their allies. The actual declaration awaits approval of all tribal chiefs of the nations—Onondaga, Mohawk, Cayuga, Seneca, Tuscarora, and Oneida—at a conference July 18.

The six chiefs who signed the document left for Washington, where Monday they expect to present their resolution for President Roosevelt's approval, and appear before the house of representatives.

BERLIN, June 12 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—The Ankara radio, correcting an earlier report, broadcast an official satement tonight that three large British bombers landed in Ankara airport today and that a fourth crashed near the city, the Berlin radio said.

The pilots [whose nationality was not given] were quoted as saying they were chased across the Black sea from the Sevastopol front by German fighters. The planes were reported seized and the crewmen interned.

The earlier report had identified the planes as American.

RAINS KEEP WAR UNDER COVER ON INDIA-BURMA LINE

Tells of Perilous Trip Over Mountains.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ON THE ASSAM-BURMA FRONTIER, June 11 [Delayed].—The monsoon has begun along the Burmese frontier and I have had a taste of what the armies operating in this part of the world will face for the next four months.

Assam [easternmost province of India] is not yet really getting the full benefit of the rains, but less than a hundred miles from here the whole countryside is sopping.

Along 150 miles of road we averaged 12 miles an hour in a passenger car, but even that speed was hazardous. The narrow, slippery roads here hang onto the sides of mountains and during the heavy rains tons of rocks hurtle down upon them.

The roads are a long, weary succession of hairpin bends with never a straight stretch of more than 200 yards. Dotting the gorges along the way are trucks whose drivers miscalculated in negotiating the turns.

Part of Supply Route.

The road I traveled was to have linked with the Burma road near Mandalay after Rangoon fell and so form a new supply line to China. The Japanese cut the route before the road ever was completed, but it is still one of the few routes available for supplying advanced British forces.

Military operations are not impossible in the monsoon season, but are limited both in type and size. Nobody could hope to use mechanized forces to supply large armies in north Burma or the Assam frontier region during the monsoon. The dangerous weather and bad visibility cut air activity to a minimum. The American army air force has announced the loss of four bombers from the weather, which is double all their previous losses in operations from India.

Wide Area Under Water.

There is a low country beyond the hills along the Chindwin river and during the monsoon, most of it is under water.

In all this part of the world—most of the territory eastward from Calcutta—boats are about the only means of transportation during the monsoon. The railways function with periodic interruptions, but the roads are virtually useless. Heavy truck traffic soon knocks them out. Airfields are soggy and swampy.

Driving along the road we halted twice while big American bulldozers pushed mounds of earth and rock off the road so we could pass.

Mud Oozes onto Road.

In dozens of places great masses of mud, studded with big rocks, oozed slowly down onto the road. Once we had to work half an hour moving rocks and filling holes so that the car could creep around a slide. Farther on cracks showed where the road itself was beginning to slide away.

This was no area for large scale blitz tactics and the torrents of rain that will beat down on it thruout the summer will forestall any lightning drives. It still is possible for infantry and cavalry to operate and aircraft to function spasmodically. Allied forces here are taking no chances on an enemy surprise, despite the weather.

GREEKS, MORE CZECHS EXECUTED BY NAZIS FOR SABOTAGE ACTS

LONDON, June 12 (AP).—An Italian-German communique issued in Athens announced the execution of an unspecified number of Greek hostages after an attempt to sabotage a railway near Athens, Exchange Telegraph reported today in a dispatch from Istanbul, Turkey.

The German controled Prague radio announced tonight that 18 more Czechs had been executed, bringing the reprisal total to 358 since the fatal wounding of Reinhard Heydrich by Czech patriots. This total did not count the persons killed when all males in the town of Lidice, estimated at 350, were shot.

Ten were executed in Prague and eight in Brunn, the announcement said. Two were women.

BRITONS' LETTERS SAY JAPS TREAT PRISONERS WELL

But Dog Meat Is Delicacy at Hongkong Camp.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 12.—Four thousand British officers and men in a prison camp at Hongkong are well treated, according to two uncensored letters, one written by an escaped prisoner and another smuggled out to relatives here by other means. Extracts from these letters were released by the Red Cross and the St. John war organization.

"Food Getting Much Better."

An officer who escaped from Hongkong Feb. 1 writes from India that "the food is getting much better," but another letter which reached here from Hongkong and was written Feb. 2 says, "We are being treated very well except from the food viewpoint, which is bad," and adds, "Sometimes we manage to catch a dog, which nearly resembles mutton."

This letter complained that prisoners are only getting two bowls of rice daily and just recently managed to get beans as a supplement, so dog meat is regarded as a delicacy.

Fund with Paymaster.

The prisoners were allowed to take what they liked into the camp provided they could carry it themselves, and the army paymaster took a large sum of money which is being eked out daily for necessities, one letter says.

The other partly corroborated this. "Contacts outside the wire [presumably referring to the fence] are able to sell us a few things like sugar and tins of milk, so on the whole we could do a lot worse," the letter says.

Both writers ask their relatives not to worry about them as the treatment is good and the food "sufficient and definitely on the up and up."

CLAIM BRITISH GET READY FOR DRIVE IN MADAGASCAR

VICHY, France, June 12 (AP).—The British army in Madagascar has withdrawn from the "dead end" Antalaha road in an apparent move to mass its forces at Ambilobe for an expected southern push down the west coast of the huge French island in the western Indian ocean, French sources reported today. Antalaha is about 200 miles down the east coast from the British occupied Diego Suarez naval base. Ambilobe is 75 miles southwest of the base.

The withdrawals were reported completed by evacuations of Sahambava and Vohemar, occupied during clean up operations by the motorized column that penetrated to Antalaha on June 6. The French said they believed the operations were undertaken to protect the British rear at Ambilobe when the British turn westward for a move against Majunga, on the west coast.

[The official French radio at Tananarive, capital of Madagascar, announced British planes had machine gunned airdromes at Majunga.]

New York, June 12 [Special].—Mothers of sons or daughters killed in military or naval service during the present war are now eligible for membership in the American Gold Star Mothers, Inc., following amendment of the organization's constitution at the closing session of its national convention today. Signaling the convention's welcome to all bereaved mothers of the present war, Mrs. Emma Balcom, retiring president, initiated Mrs. Rita Wilson of New York, whose only son, Bernard, 21 years old, was killed at Pearl Harbor.

Tells of Revenge

Hackensack, N. J., June 12 (AP).—Psychiatrists were called today to examine Mrs. Beatrice Schepps, 38 years old, who, Prosecutor John J. Breslin said, admitted drowning her 8 year old stepdaughter, Beverly, to avenge her husband's "mental cruelty."

The child's body was found yesterday in a half filled bath tub in the Fair Lawn home of Sol Schepps, 46, a Paterson furrier. The child had come home to bathe and change for a school party. Breslin said Mrs. Schepps related she held the child under water for nearly an hour, at first face up, then face down.

After questioning the woman, Breslin stated:

"She said the reason she drowned the child was to hurt her husband, who, she said, had been very mean and cruel to her. She said he never struck her or inflicted any physical pain, but his mental cruelty caused her to conclude that the best way to hurt him was to kill the child he loved so dearly."

Schepps married his second wife 18 months ago. His first wife died four years ago.

Corean Regime in Exile Asks Allied Recognition

CHUNGKING, China, June 12 (AP).—The Corean provisional government, which is working here to organize revolt in Corea against Japan, appealed tonight to the united nations for recognition. Its foreign minister, Tso Jo-wang, said in an address that Corea wanted to take her place as the 28th united nation. China permits the provisional government to operate here but does not accord recognition.

ASSERTS FLYERS IN RAID ON TOKIO LANDED IN CHINA

Reports 11 Pass Thru Cairo on Way to U. S.

New York, June 12 (AP).—Leslie Nichols, correspondent for radio station W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting System, has reported in a broadcast from Cairo, Egypt, that at least some of the United States planes which raided Tokio and other Japanese cities on April 18 landed in China, Mutual headquarters announced tonight.

Nichols said that 11 pilots, including several wounded, of the 79 who participated in the raid with Brig. Gen. James H. Doolittle had now passed thru Cairo en route home from China.

First Hint of China Landing.

His statement that these 11 had landed in China after the raid was the first public hint regarding this phase of the operation. Their starting place has been a strictly kept secret. The statement was made in a broadcast Wednesday night from Cairo which Lester Gottlieb, MBS public relations director, said had been withheld until tonight, when released by the office of censorship.

The pilots were reported returning home now in a sub-stratosphere bomber.

ALL REACHED DESTINATIONS.

Gen. Doolittle announced in Washington, D. C., on May 19 that all the raiding planes reached their destinations safely after blasting a path of fire and destruction thru Japan. He declined to discuss a Russian announcement that an American plane had landed in Russia shortly after the raid.

President Roosevelt said that Shangri-La, mythical Tibetan sanctuary portrayed in James Hilton's novel, "Lost Horizon," was the starting place of the raid. The axis radios, missing the point of the President's jest, solemnly broadcast later that they were unable to find Shangri-La on their maps.

Goebbels Threatens Britain with 'Worse Than Dunkirk'

BERLIN, June 12 [from German broadcasts]—(AP).—German Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, writing in the weekly Das Reich, has threatened Britain with "something worse than Dunkirk" if the united nations open a second front in Europe. The article, quoted by the German radio, said the civilian population must suffer bitterly from RAF raids, adding "but we can take it."

NAVY FLYERS K. O. 3 JAP CARRIERS IN TEN MINUTES

Their Part in Big Midway Battle Is Revealed.

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii, June 12 (AP).—Navy airmen, winging to the defense of Midway Island, set three Japanese airplane carriers aflame from stem to stern within 10 minutes and eliminated them from further operations.

This and other spectacular phases of the Midway action were described today by Commander Murr E. Arnold of Kimberly, Idaho, who led an aircraft carrier group against the enemy. His account of the battle also disclosed that the invasion fleet's closest approach to Midway was a point 125 miles offshore.

When the engagement ended, he said, the enemy had been chased back several hundred miles.

Arnold related:

"We found the enemy forces divided into two groups. One was a powerful force of four carriers, three battleships, and numerous cruisers and destroyers. The other force was several transports heavily loaded with troops to occupy Midway.

"The striking force appeared to have launched an air attack on Midway June 4 from a point 200 miles away. Then the four carriers continued toward Midway to recover plane groups. It was estimated there were 200 Japanese planes in the attack.

Carriers Start Retreating.

"We received a report giving the position of the carriers. Our carriers launched an attack group to destroy the enemy carriers.

"We attacked at 12 o'clock. Ten minutes later three carriers were blazing from stem to stern. As soon as they were knocked out they started retreating.

"One of our dive bombers attacked a carrier just as its planes were going to take off. Another dive bomber aimed for the planes. The first bomb dropped by this second dive bomber hit the middle of the flight deck. Japanese planes were blown over the side. All the planes remaining on the carrier's deck commenced burning.

"These three carriers never took part in any further air operations during the battle. All were sunk within 24 hours.

Biggest Ships of Class.

"Two of these carriers were of the Kaga class and the Akagi class—Japan's biggest ships of this category, about 30,000 tons each. The third carrier was smaller, perhaps about 20,000 tons.

"These three carriers, as far as we know, had plane complements of 60 to 70 each and at least 1,500 personnel aboard each.

"Ensign Gay [George H. Gay of Houston, Tex., whose plane was shot down early in the fight and who saw the rest of the battle from the floating wreckage of his plane] observed this whole action and reported destroyers came alongside one carrier, rescuing personnel, while Japanese cruisers shelled one of the carriers.

"There is no doubt that two of the carriers were sunk that night.

"A fourth Jap carrier was in the area, but her exact position was not known at the time we attacked the other three. This fourth carrier launched an attack group against our carriers about 1:30 p. m. This was intercepted by our fighters some distance from our force.

Down 7 Jap Planes.

"Seven or eight Japanese dive bombers were shot down in this initial operation. It was a most spectacular sight. We could see them at 10,000 feet altitude burst into flame and then form plumes of black smoke downward to the sea.

"As far as we could ascertain only six or seven dive bombers got thru and released their bombs at our force.

"Not a single one of these got away. They were shot down by our anti-aircraft fire.

"During this action the Japanese battleships were 150 miles away. To the southwest of them was the occupation force of troop ships, in position to reach Midway two days after the initial raid.

Yanks Hit Own Plane.

"At 3:30 p. m. a second group of planes from the fourth Jap carrier attacked us. They were torpedo planes and Zeros. . . . We began launching fighters which went right thru the middle of the enemy fire.

"One of these fighter pilots was Ensign Milton Tootle, 22 years old, St. Joseph, Mo. He is one of the youngest and most inexperienced of the pilots. He had been on the carrier just five days.

"About a mile out Tootle picked up a Jap torpedo plane coming in. He rode the Jap's tail in to about 1,000 yards from our carrier and shot him down before he could release his torpedo.

"Almost immediately Tootle got hit by our own AA fire and his engine burst into flames. He zoomed and bailed out. Tootle landed in the ocean and was picked up by one of our destroyers.

They Return the Jap Visit!

"At 6 p. m. we returned the visit paid to us by the fourth Jap carrier. We left it burning and attacked it again on the morning of June 5. We are pretty sure that carrier never got back to Japan. It was about a 20,000 tonner.

"It is to be understood that the extreme damage done to the enemy was not accomplished solely by our carrier forces. Marine planes and army bombers based on Midway repeatedly struck enemy ships and continued to do so as long as they remained in range.

"Some came in during the torpedo attack on the Japs the morning of the 5th, when the Japs were completely knocked out.

"All our forces turned the morning of June 5 into a field day, knocking out Japanese battleships, cruisers, and destroyers. These started to retreat together, but soon got into smaller units scattered all over the ocean in wild retreat. It was the biggest surprise of the Japs' lives. They got smashed before they knew what hit them."

TELLS HOW MEN ON MIDWAY GOT IN THEIR PUNCHES

Gunners Kept Japs' Planes Falling.

BY ROBERT TRUMBULL.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii, June 12.—The United States marine corps officer who commanded a shore battery on Midway Island during the Japanese attempt to invade that base today told the part played by the leathernecks in that decisive battle. He is Capt. Jean H. Buckner, 28 years old, of Hanford, Cal.

Capt. Buckner, whose wife and son live in Chicago, described graphically the Nipponese aerial blitzing of Midway on June 4. He said the Japanese met with a hot reception and had suffered such severe ship losses that they made no other attack after the air raid except for one inconsequential shelling by a submarine.

Marine aircraft at Midway were informed late on June 3 that a Japanese fleet was approaching. Marine, navy, and army aircraft took off before dawn June 4 to intercept the attackers.

40-60 Planes in Attack.

Between 40 and 60 Japanese fighters and bombers attacked about 6:30 a. m.

Marine planes met the enemy at sea and a furious dogfight began. Marines ashore manned their batteries. The marines were tense with excitement. They had a clear view of the air battle. Four or five of the enemy were shot down and, as Capt. Buckner put it: "We sure felt good."

The Japanese formation then came in toward the island to drop its bombs. The marine anti-aircraft opened up and more Japanese planes fell. The rest dropped their bombs, then started dive-bombing and strafing Midway.

Marines Bag More Planes.

Of the attacking force, only about 20 enemy bombers got over the island and the marines' fire accounted for six or eight.

One enemy plane exploded in midair. Another crashed and burned on Sand Island. A third crashed on Eastern Island. Several fell into the lagoon between the two islands which comprise Midway.

Describing the attack, Capt. Buckner said:

"It was definitely hot. But their strafing wasn't as intense as we had expected. They tried to put our vital shore installations out of action and they created a terrific disturbance, but there was complete coöperation among our defenses.

"Our men were everything that could be expected of them. The Japs didn't bother them. They were ready to go and when the time came they went into action and stayed there full of fight."

Pilot Tells of Attack.

A young marine bomber pilot who snaked his badly damaged plane thru a deadly concentration of Japanese fighters during the Midway battle, made his first water landing, and then spent two days and nights on a leaking rubber life raft, discussed his adventure with a laugh today.

Before his mishap, the pilot, Capt. Richard L. Blain, 26 years old, of Miami, Fla., participated in an attack on the Japanese on June 4. Telling of that assault, he said:

"As we launched our attack the Japanese fighters were coming from all sides. I found it was not going to be easy to get back to Midway. Then my engine went dead for lack of fuel. However, I got it running by pushing my hand pump for about 35 minutes. Meanwhile, my radio-gunner, Pvt. First Class Gordon McFeely, was taking pot shots at the Zeros.

"Our luck did not last long. In about 30 minutes I was faced with the task of making my first water landing. Again luck held out and I set her down in one piece.

"The ship stayed afloat long enough for me to get out the float lights, first aid kit, rations, and rubber boat. After inflating the boat I found a Jap bullet had pierced it at the water level so that I couldn't patch it in a hurry.

Pumped to Keep Boat Afloat.

"The rubber boat still floated and we kept it inflated with our hand pump.

"The first day was not very exciting but a navy patrol spotted us on the second day. However, when a rescue plane was sent out we had drifted so far that it couldn't find us. The next day, a patrol plane found us and returned us to Midway.

HASN'T SEEN HIS SON.

Buckner's young wife, the former Helen Nelson of 7020 North Paulina street, now lives in Chicago at 1412 Chase avenue with their small son, David Nelson Buckner, 5 months old, whom the captain, since he was on Midway Island when the child was born, has never seen.

Mrs. Buckner said her husband is a native of Hanford, Cal.; that he was graduated from the University of California at Berkeley in 1935. He has been an officer in the marine corps for six years.

Mrs. Buckner said she met her husband in August, 1940, when she went to visit her sister, Jane, who is the wife of Capt. John P. Stafford of the marine corps. That meeting, she said, was in Cape May, N. J., and Buckner was then a lieutenant. They were married in Chicago on Feb. 3, 1941.

She said she received a message from him last Tuesday simply stating he was safe.

HOW U. S. ARMY FLYERS BLASTED JAPS AT MIDWAY

Fought Swarm of Zeros, Torpedoed Carriers.

BY CLARK LEE.

PEARL HARBOR, T. H., June 12 (AP).—"We just dodged between two cruisers, played leapfrog over the ack ack, went close into the Jap carrier and laid our torpedoes on her deck. It was all cut and dried."

The attack thus described by Capt. James F. Collins, 26 years old, of Meriden, Miss., actually was the most thrilling army airplane action in last week's battle for Midway Island.

It took place on the morning of June 4, within 200 miles of Midway. It was the first time in history that American army planes dropped torpedoes against a ship. The army planes recently were converted into torpedo carriers. Two of Capt. Collins' planes didn't get back, but one torpedoed another Japanese carrier before it crashed into the ocean.

500 Bullet Holes.

One of Capt. Collins' planes, piloted by Lieut. James B. Muri, 23, of Miles City, Mont., came home with 500 bullet holes in it.

Collins, Muri, and their crews flew in to attack the carrier thru a concentrated hell of "ack ack" fire from the entire Japanese battle fleet. Thruout their attack, Japanese fighters constantly dove on them in vicious swarms.

Two of Lieut. Muri's crew were wounded severely and for a while he was without protection from fighters until his co-pilot, Lieut. P. L. Moore of El Centro, Cal., crawled thru the plane, tended the wounded men and manned the tail gun.

Collins' third plane attacked a second Japanese carrier thru the heaviest anti-aircraft fire. Her torpedo crashed squarely into the carrier, but the American plane, after leapfrogging over the carrier's deck, was itself hit by anti-aircraft and crashed into the sea.

Sighted Enemy Fleet.

"We sighted the Jap fleet from about 20 miles," Collins said. "We saw three carriers, but possibly there were four. When we were about two miles from the outside ring of ships they opened with everything they had. The battleship fired its guns into the water, throwing up spray in an effort to halt us, but it was ineffective.

"We were almost on top of the enemy fleet before we picked out our target, a carrier, which was in the center of other ships. It was the biggest carrier there.

"The carriers already had their fighters in the air when they sighted us and just as we were going in those Zeros hit us. At least 30 Zeros were working on our two planes. My tail gunner got a piece of glass in his face from an explosive shell from a Zero. All those in Muri's plane except Muri and Moore were wounded and his guns were temporarily out of action.

"I had about 50 bullet holes in my plane. Twenty millimeter explosive shells were shaking us up.

Headed for Carrier.

"Those Japs stayed with us thruout the attack, flying right into their own 'ack ack.' We dodged between two cruisers and headed for the carrier, which was starting to circle at high speed.

"We let go our torpedoes. They both hit near the bow. We zoomed over the carrier deck and split up. I climbed as fast as possible for the clouds with six Zeros on my tail. My rear gunner, altho hurt, shot two of them down. One Japanese fighter exploded in the air and we saw the pilot take to his parachute. We finally shook off the fighters and headed for home."

Lieut. Muri, taking up the story, said, "I counted at least 50 fighters, and I am almost positive there were about 20 million of them. We wasted no time heading for home. We could see the Jap vessels burning from a hundred miles away."

Land Damaged Planes.

Lieut. Muri landed with one tire shot away. Collins landed on two wheels—the third having been shot off the tricycle landing gear. His plane nosed over, but no one was injured.

Collins' navigator, Lieut. Thomas W. Weems, 25, of Model, Tex., went thru the whole battle without seeing an enemy plane.

"One of the peculiarities of our plane," Collins explained, "is that the navigator can't see out."

Lost with General

Washington, D. C., June 12 (AP).—The army today announced its air force commander in Hawaii, Maj. Gen. Clarence L. Tinker, was lost in action in the battle of Midway Island five days ago.

Maj. Gen. C. L. Tinker.

As the beaten Jap fleet retreated from its disastrous attack on Midway, Tinker led a flight of army bombers from that Pacific outpost on June 7 to attack the enemy east of Wake Island. When last seen by men in other planes in his formation, the general's bomber was descending rapidly.

Tinker, 54 years old, was the first American air general reported lost in action since the war started, altho two previously died in accidents.

The crew of the missing plane included: Capt. Raymond D. Salzarulo, 28 years old, Richmond, Ind.; Capt. Coleman Hinton, address unavailable; First Lieut. Gimler H. Holton Jr., 24, Charlotte, N. C.; Second Lieut. Walter E. Gurley, 22, Davidson, N. C.; Sergt. Aaron B. Shank, 23, Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Corp. William J. Wagner, 28, Villanova, Pa.; Sergt. Franz Moeller, 37, Montgomery, Ala., and Sgt. George D. Scheid, 24, Salt Lake City.

PRESIDENT GETS FIRST LETTERS BY HIGH SPEED PLAN

Washington, D. C., June 12 (AP).—A new mail service to expedite delivery of mail to the armed forces was inaugurated today when President Roosevelt got the first letters. They were from Maj. Gen. James E. Chaney, commander of American forces in the united kingdom, and John G. Winant, American ambassador to Great Britain.

The service uses photographic copies of correspondence on microfilm, employing small, standardized combination envelopes and letter forms. This will permit tremendous savings in the poundage of mail and cargo space required.

Already 5,000,000 letter sheets have been sent to men in the services overseas and more are being printed for distribution. By June 15 small stocks will be available in 20 large city postoffices in this country for civilians wishing to write to service men. Postoffice officials said stocks would be distributed as rapidly as possible to all postoffices in the United States.

NELSON PREDICTS DAILY WAR COST OF 200 MILLIONS

Warns Public of Danger of Inflation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 12.—Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Production board, told a radio audience here tonight that by the end of this year America will be spending 200 million dollars a day in its war effort, enough to build three Panama canals every week. He warned that with this output of arms, there can be little production for civilians, that money will be plentiful and things to buy will be scarce.

"This means," Nelson continued, "there is very grave danger of steep spiral of rising prices. Unless we apply the proper restraints, we will have inflation.

Inflation Is Runaway Prices.

"What is inflation? Nothing but a continuing chain of runaway prices. If our prices spiral up in the midst of this war economy, they will sooner or later come down with a terrible crash.

"Some day this war will be over. If we have a crash when it ends, it's going to be awfully hard to pick up the pieces. As our boys come out of the army and navy we'll have no jobs for them. I honestly believe we could have an economic crack-up that our nation simply could not stand.

"Therefore, it is perfectly evident that the fight against inflation must go hand in hand with the fight against the axis itself.

"To dealers and consumers alike, I would like to say: abide by the price ceilings and rationing controls established by the office of price administration. It isn't 'smart' to go to the bootlegger, in wartime—not even if you can save a little money that way, or get a tire or a tankful of gasoline or an extra supply of groceries for your cupboard that way.

Violation Close to Treason.

"We're in a war, and violating these controls is close to treason. Don't have anything to do with it, and don't protect or countenance any one who does.

"It is our patriotic duty to do everything that we can to keep our economy on the rails while this war is being fought and won. To do that we are going to have to go without things; we are going to have to override what looks like our own individual selfish interest; we are going to have to make all kinds of acute personal sacrifices. From first to last, we are going to have to put our country's good ahead of our own."

TELLS HOW NAVY TORPEDO PLANES HIT JAP CARRIER

Flyer Describes Attacks on Enemy Fleet.

By the commander of an American torpedo plane squadron in the Coral sea battle, as told to Clark Lee.

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTHWESTERN PACIFIC (AP).—At 8 a. m. our scout planes loom out of an overcast sky and come aboard. Word quickly spreads thru the ship that they have sighted an enemy aircraft carrier and that we are to attack. The date is May 7.

In the room where the pilots of my squadron are seated with me around a large table the tension eases as we set to work plotting our courses and planning our method of attack.

The pilots' flying gear—gloves, life jackets, helmets — is beside their chairs. There is little conversation and I don't give any fight talk. Everybody knows what we are up against. We hear the fighters taking off above us. Then our turn comes and we walk up to the flight deck where our planes are waiting, already warmed up and with crews aboard.

Pilots Are Nervous.

The pilots are a little nervous as we take off, but once in the air they steady up quickly. We don't waste time getting into formation for gasoline may be precious. One circle and we are in line. I take the squadron up thru thick weather and we bee-line for our objective. After a while we break into perfect, clear weather.

At the point where we expected to contact the enemy there is nothing but unbroken sea beneath us. We continue steadily northward, hoping to find him before the shortage of gasoline forces us to turn back.

Finally I see specks which steadily grow into ships. We all have a new feeling of tenseness that lasts until we are actually in action. Then it disappears. Those few minutes of waiting for contact are undoubtedly the worst.

See Three Enemy Ships.

I take the squadron down fast. I see below only three enemy ships. They are steaming east, with a cruiser off each bow of the carrier and about four miles in advance of it. Very possibly there were other ships—destroyers and cruisers—in the enemy force, but if so I didn't see them.

We get lined up on the carrier and head straight for it. When we are still about 10 miles away the nearest cruiser opens on us. We see the reddish-orange flash of its guns and quickly change course. My heart does a half loop and seems to hang suspended and my breathing stops as I wait for the burst of the shells. Then there are black puffs a mile ahead of us and my heart flips back into normal flight position and I begin to breathe again.

The cruiser's second salvo is so close that we hear the "whaps" of the shells. We swing out away from his range.

My tail gunner shouts over the radio that two "97" fighters are after us. They square away and dive on us from our quarter, coming within 150 yards and then zooming away. To shake them we dodge back toward the cruiser, which again cuts loose. We are rid of them.

Cruisers Open Fire.

We are now about four miles from the carrier. Both cruisers open at us, firing their shells into the sea to throw columns of water up ahead of us.

Meanwhile the carrier has started a fast circle to its left, running for its life. It has completed about a quarter turn when our bombers suddenly dive on it. We don't see the bombers but we do see their bombs. The next few seconds are indescribable. One instant the carrier is intact. The next it is a shambles as bomb after bomb rips into its deck. Our bombers weren't aiming to miss.

A bomb smashes the carrier squarely just astern of midships. What must have been a heavy anti-aircraft gun mounting lobs lazily into the air and plops overside into the sea. Smoke streams out astern from this huge wound.

The carrier is still swinging to the left. We duck into the trailing smoke and I give the signal for our attack. We poke our noses thru the smoke and go in for the kill. A single anti-aircraft gun somewhere near the stern, is still firing, but the carrier is already badly wrecked, with smoke and flames everywhere.

I sight on the ship, release my "fish" and pull out. My plane jumps a little ahead as it is freed of the weight of the torpedo. My No. 2 plane releases, then soars over the stern. We bank sharply and watch for the explosions.

They come almost simultaneously—square hits amidships. The torpedoes throw up spouts of water. A puff of smoke comes up from the center of the water column. The splashes are different than near misses with bombs, where the water spatters in huge, wide splashes with heavy smoke and exploding gas shooting high into the air.

My other planes push home the attack. As we pull away the carrier already is beginning to settle even tho it is still turning. It completes three turns before stopping dead and going under.

Our job is done now, so we rendezvous and head for home. I count the planes. All there. Everything okay.

Chase Off Fighters.

At dusk six Japanese fighters mistake our carrier for one of theirs and come in to land. We open on them and chase them away. We know that we've been spotted and that there'll be more action tomorrow.

Next morning our scouts report three enemy carriers and a large force of other warships a considerable distance away, the enemy having changed course during the night. Our commanders decide to attack despite the distance and again we take off.

Going in we fly over one cruiser but he fails to fire at us, apparently believing we are members of his own force. We duck into a cloud and come out just astern the carrier. It spots us and swings into a sharp right turn, opening with all its guns. The "ack ack" bounces us around a bit but doesn't stop us.

Fighters Attack Plane.

I see two fighters, one a Messerschmitt and the other a Zero, attacking a single plane of our squadron, chasing it right down to the surface. But our pilot keeps going until he maneuvers into position and releases his torpedo in a quartering shot.

The carrier looms up. Its planes are gone and we know they are over attacking our home carrier. That means we've got to hit him. The carrier shows signs of having been hit a few minutes before by our bombers. But it is not smoking much. This ship is even bigger than the one we sank yesterday and both are of the biggest, newest Jap types. We cut loose our fish and they catch him under the stern. The whole ship staggers and is obviously badly hit. We didn't see him go down, but others of our planes hit him later and left him even more badly crippled.

BRITISH CERTAIN U. S. HAS JAPS' FLEET ON RUN

Call Coral Sea Battle Great News.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 13 [Saturday].—The United States navy department communique on the outcome of the Coral sea battle is convincing Britishers that America is at last gaining the initiative in Pacific waters and has the Japanese fleet backing off. Altho so far there has been little indication in the British press that a war of any great size is going on in the Pacific, this morning's London newspapers give a big play to the story of the Coral sea battle as told from Washington, D. C.

Streamer headlines, of which the Daily Mail's "Victory in Coral Sea" and the Daily Sketch's "How American Navy Avenged Pearl Harbor" are typical and indicate the significance given the news here. The headlines are backed up by editorial comment enthusiastically welcoming the communique.

Hopeful for Midway.

"This is great news," says the News Chronicle, expressing the hope that the outcome of the Midway battle will be equally encouraging. "Until now," the paper says, "the Japanese had it all their own way in the Pacific. But clearly the American navy is getting into its stride. There are good reasons for believing that the tide of fortune in the far east is definitely on the turn."

Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express under the heading "Salute" says: "The Americans held their hand in the announcement, with the result that the Japanese were caught on the hop in attacking Midway Island. These are two disasters for the Japs and we cordially welcome the same."

Sees New Phase of War.

Altho the paper does not comment editorially, the Daily Herald's air correspondent, A. B. Austin, sees the result of the battle as opening a new phase of the war in the Pacific. Until the Japanese can build up their sea and air strength again, they may have to keep on the defensive, he suggests, and concludes:

"If the Americans can seize this chance to take the offensive against Japan, the Midway Island battle may prove to have been the turning point in the Pacific war."

HULL CONDEMNS NAZI TERRORISM TOWARD CZECHS

Washington, D. C., June 12 (AP).—Secretary of State Cordell Hull scathingly condemned tonight the brutal vengence visited by Nazi Germany on the Czecho-Slovakian village of Lidice, which the Nazis alleged had harbored the assassins of Reinhard Heydrich, reichsprotector of Bohemia.

"This latest example of mass terrorization thru wanton butchery of hostages and brutal torture of innocent women and children," Hull said, "has shocked and outraged humanity. Savage tribes at times followed such vile practices, but quickly turned away from them as being so utterly inhuman and beastly as to be unworthy even of savages."

The village reportedly was wiped out, all the adult male inhabitants being executed and the women and children deported.

MAKE APPEAL TO HULL.

Aroused by the Nazi massacres in the Czech village of Lidice, the Czecho-slovak National Council of America yesterday appealed to Secretary of State Cordell Hull to put an end, if possible, to "the unbearable terror in Czecho-Slovakia." The council, with headquarters here, represents 300,000 Czechs and Slovaks thruout the United States.

J. J. Zmrhal, president of the council, said a flag of mourning will be raised in the council quarters at 4049 West 26th street today in memory of those slain in Lidice.

CAPT. M'INTYRE, HEROIC CHICAGO FLYER, IS KILLED

Family Told of Accident in the Pacific.

Relatives of Capt. Patrick W. McIntyre, Chicago born flyer who was one of the great heroes of the fighting in the Philippines, were notified yesterday that he had been killed June 5 in an accident in the Pacific war theater. There was no indication of the nature of the accident, but the war department telegram made it plain the captain's death was not caused by enemy action.

Capt. Patrick McIntyre

On March 31 an award of the distinguished flying cross was made, on the recommendation of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, to Capt. McIntyre. The exploit that won him the honor was narrated by Col. Eugene L. Eubank, head of the United States bomber command in Australia.

Helps Sink Cruiser.

McIntyre was in charge of one of eight flying fortresses that flew on Jan. 7 from a base in Java to Davao on the island of Mindanao, 1,300 miles away, to sink a Jap cruiser and several small boats. The flight was made without any escort of fighter planes.

Another factor against the bombers was their difficulty in taking off from the primitive hidden airport in Java, and correspondents related at the time that getting the great planes off the mud soaked turf was almost a miracle.

Football Star at Tilden.

Capt. McIntyre, 29 years old, was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick William McIntyre of 3032 Cheltenham place. He attended Tilden Technical High school, where he played on the football team, and later went to Purdue university. He enlisted in the air service soon after his graduation in 1935. He was sent to the Philippines last October.

Surviving the captain are his widow, the former Willo Henne of Bayport, Mich., and an infant daughter. A requiem high mass as a memorial to the flying hero will be celebrated in St. Bride's church at 9 a. m. Tuesday.

8 ARMY FLYERS DIE AS BOMBER CRASHES IN BAY

2 Saved from Wreck of 4 Motor Ship.

Sarasota, Fla., June 12 (AP).—Eight army flyers were killed today and two were injured when a four engine bomber crashed into Sarasota bay.

Maj. Gardiner Fiske, intelligence officer at the Sarasota air base, said the plane had cleared the runway on a predawn training flight and gone about a mile when it went out of control.

It landed on its back in a foot and a half of water 200 feet from shore. Two of the crew were pulled from the wreckage with minor injuries.

Victims Are Identified.

Those killed were identified as Second Lieut. James H. Butler, Luxora, Ark.; Second Lieut. Hugh L. Kelley, Plattsburg, N. Y.; Second Lieut. Alfred J. Wilkerson, Notasulga, Ala.; Sergt. Robert S. Fulton, Hugo, Okla.; Corp. Jesse H. Greer, Bogue Chitto, Miss.; Corp. James R. Gee, Cleveland, Tenn.; Pvt. Edwin J. Clark, New York City, and Rosser H. Dilley, Yale, Okla.

The survivors were identified as Second Lieut. J. E. Hansma, 812 Alexander street, Grand Rapids, Mich., and Pvt. John S. Stratton, Tacoma, Wash.

Two Die in Desert Crash.

Washington, D. C., June 12 (AP).—The war department announced today that Sergt. Keen S. Hallenback, 21 years old, Saugerties, N. Y., and Sergt. Leon M. Jones, 30 years old, of Gouverneur, N. Y., were killed yesterday when their training plane crashed and burned near the army desert training center at Indio, Cal.

HINT JAPS' FLEET COMMANDER MAY HAVE TO END LIFE

Washington, D. C., June 12 (AP).—The United States navy threw out a hint tonight that Adm. Isoroku Yamamoto, commander in chief of the Japanese fleet, may have to commit hara-kiri as a result of the Japanese setbacks in the Coral sea and off Midway.

It was recalled that Yamamoto was cited in an imperial rescript at Tokio a few weeks ago for a Japanese "victory" in the Coral sea. The Japanese boasted they had sunk or damaged a dozen American and allied ships.

A United States navy spokesman said tonight: "That Emperor Hirohito himself believed these astonishing feats of the imagination is shown by his issuing the highest Japanese honor, an imperial rescript. It may well be that the infallibility of the emperor has thus been brought into question by Adm. Yamamoto, who may have to redeem his honor, in accordance with the old Japanese custom [hara-kiri]. The battle of Midway has not made his problem easier.

U. S. ATTORNEYS TOLD TO AVOID "WITCH HUNTS"

Wendell Berge, assistant United States attorney general in charge of criminal investigations, told 22 United States attorneys from 13 midwestern states here yesterday that their investigations into seditious activities must not descend to the level of a "witch hunt."

"We are looking only for real threats to our war effort," Berge said. "Time is not to be wasted on mere 'screwballs' and 'crackpots' whose activities, altho to some extent offensive, do not constitute any real menace. There will be no repetition of the 'witch hunts' of the first World war."

Charles Fahy, solicitor general, will address the final session of the three day conference today. At yesterday's session the United States attorneys approved a resolution commending the Federal Bureau of Investigation for its work in the war effort.

Henry Johnson of 1805 Nordica avenue was one of the happiest fathers in Chicago yesterday after he saw a picture of his son, Lieut. Russell Johnson, in Friday's TRIBUNE as one of the heroes of the great Midway Island battle. Lieut. Johnson, a bombardier, enlisted in the army air corps a year ago. He is a graduate of Illinois Wesleyan university.

NAVY TELLS JAP DEFEAT IN GREAT CORAL SEA FIGHT

15 Nipponese Ships Sunk; U. S. Carrier Lost.

Washington, D. C., June 12 (AP).—The aircraft carrier Lexington, the destroyer Sims, and the tanker Neosho were the only American vessels lost, the navy reported today, in the resounding defeat handed to the Japanese in the battle of the Coral sea. The Japanese lost more than 15 ships and 20 others were severely damaged.

The text of the navy department communique follows:

"1. The battle of Midway now makes it possible to release information with regard to the battle of the Coral sea. Holding up this information gave to our navy security which was a corner stone in building up for the Midway victory.

"2. In early March the Japanese were observed to be concentrating transports and combatant ships in the ports of Salamaua and Lae on the Island of New Guinea, apparently in preparation for an assault on Port Moresby on the south coast of the same island. The occupation of Port Moresby would have afforded the enemy a strategically located advance base from which promptly to make further attacks on northern Australia.

Blast Jap Bases, Ships.

"3. For some time the bases at Salamaua and Lae had been subjected to air attacks by United States and Australian shore based aircraft from Australia. On March 10 a number of aircraft from a Pacific fleet task force, under the command of Vice Adm. Wilson Brown, joined these shore based planes in very successful attacks on shipping and shore installations at the enemy bases. As announced in navy department communique number 57 of March 18, this attack resulted in the following damage to the enemy: The sinking of or damage to more than 20 Japanese ships and heavy damage to shore installations.

"The resulting disruption of Japanese plans delayed for two months any attempt of the enemy to advance by sea to the southward. The attacking force was described in the communique as American and Australian island based forces, since the participation of our carriers in that action had still not been discovered by the enemy.

"4. During April our army reconnaissance planes reported that the enemy was once again concentrating transports, and the supporting elements, including aircraft from carriers and shore bases, preparatory to an attempt to advance into the Solomon and Louisiade Islands. In early May these advances were actually begun. Bases for land planes in both of these groups of islands were seized by the Japanese and the entire northern portion of the Coral sea was subjected to daily reconnaissance by enemy shore based aircraft.

Catch Foe by Surprise.

"5. On May 4 a task force of the Pacific fleet under the command of Rear Adm. Frank J. Fletcher found a part of this Japanese invasion fleet at anchor in and near the harbor of Tulagi, the capital of Florida Island in the Solomon group. In spite of the excellent Japanese air reconnaissance facilities, Adm. Fletcher's attack caught the Japanese forces completely by surprise and all but annihilated them. A few ships managed to get under way, but most of these were severely crippled and some were later beached to prevent their sinking. The results of the engagement as announced in navy department communique number 77 of May 7 were as follows: The sinking of or damage to 12 Japanese vessels and the destruction of six aircraft. Our entire loss amounted to but three aircraft. On the following day a large four engined flying boat was intercepted by our forces and shot down.

"6. On May 7 Adm. Fletcher's aircraft struck the main body of the Japanese force in the Louisiade archipelago off Misima. The new Japanese aircraft carrier, Ryukaku, and a heavy cruiser were sunk. Fifteen bomb hits and 10 torpedo hits were recorded scored on the Ryukaku which was turning into the wind to launch her aircraft when thus blasted. She sank in a few minutes with most of her planes on board. The enemy counterattack which followed was fought off successfully. During this day's fighting more than 25 enemy aircraft were shot down as compared to our loss of six. Shore-based army aircraft from Australia assisted in reconnaissance both before and during these attacks and added their fire power to that of the attacking naval planes.

"7. During the afternoon of May 7 Japanese aircraft located and bombed the United States tanker Neosho and its accompanying destroyer the U. S. S. Sims in the Coral sea. The Sims was sunk during the attack and the Neosho sank several days later as a result of the damage received during the bombing A large part of the personnel from the Neosho and Sims were rescued and have reached port. The next of kin of casualties are being notified.

"8. On May 8 the same task force again carried the attack to the enemy and succeeded in inflicting serious damage on a second Japanese carrier, the Shokaku, which was left ablaze as a result of bomb and torpedo hits.

Gas Vapors Blow Up Ship.

"9. During this same engagement the enemy launched a counterattack with aircraft while our planes were still attacking. The principal target was the U. S. S. aircraft carrier Lexington, flagship of Rear Adm. A. W. Fitch. In spite of skilful handling, all available fighter protection and anti-aircraft defense, the Lexington was hit by two torpedoes and at least two bombs and was further damaged by several near misses. These attacks were the last action in the battle of the Coral sea. The crew of the Lexington succeeded in putting out the fires and recovering her aircraft.

"Several hours after the battle, while steaming at 20 knots, a terrific internal explosion rocked the Lexington, causing serious fires to break out in many parts of the ship. It was first thought that the explosion was the result of a "sleeper" bomb. Investigation revealed, however, that the probable cause was the ignition of gasoline vapors which resulted from leaks in ruptured gasoline lines in closed compartments below decks

"10. The crew fought heroically for more than five hours to save the ship but were at great disadvantage because the explosion had damaged much of the fire fighting equipment. Destroyers were sent alongside to assist with their pumps, fire hose, and chemical fire-fighting equipment. The wounded were transferred from the burning carrier to the destroyers alongside. Finally, with all machinery disabled, the ship stopped, and flames enveloping nearly her entire length, it became apparent that any further attempt to save her was futile and the captain ordered the crew to "abandon ship." Men slid down lines from the carrier's decks to boats from other ships while some crawled aboard life rafts and rubber boats.

Most of Crew Rescued.

"11. Ninety-two per cent of the entire ship's company were rescued and have reached port safely. The only casualties were the result of the battle or the explosion and the resulting fire. The last man to leave his ship was commanding officer, Capt. F. C. Sherman. As he slid to safety down a line from the deck into the water the torpedo warhead locker of the Lexington exploded. After all men in the water had been rescued, the Lexington sank with a final detonation which shook nearby ships.

"12. The attack on Salamaua and Lae and the battle of the Coral sea resulted in the disruption of two Japanese attempts to advance to the southeastward of New Guinea and cost them a total of more than 15 ships sunk, including: One aircraft carrier, three heavy cruisers, one light cruiser, two destroyers, several transport and small vessels; and severe damage to and the probable sinking of one additional cruiser and one destroyer, and severe damage to more than 20 ships including one carrier, three cruisers, two aircraft tenders, three destroyers and the loss of more than 100 aircraft.

"13. The Lexington, Neosho and Sims were the only United States vessels lost as a result of the action in the Coral sea and only minor damage was suffered by other vessels. The next of kin of all casualties in these ships are being notified as information is received."

LEXINGTON MOST POWERFUL NAVAL VESSEL IN 1927

Cost Topped 45 Millions; Set Speed Records.

The Lexington, commissioned in 1927 as the navy's second aircraft carrier, was described at that time as the most powerful naval vessel afloat.

With her sister ship, the Saratoga, she was originally intended to be a seven funnel battle cruiser when authorized in 1916. Construction was postponed and the plans were altered, however. The keel was finally laid down in 1921, and the ship cost more than $45,000,000 to complete.

Her normal complement was 169 officers and 1,953 men. Of the officers and men aboard at the time she was sunk in the battle of the Coral sea, all but 8 per cent were saved. Her wartime displacement was about 40,000 tons, and she carried more than her normal 80 planes.

Her aircraft were divided into four squadrons—fighters, scout bombers, dive bombers, and torpedo bombers—with reserve planes for each squadron. For close range engagements, the huge ship carried 12 5-inch guns and a considerable array of lesser armament. When commissioned, she also carried 8 8-inch guns. She reportedly had 6-inch belt armor at the waterline.

Base for O'Hare's Plane.

Lieut. [now lieutenant commander] Edward H. O'Hare took off from the Lexington last Feb. 20 on the flight on which he shot down five Japanese bombers in a few minutes. This engagement, in which O'Hare may have saved the carrier from destruction, occurred near the Marshall Islands.

In a later engagement the Lexington's striking power was proved when her warbirds downed two enemy seaplanes, destroyed nine warships and transports, and damaged six more enemy vessels with the loss of only one American plane.

From Dec. 14, 1927, when she was commissioned, until last May 8, the Lexington had steamed a total of 345,000 miles. She covered 43,311 miles from Dec. 7, 1941, until May 8. Between the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor and her sinking, the Lexington was at sea in operation against the enemy 113 days.

Set Speed Records.

Altho one of the largest ships afloat, the Lexington was also one of the fastest. On Nov. 15, 1928, she broke world records for large ships in speed trials by making an estimated 34.5 knots while developing 210,000 horse power. In that same year she steamed from San Pedro, Cal., to Honolulu, Hawaii, in the record time of 72 hours 36 minutes.

On several other occasions the Lexington made news. In 1937 her flyers covered 25,000 square miles of ocean in a fruitless search for Amelia Earhart, whose plane was lost on a flight from Lae, New Guinea, to Howland Island. On this voyage, incidentally, the Lexington crossed the equator at the international date line.

In December, 1928, when the Tacoma, Wash., power plant was out of service, the secretary of the navy authorized the use of the Lexington as a power station there. Her huge generators were hooked up to the city lines and for 30 days the Lexington supplied light and power to Tacoma. This cost the government an estimated half million dollars.

A Favorite Jap "Victim."

The war with the axis had hardly begun when the axis began to claim the destruction of the Lexington. On Dec. 11 the Berlin radio quoted a Japanese report saying that she had been sunk off Hawaii. The Japanese, on Jan. 14, claimed to have scored hits on a Lexington type carrier, and on Jan. 21 they said she had been sunk.

When laid down at the Fore River yards of the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation at Quincy, Mass., the Lexington was the longest warship to be put under construction. The overall length of her flight deck was 888 feet and her beam was 105½ feet.

She was first in many things: The first carrier to enter Pearl Harbor, the first carrier to complete gasoline and oil fueling operations from a tanker at sea, and the first carrier to have a plane with tricycle landing gear alight on her decks.

BATTLE BROADCAST.

Stanley Johnston, foreign correspondent of The Chicago Tribune who was aboard the Lexington, will tell of the battle of the Coral sea on W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network at 12:30 p. m. CWT. today. Johnstone will be interviewed by Wayne Thomis, aviation editor of The Chicago Tribune.

GEO. ORTSEIFEN, YACHTSMAN, IS HURT IN BLAST

George Ortseifen.

George Ortseifen, president of the Monarch Refrigerating company, well known yachtsman and owner of several power boats, was seriously injured yesterday when his 50-foot cruiser, the Quinella, suddenly blew up after it was refueled in the harbor at Cairo, Ill. Ortseifen, who is 60 years old, and O. A. Daudrei, the boat's captain, who also was injured, were taken to a Cairo hospital. Physicians reported their condition good.

Commander Beckwith Jordan of the coast gaurd estimated the damage to Ortseifen's boat at $30,000. He said a terrific explosion rocked the Quinella when the captain pressed the starter button after the refueling. Ortseifen was flung into the forward hatch, Daudrei was blown into the water and the craft was enveloped in flames. Merwin Lashbrook and Jack Downard, crew members of coast guard cutters standing by, were hurt by flying débris and given first aid.

Ortseifen suffered a leg fracture. The Quinella was en route from Miami Fla. to Chicago. The Cairo fire department put out the flames after the boat was beached.

Plans to Record State's War Aid to Be Discussed

Plans to record Illinois' contribution to the war effort will be discussed today at a meeting of federal and state representatives in the offices of the Illinois State Council of Defense. Lieut. Gov. Hugh W. Cross is chairman of the division charged with the undertaking. The rôle of Illinoisans in the first World war filled six large volumes.

HELD PRISONERS BY BANDITS.

Isadore Levinson, a loop jeweler, and his wife, Katie, reported to police they were held prisoners for two hours last night in their apartment at 5356 Glenwood avenue by four masked and armed men who escaped with $60, jewelry worth $50, and two sets of silverware.

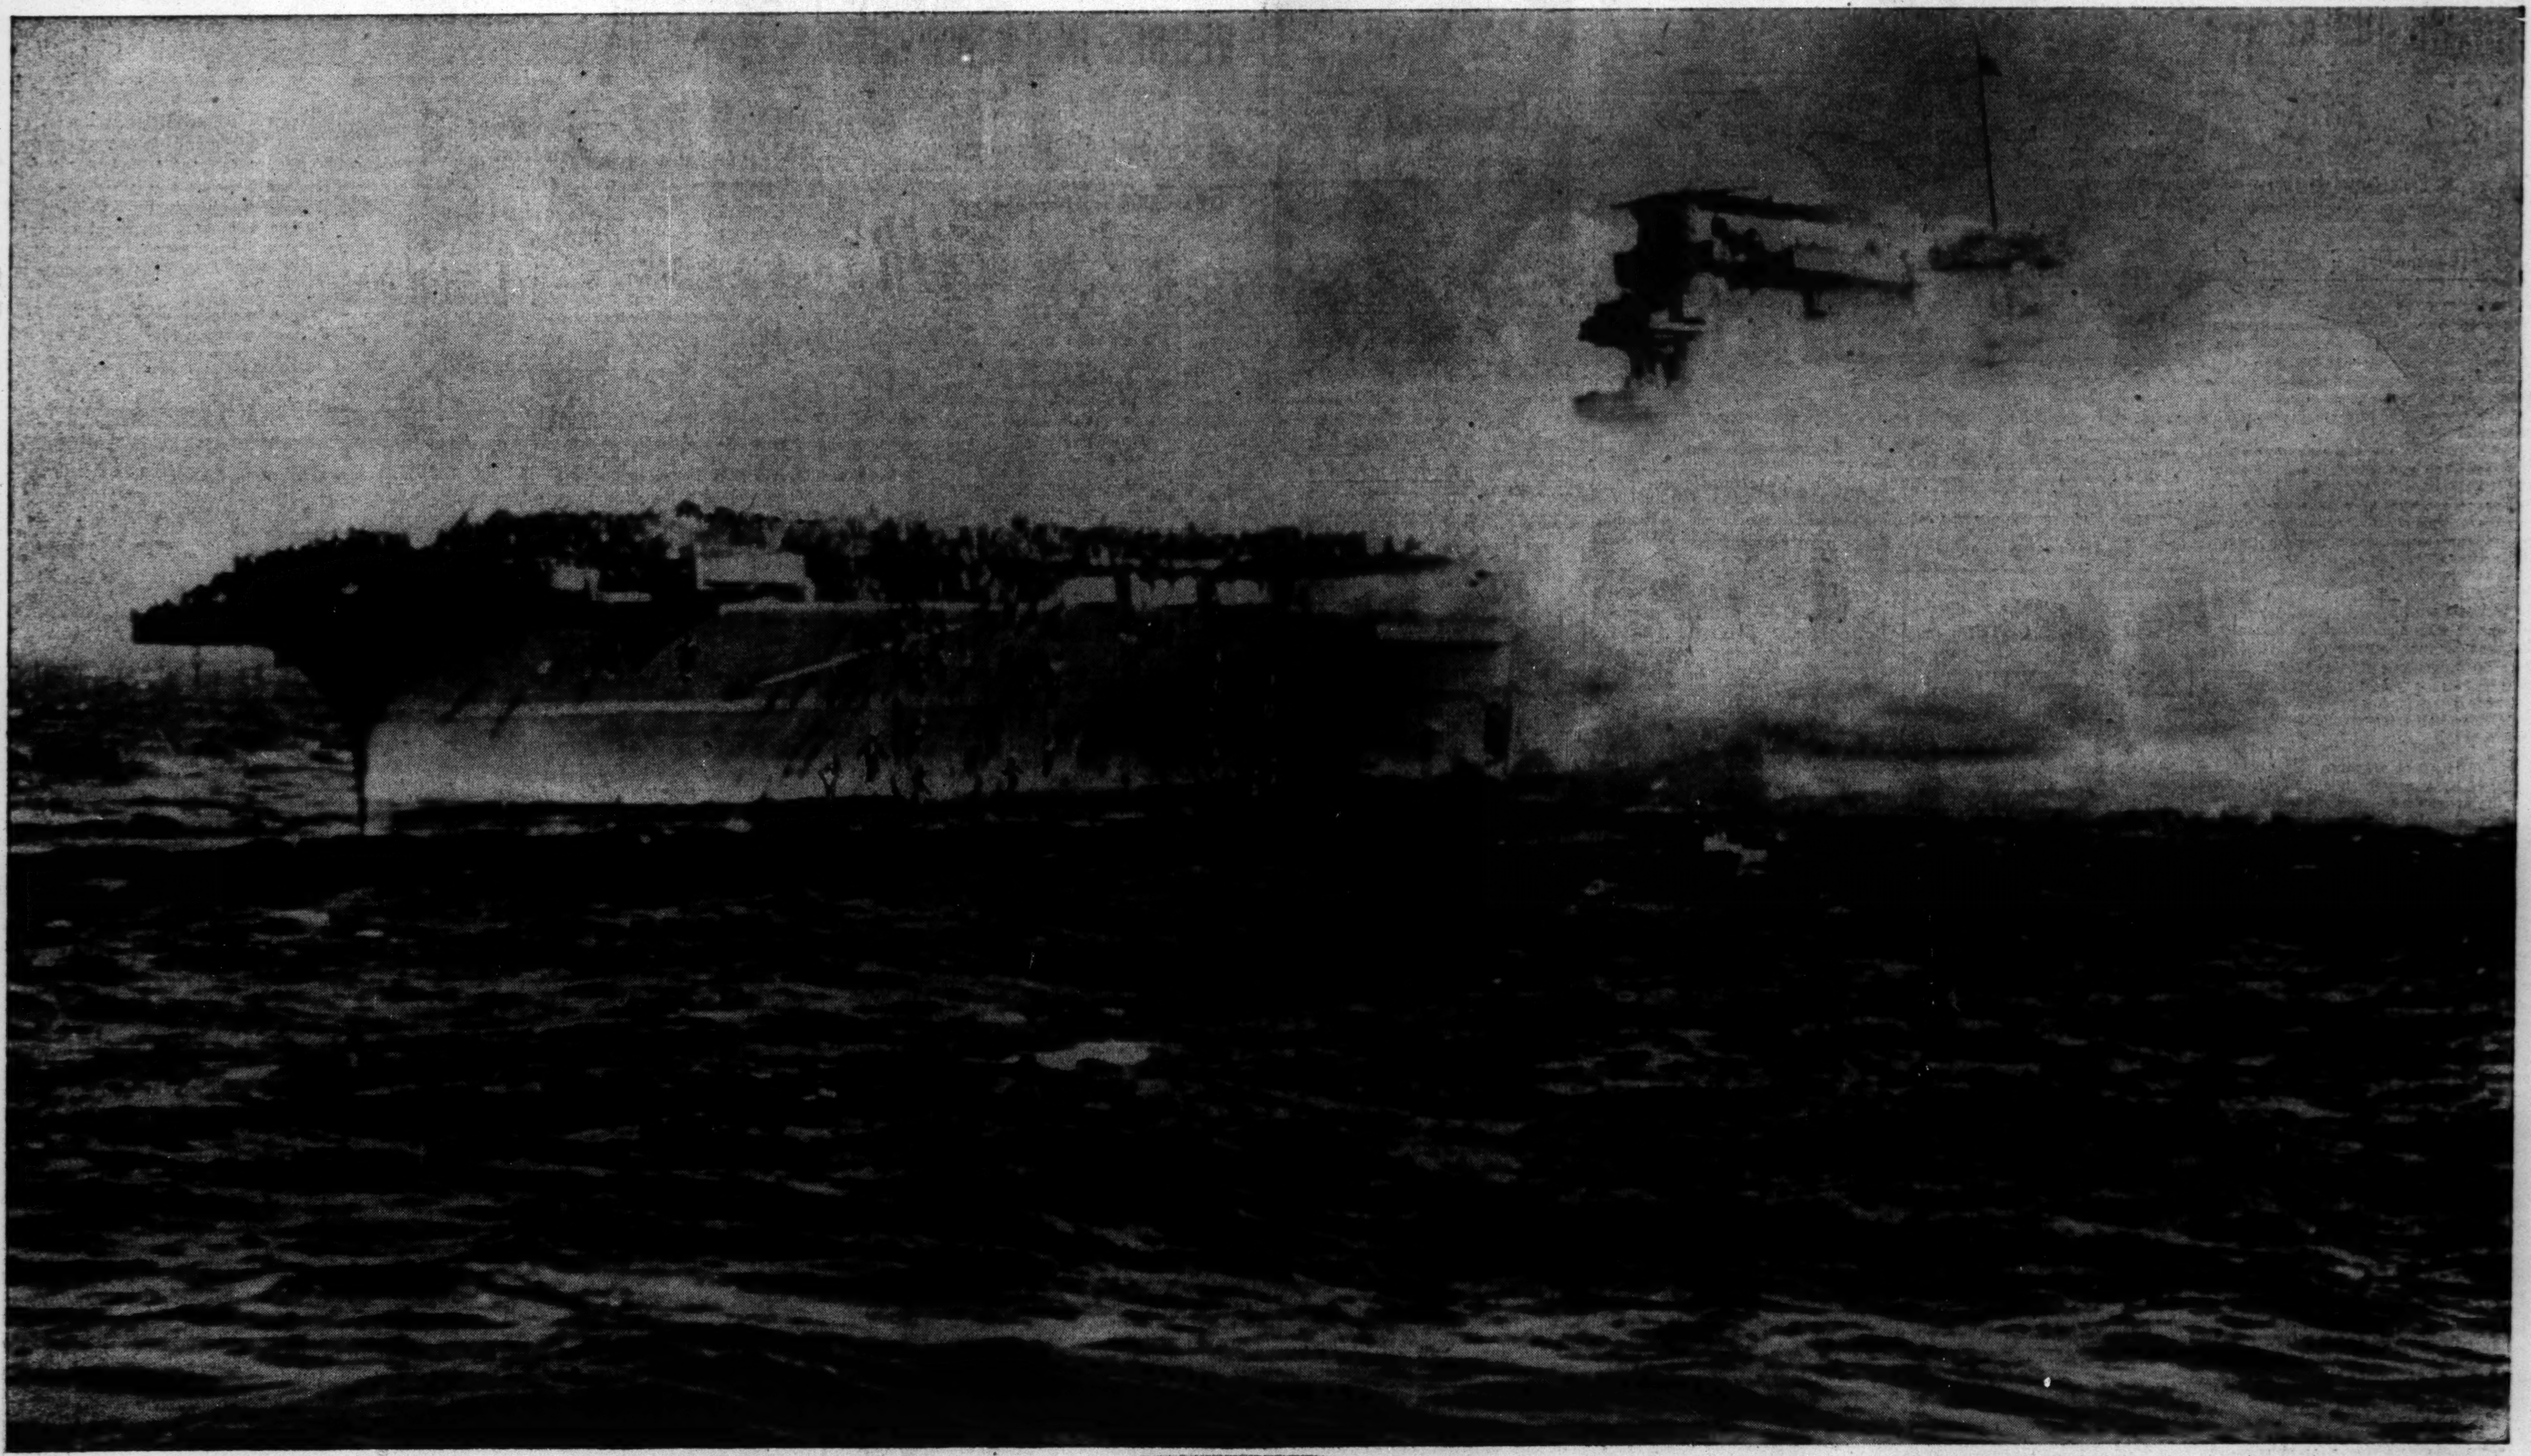
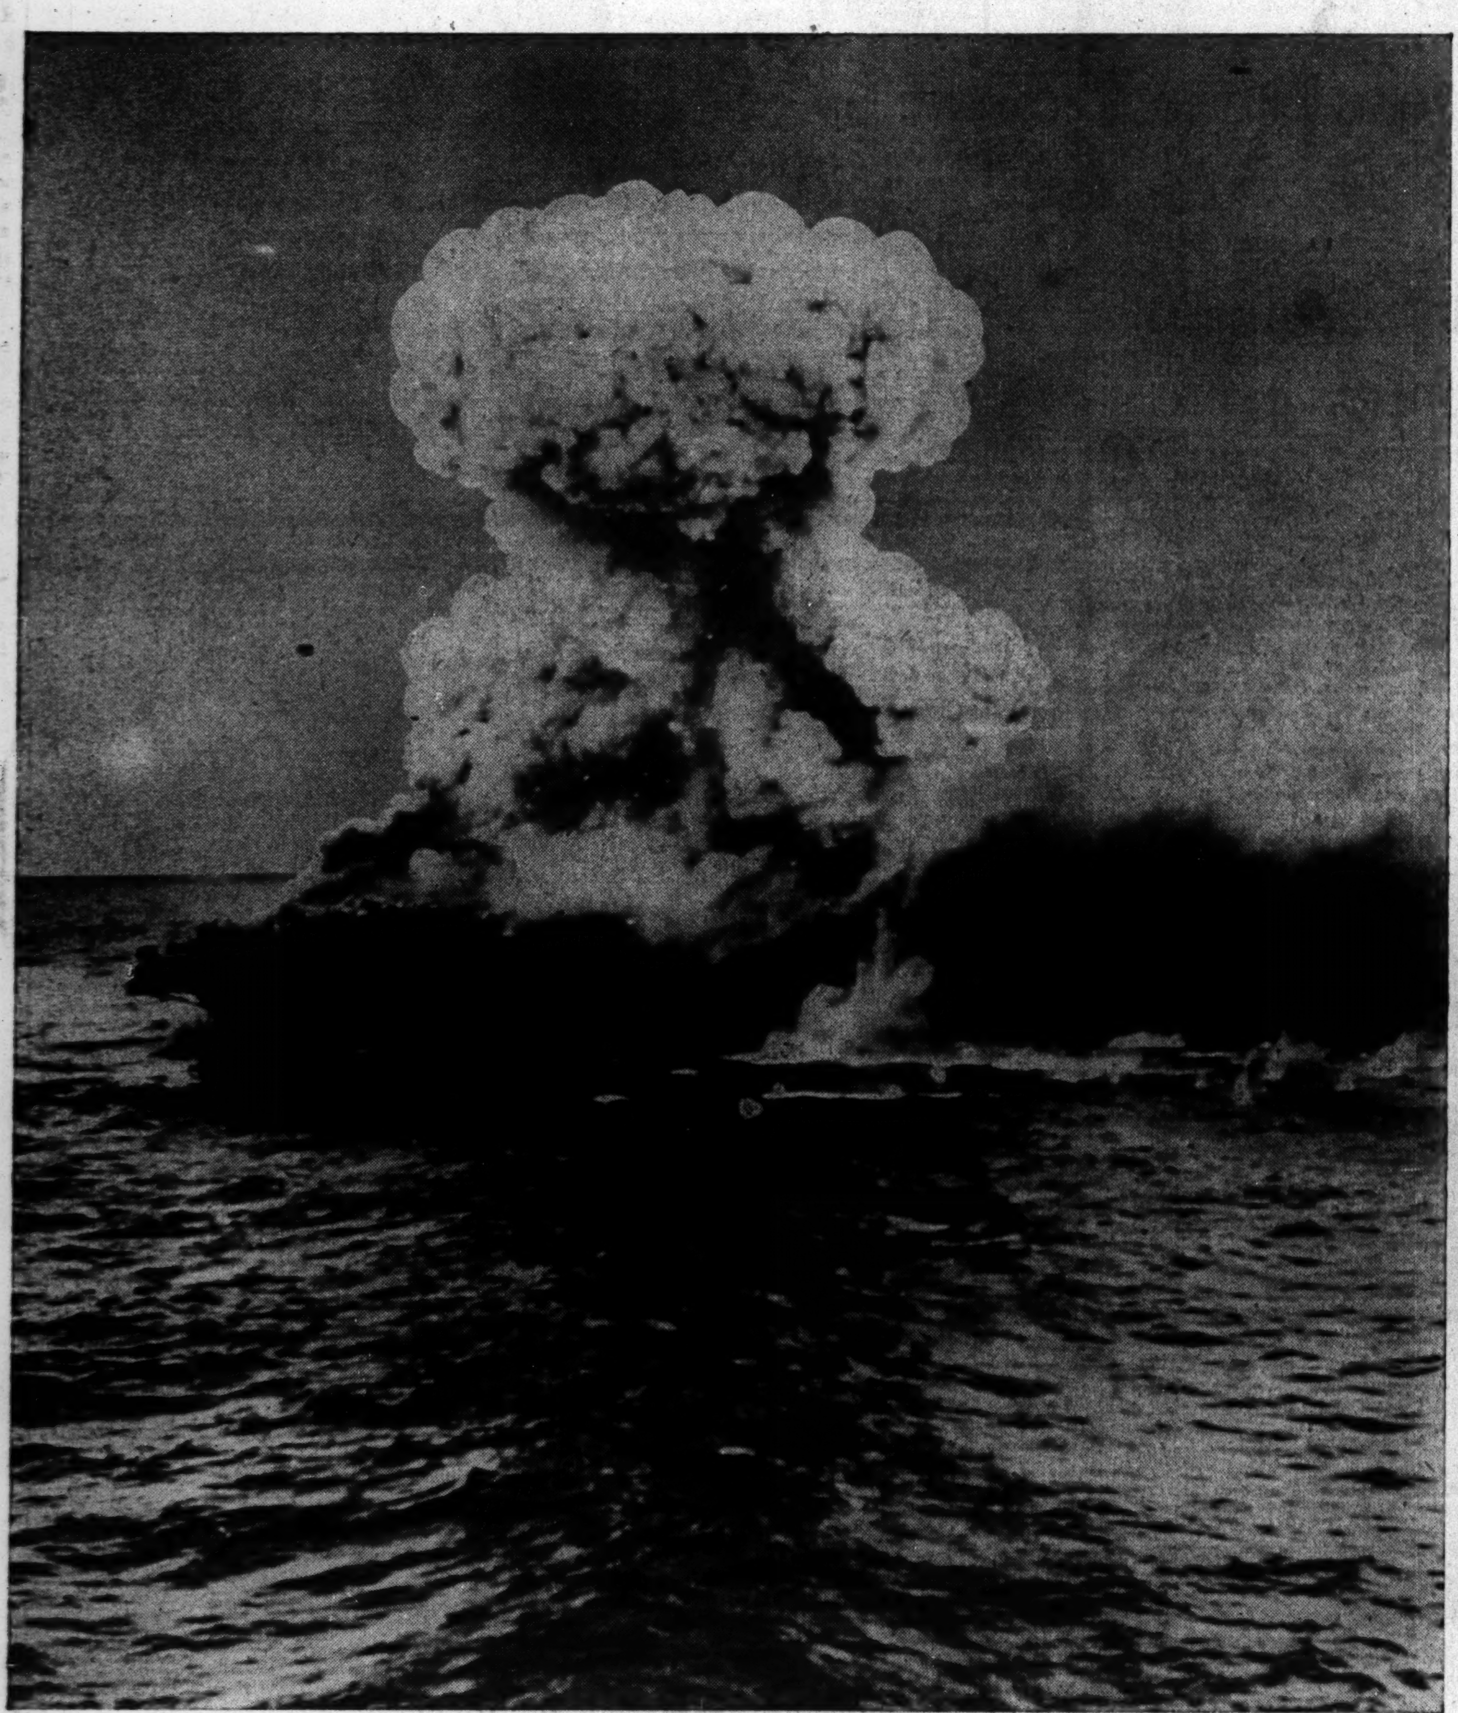
The U. S. Aircraft Carrier Lexington Is Destroyed in the Coral Sea—Navy Releases Official Photographs



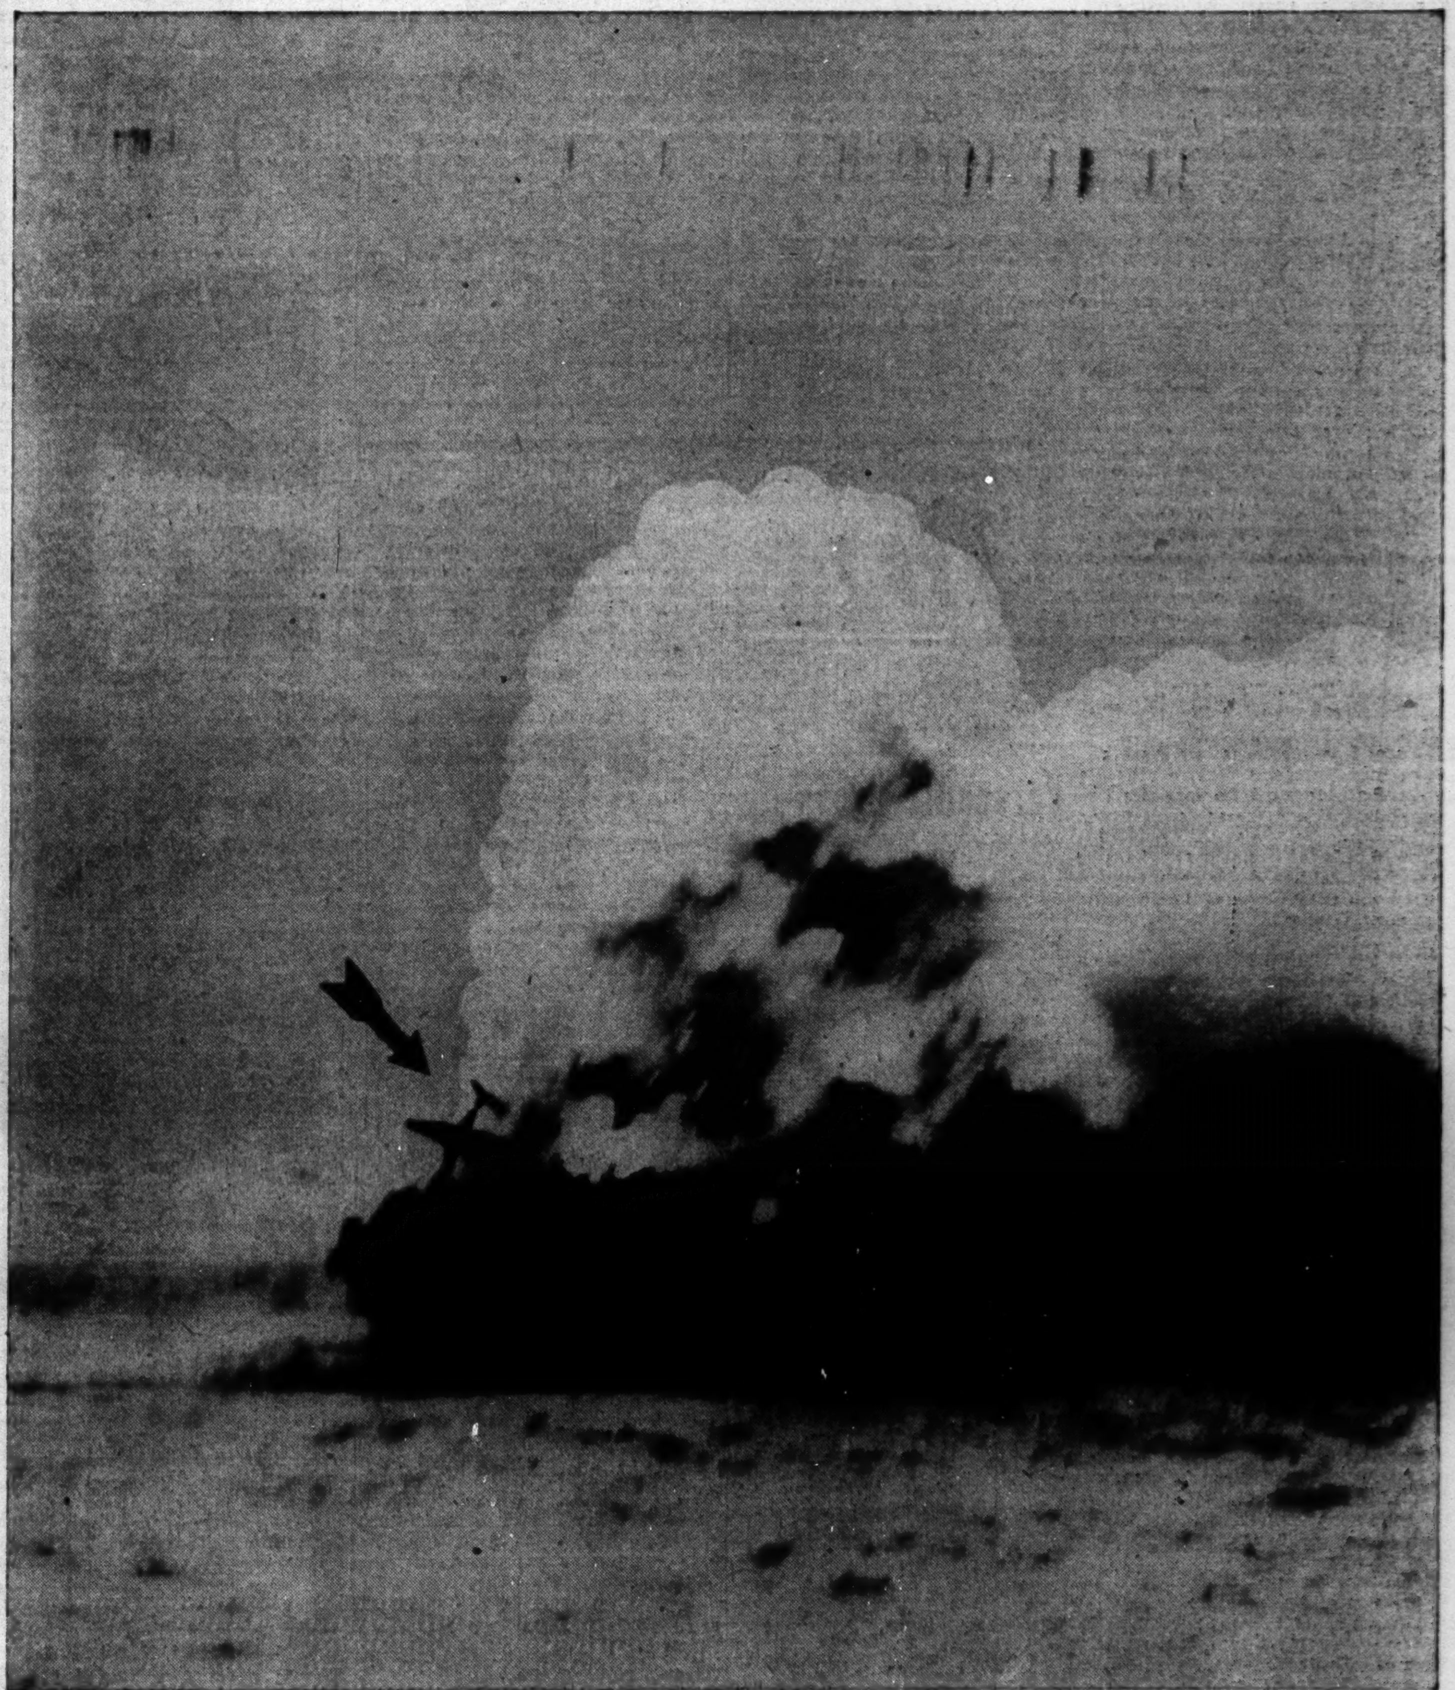
[Associated Press Wirephoto: From United States Navy.]

Abandoning ship in the battle of the Coral sea. The decks of the United States aircraft carrier Lexington, soon to blow up as a result of Japanese attacks and be sunk by a destroyer's shells, are alive with men waiting to go over the side on ropes. Some already have been taken off by a destroyer (hidden in smoke at right). Not a life was lost in abandoning ship, according to the navy, which released this and the other official Coral sea pictures on the page yesterday.



[Associated Press Wirephoto: From United States Navy.]

A terrific explosion rocks the Lexington hours after the Japanese attack. The navy said Capt. F. C. Sherman, commanding officer, and other officers were still aboard when the picture was made. They found safety later, however.



[Associated Press Wirephoto: From United States Navy.]

Another view of an explosion ripping the doomed aircraft carrier. This one tossed a plane (arrow) into the air. The blast was believed to have been caused by ignition of gasoline vapors which resulted from leaks in ruptured lines below decks.

AN EYEWITNESS STORY OF FIGHT IN THE CORAL SEA

Tribune Writer's Account of Historic Battle.

sunk and the third was out of action. As for our own forces, the gallant old U. S. S. Lexington, one of the famous old "twin" carriers that laid the foundation for all the navy's aircraft carrier operations, the destroyer Sims, and the tanker Neosho were our only losses.

I stood on the signal bridge of the Lexington and watched her crew fight the Japanese, defend her, and make desperate efforts to save her. I saw them beaten by internal fires started by explosions which rocked the ship hours after her Jap assailants had been beaten off.

With her officers and men I slid 50 feet down hemp lines into the sea. I was picked up by lifeboats of other United States vessels that rescued every one who survived the air combats, exploding bombs and torpedoes. And finally I saw her sunk by an American destroyer.

"Goes Down Like a Lady."

"She never wavered. She kept her head up and went down like the lady she always was," one of her executive officers said to me as we watched her flaming hull, still upright, go to the bottom at dusk on last May 8.

The total balance sheet for profit and loss of the Coral sea battle, however, was much more than two carriers to one. Altho our own forces lost only the Lexington and two other ships, the Japanese, in addition to their carriers, lost four heavy cruisers, three destroyers, one seaplane tender, four gunboats, three troopships, and supply vessels ranging from 10,000 to 20,000 tons each, and a host of auxiliary craft.

[The navy in its communique said the Japanese lost one aircraft carrier, three heavy cruisers, one light cruiser, two destroyers, several transport and small vessels sunk, and severe damage to more than 20 ships, including one carrier, three cruisers, two aircraft tenders, and three destroyers.]

Shot Down 140 Jap Planes.

Our airmen and ship gunners shot more than 140 Jap airplanes out of the skies—120 of these falling to our pilots. We lost 25 airplanes in air duels, and perhaps 60 more went down on the Lexington's decks. We have no way of knowing how many Japanese planes were lost with their carriers.

For me the commencement of the Coral sea epic was a notification last April 16. It came from the navy and reached me at the Moana hotel at Waikiki. It told me to report for sea duty. I was to be at Pearl Harbor at 7 a. m. the next day with bag, typewriter, and tooth brush.

I reported on time and to my delight was led aboard the Lexington, then barren of aircraft and strangely empty. I couldn't understand as we threaded our way out of the harbor's tortuous channel, why we were leaving without the planes.

"Are we going without our planes?" I asked the ship's executive officer.

"They'll pick us up at sea," he grinned.

Picked Up at Sea.

And they did, hours later, when we were hitting a fast clip southward. They came out of the sky in practice bombing dives, aiming light smoke bombs at a target sled towed 1,000 feet back on our foaming wake. Then a scout bomber appeared towing a sleeve target at which all the ship's gunners fired live shell.

It was my first look at the high speed automatic cannon with which this ship bristled. The pound and roar of the guns shake your very teeth. When this was over the ship's little monoplane fighters came along, dived on the now shattered sleeve, and finished by shredding it with their .50 caliber gun batteries.

"Looks like we're sharpening our teeth," I said.

"Out to Stop Japs."

"Sure, for Japs," a senior officer said.

Later I learned what we were getting into. It seems that in order to take Port Moresby the Japanese had established land based aircraft on New Guinea at Salamaua, and Lae; New Britain at Gasmata and Rabaul; on Deboyne Island [eastern end of the Louisiade archipelago], and in the Solomon Islands.

To control the Coral sea they had sent two powerful naval striking forces. One force moved south from the big Jap base on the Isle of Truk, 720 nautical miles north of Rabaul, New Britain. It was to control the Jomard passage—the only channel from north and south thru the Coral reefs at the southeastern tip of New Guinea. The second moved southeast out of Truk and took the long open sea passage around the Solomon Islands to the east into the Coral sea.

Intended to Be Two Pincers.

These two fleets were intended to be a pair of pincers, nipping any American naval forces that might be in this area. Finally the pincers were to be assisted by occupation forces, cruisers, destroyers, troop and supply ships concentrated at Deboyne Island and in Tulagi harbor in the Solomon group.

We didn't know all this at the time, but that was the situation when our task force arrived in the Coral sea area on the 1st of May. I tell this now so that the various aspects of the Coral sea fight may be best understood.

Our force from Pearl Harbor had consisted of the Lexington and a retinue of cruisers and destroyers. On May 1 we made a rendezvous with a similar United States force, raising our strength considerably.

Thruout our two week voyage we had our air scouts ranging the seas for 200 miles or more on all sides of us. When we joined forces these scouts were augmented and on the afternoon of May 3 an aviation ensign spied 15 enemy craft, warships, and transports in Tulagi harbor.

Rear Admiral Frank J. Fletcher, who had assumed command of the entire force, laid his plans as darkness descended that night. We turned northward, steaming hard, and at dawn lay south of Guadalcanal Island, 100 miles due south of Tulagi. This position was taken to screen us from possible enemy scouts.

Scout Planes Take Off.

We were up before dawn, airplane motors turning on the flight deck of the carrier. Scout planes were off in the predawn dark. Soon they were reporting the enemy still in position, entirely unsuspicious of our presence. Immediately dive bombers and torpedo planes took the air, and in less than 30 minutes were roaring down on the Jap ships.

Surprise was complete. The first anti-aircraft fire came only with the second wave of bombers. Our boys unloaded, came home, loaded bombs again, and flew off. A few fighters accompanied the second wave and liquidated the minor Jap opposition [five seaplane fighters]. The bombers came back for a third trip and when they had dropped their last missile 14 of the 15 Jap ships were sunk or beached and burning. This occupation threat had been removed.

Loss of Life Heavy.

Photographs and pilots' reports indicated enemy loss of life there must have been terrific, particularly on crowded troop ships that were blasted from above and below. I will give full details on this fight in a subsequent story.

On the afternoon of May 6 our scout planes had exciting news. They had located, north of the Isle of Misima, a Jap carrier and cruiser force. We didn't know it then but this was the enemy spearhead bound for Jomard passage.

Rear Adm. Fletcher ordered our force northeast this time. At dawn on the morning of May 7, we were standing eastward of the Island of Tagula, and about 180 miles southeast of the second Jap force.

Again we caught them by surprise, our dawn scouts reporting their planes still all aboard their carrier.

Didn't Expect Attack.

When our striking force of torpedo planes and dive bombers arrived the Japs had nine fighters in the air, but obviously they did not expect attack. Their carrier, believed to be of the biggest and newest type, turned into the wind to launch planes as our dive bombers started down. This was a fatal move, for it kept the Jap carrier on a steady course, presenting a perfect target.

Back on our carrier, anxiously awaiting the outcome, I crowded into the wardroom with officers off duty. Loudspeakers there were connected with the Lexington's receivers tuned to the communication circuits of the planes in the air. There was a jumble of orders and meaningless calls between the planes until suddenly Lieut. Comm. Bob Dixon, skipper of the scout bomber squadron, identified himself to the carrier.

"Scratch one flat-top—scratch one flat-top," he said, and abruptly signed off.

The ship's loudspeaker system carried the message to the entire crew and the craft rocked with cheers. The men knew that Dixon was reporting the total destruction of the Jap carrier. Our own losses [it seemed even more of a miracle then than it does in writing it now] were only two scout dive bombers.

Sees 9 Planes Approach.

Our flyers shot down 23 enemy planes in widely scattered engagements, and later in the day learned that a heavy cruiser was sunk at the same time. Our luck, it seemed, was extraordinary.

As if it was to continue forever we had even more extraordinary luck that evening. At dusk as our last patrols were gliding out of rain squalls and curtains of low cloud, nine planes, certainly not from our carrier, approached us. We were at battle stations with every gun manned for a raid when to our amazement all nine flashed on landing lights.

Later one officer, describing the situation, said: "They slowed down, and strung out into landing position like tired birds come home to roost."

The men at the guns on our carrier first recognized them as enemy planes, even tho the leader of the planes was flashing a landing signal with his lights. Our gunners opened up and the destroyers around us took up the barrage.

Almost with a disdainful air the Japs doused their lights and flew off in line astern. We learned by following them that a Japanese fleet similar to our own was then only 30 miles away, hidden from our sight in the darkness and rain storms. The Jap pilots had mistaken our carrier for their own!

Maneuver All Night.

The information was electrifying. We expected a night action but in the darkness the fleets never met. Nevertheless, this incident opened the final 24 hours of the Lexington's career, forecasting, if we had known it, her doom.

All night we maneuvered so as to be in the vicinity of the enemy for an early morning attack. Again off before dawn, our scout planes found the enemy. It was 8:10 a. m. The flyers radioed that the Jap fleet consisted of two carriers, five heavy cruisers, many destroyers. Later the scouts reported three battleships. This force was the Japs' second pincer. The Jap fleet was 180 miles northeast of our warships.

It had been one of those still, perfect tropical dawns. The black night faded swiftly into gleaming, torrid day. Our force swished along, the gray ships spaced around us, sliding quietly about their ominous business. Aboard the Lexington we went about our business, the air crews warmed up their planes, breaking the silence with the engine roars. Business of the huge boat went on as usual.

Stewards Show Strain.

But all of us were tense inside. The pilots were jumpy as they gathered in the ready room, like athletes before a big contest. Even the stewards who handed round steaming mugs of coffee showed the strain. All of us knew that fateful hours were ahead.

This time we knew there would be no surprise. We had already been blessed with too much good fortune. Now we would have a fight. The two fleets would swing knockout blows at each other. It was a question of who connected first. None knew better than our airmen the destructive force of the huge bombs and torpedoes both sides could carry.

In the last few days their eyes had seen what planes could do to surface vessels—their own planes and bombs. Only the night before we had handed round photographs taken by an air scout showing the stricken Jap carrier we had sunk on May 7. It showed her—this huge new warship—being literally torn to pieces by 1,000 pound bombs and torpedoes.

I remembered too well that only her nose showed ahead of the flames and torpedo explosion splashes. We had decided, in talking it over in the wardroom, that hardly a man of her crew could have come off alive.

And now we were in an equal fight with an enemy as strong as ourselves, and fanatically determined. The chips were down. What would the day bring?

In coming stories I will tell you the full details of the battle of the Coral sea.

Danville, Ill., June 12 (AP).—Lieut. Comm. Joseph Taylor, who led one of the aerial squadrons that smashed the Japs at Tulagi harbor in the Solomon Islands, is the son of a retired police official living near Georgetown, 11 miles south of here.

His father, Pratt Taylor, was a deputy United States marshal in the eastern district of Illinois and also served as a deputy sheriff of Vermilion county.

Thirty-six years old, the flying officer is a graduate of Danville High school. After coming out of Annapolis, he won his wings at Pensacola and served aboard the carriers Yorktown and Lexington. His wife and daughter, Barbara, live in California.

6 FIRMS AGREE TO PAY TAXES ON SEIZURE THREAT

County Treasurer John Toman's campaign to collect delinquent 1941 personal property taxes by threatening to seize the taxpayers' property to satisfy the bills brought action yesterday. Six business concerns, owing a total of $39,750 in back taxes, agreed to make arrangements for partial payment after being visited by a special squad of collectors.

The collectors, headed by Frank M. Hrody, had been authorized to serve five day notices that the property would be sold at public auction unless payments were made. One concern, the New Era Optical company, 17 North Wabash avenue, paid $350 and promised to confer Monday to work out a plan for paying off the remainder of their bill in installments.

The other places visited by the collectors were: Lebolt and company, 33 North State street; Cline Electrical Manufacturing company, 211 West Wacker drive; Magill-Weinsheimer company, 1322 South Wabash avenue; Warshawsky and company, 1922 South State street, and Charles Warshawsky and Sons, 1718 South Wabash avenue.

PERMANENT WRIT VOIDS STATE BAN ON BUS DIVIDENDS

Judge Benjamin P. Epstein in Circuit yesterday granted the Chicago Motor Coach company a permanent injunction restraining the Illinois Commerce commission from enforcing its order of Aug. 19 which prohibited dividend payments on the company's preferred and common stocks and salary payments to part-time officers and employés.

The commission order was entered at the same time that the state body directed the company to show cause why its 10 cent bus fare should not be reduced. The company last Saturday was granted a temporary court injunction setting aside the order on dividends and salaries.

Attorney General George F. Barrett opposed the granting of the injunction, and announced that an appeal will be taken to the Illinois Supreme court. The inquiry into the bus fare still is being conducted by the commission.

SEALED RECORD FILED IN ZILLER GRAND JURY QUIZ

Bloomington, Ill., June 12 [Special]. —A sealed document filed with the Circuit clerk here today by Clifford N. Coolidge, state's attorney of McLean county, was placed with other documents connected with a grand jury investigation of George W. Ziller. Many residents of Chenoa and other downstate towns have alleged that Ziller charged them exorbitant fees and union dues to get them jobs on the Elwood and Kankakee ordnance plants' construction.

Coolidge's only comment was that Judge W. C. Radliff had ordered the Ziller records suppressed.

The grand jury will be convened June 22 and Attorney General George F. Barrett is to coöperate in presenting evidence. One guess was that Coolidge had included a list of witnesses in the Ziller file.

WINS $250 BET AND RIDE BACK TO PRISON CELL

George Eli, 66 years old, was sent to Joliet penitentiary from Chicago for murder on May 29, 1916.

Last November he escaped.

Yesterday he bet on a horse and won $250.

And the bookmaker, rather than pay the bet, telephoned the police about him and Lieut. John Le Fevour and a squad from the Maxwell street station picked him up.

Last night Eli was back in Joliet penitentiary.

Wayland Brooks will be the principal speaker. Leo Carr, nominee for sheriff, will speak for the county candidates, and Patrick B. Prescott, nominee for municipal judge, will be the spokesman for the municipal ticket.

Invite Brooks to Speak at Aurora July 4th Fete

Sen. Wayland Brooks yesterday conditionally accepted an invitation to speak at the annual July 4 celebration in Phillips park, Aurora. The invitation was extended by Ald. Charles L. Daniels, chairman of the celebration committee. In reply, Sen. Brooks said he would appear at the celebration unless unforeseen business required his presence in Washington.

WE'RE GOING BACK TO BATAAN!

THE SECOND FRONT.

Britain and America have agreed to set up a second front this year to relieve German pressure upon Russia. The Germans would like to think that we are bluffing; that the declaration was intended at once to frighten and confuse the German command and quiet the opposition in Britain which has been demanding more active aid to Russia than has yet been given.

If this is a bluff, the scene has been artfully laid. The British have demonstrated control of the air over a considerable stretch of the European coast and have concentrated their air attacks in the last few weeks upon communications centers, like Cologne, which the Germans must use to move their forces to meet an invasion of the continent. A considerable American contingent is stationed in the British Isles. Gen. Marshall and members of his staff have recently conferred with the British staff in London. All of this may be camouflage, intended to deceive Hitler, but the risks of a bluff are too considerable to be taken lightly. If we fail to make good the promise of a second front, the damage to Russian morale, both civilian and military, might prove costly.

An invasion, of course, may be attempted at a great many places. Hitler must be prepared to defend Italy, France, the Low Countries, Denmark, and Norway against feints and genuine thrusts. An expedition might be sent to Murmansk to relieve Leningrad, and break the alliance of the Finns with Germany.

The advantage in the war of nerves is now on our side. Further than that, we have the strategic advantage which the attacker enjoys in the choice of the battlefield. The Germans may seek to comfort themselves with the knowledge that their troops who will oppose an invasion will be battle-tried veterans while the expeditionary force will be composed of men who have been long inactive.

The announcement of the second front coincided with publication of the news of the Molotov treaties. The soviet foreign minister had conducted negotiations in both Washington and London, with the result that Russia was admitted as a full beneficiary of our lend-lease law and with the further result that Britain and Russia have signed a 20 year treaty, looking toward the postwar organization of Europe.

Britain and Russia have come to an understanding. The defeated powers in Europe will be disarmed and together Britain and Russia will see that they stay disarmed. Whether something like the league of nations will be set up to assist in the policing of the continent remains to be seen; but whether this is done or not Britain and Russia are resolved to act together and to have the force at their command to make their joint will effective.

The fact that the two nations can have come to such an agreement can be regarded as reflecting important internal changes in both nations. England has been moving to the left and Russia to the right. It would be absurd to say that their views are now identical but they are a good deal nearer identity than they have ever been before.

Socialism is gaining in England. In Russia the war has disclosed a passionate nationalism which is logically inconsistent with revolutionary internationalism, and beyond that it may be doubted that after the war the Russian people will be in a mood for foreign adventures. At any rate, the governments of the two peoples feel that they have a community of ideas which will make it possible for them to act together in reasonable harmony for a generation.

Whether the expectations will be realized remains to be seen but Americans may profitably observe that these two European powers propose to establish and maintain order in Europe and there is no mention of calling upon America for help in the matter. That's all right with us.

SABOTAGE AT SHERIDAN.

The assault upon one of their custodians and the attempted escape by a group of young hoodlums from the state training school for boys add nothing new to the picture of conditions at that institution. It does bring to public attention the consistent sabotage of the new reformatory at Sheridan, Ill., which was designed as a secure place of confinement for inmates who could not be kept safely at the school near St. Charles.

The building of the Sheridan institution was forced by public opinion, outraged at the depredations of St. Charles inmates. It was started over the protest of the social workers. Its completion and use have been sabotaged thru their influence with the director of public welfare, Mr. Brandon. The excuse has been that failure to get priorities has caused the delay. If the construction had been pushed forward no priorities would have been necessary and the lack of priorities is not a sufficient explanation of the failure to have the institution open before now. The real cause is reluctance to open it, and more particularly to operate it as the legislature intended it should be operated.

The slugging incident at Aurora indicates that the authorities at the training school are following the policy of rewarding good behavior with special privileges. The sluggers, as well as a number of boys who refused to participate in the assault and attempted escape, had been allowed to go on a swimming party. This is a good enough policy, within limits, but it should be balanced by a system of punishments as penalties for bad behavior. The state of discipline at the school does not indicate that such a system exists in sufficient degree.

PLANNED ECONOMY.

The evaporated milk industry has just spent millions of dollars expanding and increasing its plants in response to requests of the department of agriculture. The expansion was necessary, the manufacturers were assured, because of the demand for evaporated milk for lend-lease shipment to Great Britain. Now, almost overnight, the manufacturers are told that their product isn't wanted. Instead of the 22 million cases of milk for which they were asked, the administration now says it will need only 7 million.

Tom Stitts, chief of the dairy division of the Agricultural Marketing administration, talks about "an orderly retreat," involving substantial curtailment of production. For many of the smaller companies it may be an orderly retreat into bankruptcy, caused by the high overhead costs on their unused production capacity. The industry is faced with disaster because those in Washington, vested with unprecedented power over the economy of the country, have changed their minds.

This is a fair sample of the working of the planned economy.

WHY BUILD THEM?

The battle of the Coral sea was the first fleet engagement in history in which not a single shot was fired by one ship at another ship. Such information as has been released indicates that the destruction of the Japanese armada off Midway Island was the same sort of fight. It is improbable that in either engagement any of our ships sighted any of the Japanese ships they were fighting or that any Japanese ship sighted one of ours. The airplane was the sole offensive weapon on both sides. The only use of guns was as defensive weapons to drive off attacking planes.

This revolution in naval warfare naturally raises the question whether our naval building program is being accommodated to new methods of fighting. We know that a few months ago it had not been. At that time the highest priority rating available—AA—was confined to materials designated for battleships. They had precedence over planes, tanks, or any other type of ship. That has been modified to some extent, we know. Carriers now have precedence it is understood.

But what is the navy going to do with ships built as gun platforms when all of the fighting is done by ships built as plane platforms, and by land based planes? The Coral sea and Midway actions raise questions as to the value not only of battleships but of cruisers as well. The need of the navy now is for carriers and for destroyers to protect the carriers against submarines and against attacks of hostile planes.

It is probably impractical to convert the hulls of ships already on the ways for use as carriers. That is certainly true of the battleships being built, because they are too unwieldy. The Lexington, it is possible, might have dodged the air attacks which caused her loss if, instead of being a converted battle cruiser, she had been one of the newer carriers, which have the maneuverability of the cruiser. But many more articles than hull and armor go into the building of these ships designed as gun platforms. They require boilers, generators, and a thousand other items which can be incorporated in carriers and other war vessels useful in modern fighting.

How much longer is the nation to continue wasting steel, and copper, and man hours on outmoded warships which, from the experience in the Coral sea and probably at Midway, never get close enough to the enemy to do any damage?

OUR ALLY, MEXICO.

For the first time in its history Mexico has issued a declaration of war. Our 19½ million neighbors to the south are now ranged beside us and the 25 other united nations in the war against the axis powers. Every North and Central American republic, from the Arctic ocean to the Panama canal, is now aligned in the common cause, and Brazil seems almost on the point of leading some of our friends in South America into the allied camp.

Hitler tried to push Mexico around, just as he disregarded the rights of many neutral nations in Europe, but Mexican courage and national pride wouldn't stand that kind of treatment. When he sank two Mexican ships, in defiance of international law, President Manuel Avila Camacho called for war. The Mexican senate and house of deputies voted unanimously for the declaration. Probably the gaining of a new enemy did not concern Hitler too greatly. This gambler had already run the stakes of world war up to such limits that freedom everywhere hung upon the defeat of him and his allies. But the acquisition of Mexico as an ally will mean a great deal to this country.

Avila Camacho gave expression to the sense of hemispheric unity and interdependence when he promised to "collaborate in the safeguarding of the Americas for the sake of our own security and that of the hemisphere." The other republics to the south cannot fail to grasp the implication.

The unanimity with which Mexico reached the decision to enter the fight for democracy should also mean much to Mexico itself as an evidence of political maturity. The republic no longer depends upon the army for stability. It is now based on the loyalty and support of all the people.

The people of the United States can hardly help reflecting on the difference 25 years have made in our relations with Mexico. In 1917 the American occupation of Vera Cruz and the punitive expedition in pursuit of Villa were recent and rankling memories. The Zimmerman note, dated 12 days before Germany announced the resumption of unrestricted submarine warfare, proposed that Mexico ally herself with Germany if this country entered the war. The price for this assistance was to be three of the American southwestern states.

And now, just a quarter of a century later, Mexico and the United States are proud to claim each other as friends and allies. The world has changed, and in this hemisphere, at least, for the better.

BIRDS AND BEASTIES.

[Peoria Journal-Transcript.]

A fellow who gets out into the woods and fields occasionally, and tries to take a fresh slant on what he sees, may find his attitude changing about a lot of things. He may learn with surprise that intelligence and civilization are not confined to houses and books, offices and schools. It is amazing how many interesting things of one kind and another are going on outdoors, to which most people pay very little attention. And those who, in Walt Whitman's words, "are not proud and not stuck up," can learn a good deal from them.

Such instruction, naturally, calls for modesty on the part of human beings. A person doesn't get very far with the birds and squirrels and rabbits and other outdoor people unless he makes an honest effort to understand them and put himself on their level. As long as he feels alien and superior, he is naturally avoided and snubbed by the field and tree people.

False pride is one of the worst blocks separating men, women, and children from their natural outdoor friends. People who like them and respect them and are gentle and kindly toward them may make delightful acquaintances. As they do so, they generally find their own ego diminishing and their respect for the "dumb animals" rising. They may even conclude, after some friendship and education along this line, that the people in the woods and fields are about as intelligent as the people in the cities, and apparently freer and happier.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

MR. PEPYS BEGINS TO WONDER.

13th June—Catalpa trees and college commencements have come into bloom, which is a signal for me to think about a vacation, but I am at sixes and sevens on this matter. If I take a sea trip I might find myself floating around in a life preserver, and if I take a motorcar trip two blowouts, my usual average, would strand me on top of a cold mountain. If I take a train ride I may waste several days on sidetracks in the blazing desert, waiting for the army to roll by. So I am all mixed up and don't know which way to turn.

If I buy a horse and ride off on the trail toward the sunset I will not be able to find a blacksmith when the poor animal casts a shoe, and if I buy a bicycle and go gypsying among the country lanes [where are they?] I fear there are no wayside repair shops to fix my punctures. If I seek a lonely lake among the northern pines, said to be full of fish, I am sure at the end of the third day, finding the fish have become completely extinct, I will tie the boat's anchor around my neck, furious with boredom, and jump overboard.

All my life I have been reading in books by literary fellows about the joys of a quiet walking trip in Europe, visiting the quaint old ruins, but they are making new ruins over there now and no doubt shooting pedestrians as spies. . . . I suppose if I decide to stay at home, the Cubs will decide to leave town.

AS THE FLAG GOES BY.

What are the thoughts you think
As the flag goes by on parade?
Do you think of the part it played
Making America unafraid?
Do you suddenly find you blink,
By a lump in your throat dismayed,
As the flag goes by
On parade?

What do you find you recall
As the flag goes by on parade?
Your place when the bugles played
Before, when our fate was weighed?
Those names, and the faces all—
Remember the fight they made?
As the flag goes by
On parade?

What are the dreams you dream
As the flag goes by on parade?
Do you dream of a boy and a maid,
And their peace, for which you have prayed?
Do you find new faith in the gleam
Of those colors again displayed,
As the flag goes by
On parade?

Who Baptized the Gold Coast?

In 1914 or thereabouts Arthur Evans, political reporter for THE TRIBUNE, wrote several jocular articles about west side politicians who had acquired fortunes and moved to expensive apartments along Sheridan road. He called this social phenomenon "a migration to the Gold Coast." He believes that he was the first writer to put the phrase into journalistic use.

E. Gordon Harburg, a former Tribune reporter, remembers a series of burglaries along Lake Shore drive in 1915 or 1916. He says that Walter Howey, then city editor of THE TRIBUNE, nicknamed the criminal "the Gold Coast burglar."

Margaret Horton Potter's novel of Chicago "society" life, "A Social Lion," may have contained the phrase, according to Dr. Astley-Cock of the indexing department of THE TRIBUNE. The author died in 1911.

An early use of the phrase was in a sociological treatise called "From Gold Coast to Slums," probably by a University of Chicago researcher.

TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

(On its 95th birthday, June 10, 1942.)

White-headed Nestor by the Lake,
Virile and strong,
You saw Chicago's Morning break
And heard its song!

You mingled with its shouting men,
Its wild, rough cheers;
You blazed its pathway with your pen
Across the years!

Your voice was in the storm and stress
Of troubled days,
Of pathless plain and wilderness,
Pointing the ways!

The beams of a new century now,
Splendidly bright,
Tip your grand, skylifted brow
With rosy light!

May you hail the passing ships
Of Lake and sky
With fearless and unfettered lips
Till Time shall die!

The Boys Down at the Office.

He was a "gopher" not long ago and had to "go for" this and that at my bidding. Now he writes from Randolph field that, in acrobatics, "the toughest thing is a pylon eight, next is a chandelle; lazy eights are tough, but slow rolls, snap rolls, spins, etc., are fairly easy but take practice."

Sometimes I feel like the hen that hatched out duck eggs and stood clucking in furious alarm when her offspring calmly paddled away from the shore!

On the 95th anniversary of THE TRIBUNE the outstanding impression I have is the similarity of expression to be found in the letter in the lobby of the Tower, written by Joseph Medill, to that of Abraham Lincoln. Therein, to me, in no little degree lies the explanation of the ability of THE TRIBUNE to carry on undaunted.

Correction: Calicut, the origin of calico [June 12], is not Calcutta, and is nowhere near that city in India. The confusion of these two cities is a common error. The editor of this column, and not the contributor of the article, is the guilty party.

MAKE FLIES FLEE.

IF EVERY home in the land could exclude flies, we would be spared half or more of our summer digestive upsets. Insects, which wander inside the house, come in contact with food and deposit their excreta indiscriminately, are a decided health menace.

C. F. Hodge is the authority for the statement that "A pair of flies, beginning operations in April, may be progenitors, if all survive, of 191,010,000,000,000,000,000 descendants by August. Allowing one-eighth of a cubic inch to each specimen, this enormous number would cover the earth 47 feet deep." That this does not occur is not the fault of the egg laying tendencies of the lady flies. Natural enemies account for the death of many, while our warfare on these pests aids substantially in keeping them down.

These disease spreaders should be destroyed at their breeding places. This means cleanliness in and about the premises, with the prompt disposal of manure. A bulletin issued by the University of Wisconsin points out that the most valuable procedure is to haul all such material to the fields daily. This plan will not only conserve the chemicals needed by the soil but will save handling and prevent heating.

If this is not possible, covering the pile with slaked lime and earth is the next best method. Chemical treatment, altho advocated, has not been wholly successful. The United States department of agriculture, however, recommends two-thirds of a pound of borax to 8 bushels of offal.

In cities, the important thing is to keep these insects away from garbage by utilizing well covered receptacles, which should be emptied and scrubbed at suitable intervals. A leaking garbage wagon, loaded with foul smelling refuse, is bound to swarm with "buzzers" and afford them free transportation over the entire route. We must not forget that heaps of grass cuttings from the lawn can also become hatcheries. Within a few days, decomposition will set in which will attract the prolific mothers to an abode which is not quite but almost as attractive as a stable.

We must make certain, not only that our houses are screened but that the frames fit. Within, we can make it a rule to pursue the first visitors and destroy them. It may be necessary to employ traps. Poisons are dangerous if young children are about as they cannot resist the tendency to touch and taste everything within reach.

Formaldehyde makes an excellent substitute for the commonly employed arsenic solution. The liquid may be diluted with 20 to 25 volumes of water and is comparatively safe. When this is mixed with an equal quantity of milk, to which a small amount of sugar or molasses has been added, the concoction will not only prove attractive but fatal. Sprays are equally valuable and are harmless. But the "gun" must be operated so long as a single invader remains.

Special precautions should be exercised in safeguarding infants. The room where the milk is prepared must be completely free from vermin. We have only to recall the fearful epidemic of typhoid fever which occurred at Camp Chickamauga during the Spanish-American war to remind ourselves that disease producing bacteria can be carried on the fuzzy legs of these winged animals.

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

DISCRIMINATION.

Chicago, June 10.—The United States is engaged in a great war, fighting for the golden ideals of life, liberty, happiness, freedom, and equality.

One of the greatest charges against our enemies is their bigotry and racial discrimination. But I wonder just how much of this is the pot calling the kettle black? Are we fighting to preserve something that does not exist?

For the last month or more graduating students from Wright Junior college have been looking forward to their dinner-dance at a large hotel. Then one evening a committee member was discussing the floor plan and table arrangements with the hotel manager and happened to mention that one table had been set aside for some Negro students. The manager told him that they would not be served.

You can imagine the reaction of the students against such bigotry and prejudice. It was still more surprising to find after canceling the reservations that many other desirable hotels in this area show the same discrimination.

Whether we shall have a dinner-dance or not is doubtful, but that is not the point. The point is, how are we so much better than the Nazis, and what are the boys in the Pacific, in Ireland, Iceland, and the Atlantic fighting for?

"SEMIPOSTALS."

Chicago, June 8.—According to the Sunday Tribune stamp column there is a tempest brewing among stamp collectors over the rumor that the government is considering an issue of "semipostals" or postage stamps that have a larger face value than that required for regular postage paying rates, the excess value being used for some worthy cause such as a better youth movement.

"Semipostal" stamps are un-American, undemocratic, and demoralizing to the value of a country's monetary system, as they create a separate value to its currency in the same fashion that the slips now given in change for the various colored "relief stamps" do in our grocery stores. How long must the people be imposed on with several kinds of money? I suggest that people advocating such methods get a medal in the shape of a teapot from the cracked pots that were donated to the aluminum piles.

NO THANKS TO THE TAXPAYER.

Chicago, June 10.—I went to the loop postoffice yesterday and paid the second instalment on my income tax. The clerk at the window took my bill and money and gave me a receipt and he never even said thank you. What kind of people are employed by the revenue office that they can't show a little respect and gratitude to the taxpayer?

The same thing happened to me in March. I said, "What, no thank you?" There was no response.

SLEEPING IN THE PARKS.

Chicago, June 7.—I had an occasion to walk past Grant park last night from Randolph street to Adams. I was appalled to see so many of our naval and army men in uniform asleep on benches and on the grass.

I questioned some of the boys who were around there and was informed it is like that every night. The boys have no money for lodgings and rather than return before their liberty is up, sleep in the park.

Chicago's hospitality to our country's fighting men is world famous. We have spared no expense in seeing that their every minute while in our city is happily filled at no cost to them. We have taken them into our hearts and into our homes, but we seem to have forgotten the most essential thing and that is protection while they sleep. Surely the least we can do is see that while they are our guests they also receive proper rest along with their entertainment.

THE TRIBUNE HISTORY.

Glen Ellyn, Ill., June 10.—For some time past I have had in mind to write and suggest that an article or series of articles be written by some one on your staff showing the development of a modern newspaper such as THE TRIBUNE from the beginning up to present—from a few employés to thousands, and from the cost of a few hundreds or thousands to the millions that it must take to buy modern equipment and carry pay rolls and bank accounts of hundreds of thousands. This morning's issue answers my question, and as it explains that there will be several yearly books telling the expanding story, my only fear is that it will cost more than people of moderate means can afford. However, congratulations to your people for undertaking this gigantic task.

NO SUGAR IN BEER.

Chicago, June 6.—Reading an article yesterday in THE TRIBUNE, in which Edward E. Blake of Chicago, national chairman of the Prohibition party, makes the following statement: "The beer makers use 135 million pounds of sugar annually, and are still using it."

In defense of the beer drinking public, permit me to inform the national chairman that no sugar is used in any form as an ingredient in the manufacture of beer.

QUESTIONS OF LAW.

Chicago, June 3.—We are the tenants of a five room flat, and for the past two years have been paying $47.50 a month rent. Our landlord increased our rent $5, as of May 1. When the rent ceiling went into effect she insisted that we pay the added $5. Her reasons are, that if we want to go according to law, and continue to pay the original $47.50, she will go according to law and only give us the required heat of 68 degrees. What are we going to do? We have no alternative, other than to pay it, for during the winter months that degree of heat is impossible to live in.

SALT ON GRAPEFRUIT.

Chicago, June 9.—If every one in Chicago would eat his breakfast grapefruit with just a sprinkle of salt, instead of sugar, they would find it brings out the flavor better and is much more tasty. After a time or two they will never go back to sugar.

HE WAS THERE.

Pontiac, Ill., June 8.—Your editorial today on Belleau Wood is, I believe, the best description of that famous action of 24 years ago. I was a member of the 2d division and was one of the few to come thru the fight in and about Belleau. When the 3d battalion made the last assault on Belleau, there were but 318 men and officers left.

We did relieve elements of the 3d division on June 23, but we were not withdrawn to permit artillery action. We merely established a line near the wood and held on, because the untried 3d had suffered a minor defeat at the hands of the Prussian Guard. They were plenty soldiers even then.

FEASTING THE VISITORS.

Chicago, June 10.—Why is this land of the free cluttered with royalty, traveling in gala style with huge retinues and entertained lavishly? Now the king of Greece is here on a luxury trip. Who is the next of the royal uncles, brothers, and cousins to feast upon the taxpayers' money?

We will gladly forsake our vacation for our boys' sake, but all the royal parasites cluttering the country in wartime, when we have to chisel and save every penny, are getting on our nerves.

Chicago, June 10.—There has been so much discussion regarding the elimination of material in men's suits and women's garments the thought occurred to me that some smart person should start the fashion for capes. JOINT TENANCY PROPERTY.

Chicago, June 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I bought a building 2½ years ago. I made the first down payment. I have a loan from a loan company and make monthly payments on balance of loan, amounting to $2,100 at present.

1. I put it in joint tenancy with my son. My son and wife are now separated.

2. Could his wife get a lawyer and try to make my son give her a cash settlement after building is clear? My son is not putting any money in the building and I am making all payments, which she knows. They have one child 4 years old and my son is giving her $7 a week toward support. His weekly wages are $32.

3. Could you tell me how much the law allows for one child?

4. How much alimony would he have to pay in case of divorce?

5. Could my son sign so that the house would go back to me?

L. A.

1. It would be presumed that your son has a one-half interest.

2. Of course you could try. The prospect of success would depend upon your proof as to the understanding between you and your son. We advise you to have a personal interview with an attorney.

3. There is no definite statutory figure.

4. Same.

5. You do not state whether a homestead is involved. You should go over all of the facts with an attorney.

TAX COMMITTEE AWAITS WORD TO MAP SALES LEVY

2½ Billions Short of Goal Set by Treasury.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 12.—Having approved new taxes totaling 6 billion 200 million dollars, the house ways and means committee today awaited word from the administration whether to draft a national sales tax to produce an additional 2½ billions.

Last March 3, when the committee opened hearings, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. set 8 billion 700 million dollars as the goal desirable to help meet war expenditures.

The committee, however, in 14 weeks of deliberation, modified various phases of the program outlined by the treasury and wound up today 2½ billions short of the specified total.

Members Favor Sales Tax.

A majority of the committee favors a sales tax, but questioning indicated that they will submit to the will of the administration, which thus far has set itself firmly against such a levy.

If the committee receives word that the 8 billion 700 million total must be reached, and that it is up to congress to decide the manner of raising this amount of revenue, it will go ahead and work out a sales tax formula to bridge the revenue gap. But if President Roosevelt, thru the treasury, reiterates his opposition to a sales tax, then the committee probably will report the bill to the house as it now stands.

There is no way to raise another 2½ billions, committee members said, except by a sales tax. The individual income tax and corporation tax have been raised to a point where further increases appear virtually impossible, they assert. Incomes as low as $500 are being tapped under the new program.

Telephone Tax Increased.

In concluding its work on the treasury recommendations, the committee today approved an increase in the tax on long distance telephone calls which is expected to yield an additional $63,600,000 annually.

The present tax of 10 per cent on photographic apparatus was increased to 25 per cent except on cameras weighing more than four pounds, on which no tax will be imposed. This will produce about $10,800,000 annually.

The present 10 per cent tax on commercial washing machines was repealed, as was the 10 per cent tax on rubber articles, optical equipment, electric signs, and advertising devices. These taxes, with the exception of the rubber article tax, were producing small amounts—not over $400,000 a year—and the administrative expense was greater than the yield, it was explained.

The tax on rubber articles was yielding about $12,000,000 yearly, but the reason for repealing the tax in view of the restriction on rubber sales was obvious, members said.

New Tax on Insurance Firms.

Approved also was a new tax on life insurance companies which is expected to yield about $40,000,000 annually.

Life insurance companies, with combined assets of over 30 billion dollars, paid a total corporation tax in 1940 of only $738,000, or less than one-tenth of 1 per cent of investment income, Randolph E. Paul, tax adviser to the secretary of the treasury, told the committee. The small tax is due mainly to the fact that such companies are allowed an extremely liberal deduction for earnings needed to maintain reserves, Paul said.

A proposed tax on candy tentatively was voted down by the committee, but it may be reconsidered next week if a proposed tax on soft drinks, tentatively disapproved, is brought up again for consideration.

Asked flatly about the chances of a federal sales tax, Chairman Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.] said it seems "probable."

WINDSOR IS BACK IN U. S. AFTER RIOT IN NASSAU

Miami, Fla., June 12 (AP).—The duke of Windsor returned to the United States today to complete discussions in Washington that were interrupted June 1 by a riot of native laborers in the Bahamas.

The duke returned to Nassau by air June 2 and helped quell a disturbance that resulted in the death of three workers, injuries to other workers, police and soldiers, and widespread damage from looting. "Everything is fine in Nassau now," the duke said. "The spirit of the men who are working on the project is very good."

He attributed the trouble to a series of "many small things," and said he was certain it would not recur. Before leaving Nassau he had promised to discuss in Washington the protest of workers against wages of about 80 cents a day for unskilled labor. He will go to Washington and then to Baltimore, Md., to rejoin the duchess.

136 STORES LOSE RIGHTS IN FOOD STAMP SYSTEM

Registrations of 136 Chicago retail food stores permitting them to participate in the food stamp plan have been revoked for improper use of the stamps, Bert A. Weber, Chicago area supervisor of the Agricultural Marketing administration, announced yesterday. He said most violations of the plan's regulations consisted of accepting stamps for foods not on the approved list or for nonfood items. The food stamp plan provides government purchased surplus foods to relief families to supplement their cash allowance.

THE QUESTION.

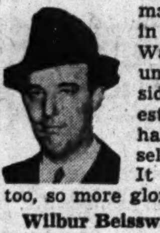
What personal achievement has been a source of satisfaction to you?

WHERE ASKED.

The Civic Opera building, 20 North Wacker drive.

THE ANSWERS.

Maurice L. Markey, private, Camp Grant—Before I joined the army I didn't know the least thing about what went on in a kitchen. Now I've become quite the proficient cook and housekeeper, and I think it's pretty wonderful to learn what I thought I never would.

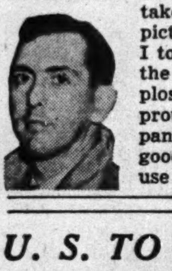


R. J. Boyer, meat salesman, 1759 West 94th street—If you knew how many times I have sent in contributions to the Wake of the News you'd understand why I consider it one of my greatest accomplishments to have had one of them selected for publication. It was an original one, too, so more glory to me!

Wilbur Beisswanger, office boy, 2414 Janssen avenue—I had never been a very good shot with the rifle until I spent my vacation at my sister's home in the country. After two weeks of rigid target practice I could hit the bull's-eye every time, and I'm proud of that newly acquired marksmanship.

Bernyce Gerard, secretary, 5707 North St. Louis avenue—My friends couldn't get me to even try to ride a bike because I had failed at it so many times. Then it was really something when I made up my mind to learn how it was done. I took falls, but didn't give up, and now I'm proud of being able to ride.

Tony J. Samarzia, student, 2339 Sheridan road, Evanston—It was a proud day for me when I made the Northwestern football team. There was a great number of eligible men, so it was really an honor to be selected. And even if I do say so myself, I think I achieved just plenty at right tackle.



E. J. O'Connell, insurance man, 7714 Yates avenue—I had been trying to take some worthwhile pictures for a long time. I took a whole series of the grain elevator explosion and felt quite proud when a big company thought them good enough to buy and use them.

U. S. TO RESUME TRADE TO NORTH AFRICAN COLONY

Ships to French Area Sail Soon.

Washington, D. C., June 12 (AP).—The United States is resuming trade with French North Africa, Secretary of State Cordell Hull told a press conference today. Ships loaded with nonmilitary supplies will leave New York for that destination soon.

Trade with Vichy controled North Africa was abruptly suspended in mid-April, when the collaborationist leader Pierre Laval returned to power.

Two ships loaded with food and other nonmilitary supplies were at that moment about to sail for the French possession. They were held in port, and Undersecretary of State Sumner Wells indicated they would be held there indefinitely pending further developments.

Matter Carefully Considered.

What caused the government to lift the embargo was not disclosed. Secretary Hull said the decision had been reached after due consideration of all the pros and cons.

It was recalled here that Ambassador William D. Leahy, in his first press conference since his return from Vichy, said earlier this week that "it is my personal opinion that every practical assistance should be given by America to the French people, provided always that such assistance is of no benefit to the axis powers."

In answer to questions, Hull said he had no official information of the reconciliation between Laval and Chief of State Marshal Petain which was reported from Vichy yesterday.

Laval, Petain in Accord.

A Vichy dispatch told of a surprise appearance by Marshal Petain at a luncheon given by Laval at which the aged chief of state said "there is no longer any cloud" between himself and Laval and that they now were "working hand in hand."

In connection with the mutual aid pact signed yesterday with Russia, Hull announced that Yugoslavia also has been handed the draft proposal of a lend-lease agreement similiar to the British, Russian, and Chinese pacts.

Albert Hawkes to Seek U. S. Sen. Smathers' Seat

Kearny, N. J., June 12 (AP).—Albert W. Hawkes, past president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, today announced he will seek the Republican nomination for the United States senate seat now held by William H. Smathers, Democrat. Hawkes, a member of the National War Labor board, said he was making the announcement in response to the urging of "a very substantial number of citizens from all walks of life" in the state.

LOWER CEILINGS ON TYPEWRITER SALES, RENTALS

Coffee Roasters Are Given More Buying Freedom.

Washington, D. C., June 12 (AP).—The Office of Price Administration today put a ceiling on the sale and rental of used typewriters considerably below the March, 1942, levels at which prices were frozen by the universal price ceiling.

Top retail prices for second hand machines were cut about 4.3 per cent under the March level and rentals were slashed about 10 per cent, on an average. The new levels generally are those prevailing in the period of Oct. 1 to 15, 1941, except that increased costs of rebuilding and reconstructing are taken into account.

Sales of second hand machines are restricted to persons holding certificates from local rationing boards, because of curtailment of the manufacture of new machines, but rentals are not restricted.

The order affects an estimated 500,000 typewriters in the hands of 15,000 independent typewriter dealers and 900 manufactures' branches.

Modify Green Coffee Orders.

Restrictions on the handling of green coffee by coffee roasters were modified by the War Production Board today, but no increase in the amount available to consumers was provided.

The amendment to the coffee conservation order permits a roaster to accept delivery of green coffee in excess of two months' supply, but prevents him from roasting it. He is required to offer the excess, or an equivalent amount from his own inventory, for sale thru dealers or brokers.

The original order prohibited a roaster from accumulating more than two months' inventory, with the result that some roasters were unable to accept shipments arriving from abroad.

Other regulatory actions today included:

Sales of canned tomatoes and peas to the army, navy, lend-lease administration and certain other federal agencies were exempted by the OPA from the ceiling on canned vegetables, effective June 15. Civilian buyers will continue to use the ceiling prices.

Thaw Out Burlap Stocks.

The War Production Board amended its burlap conservation order to enable the Commodity Credit corporation to buy up frozen stocks of burlap and make them available to Pacific coast growers, who face a shortage of crop covering materials.

WPB prohibited the manufacture of chisels, hammers, snips, pliers, punchers, screwdrivers, and wrenches out of any alloy steel except that specifically designated, but permitted producers to use up stocks received prior to today.

WPB ruled that mining machinery produced from materials obtained under a priority rating may not be delivered except on orders carrying preference ratings. The mining branch also ruled that material needed to repair housing for miners may not receive as high a rating as material needed in mining operations.

Save More Rubber.

WPB revised specifications for the manufacture of industrial pneumatic and solid tires to compel the use of more reclaimed rubber and save from 75 to 100 tons of crude rubber a year.

WPB sought to save another 200 tons of crude rubber annually with new specifications for the manufacture of rubber insulating tape which permits the use of only an unvulcanized or partially vulcanized compound of rubber and reclaimed rubber.

OPA ruled that sales of warehouse receipts are covered by the universal price ceiling. Such receipts play an important part in the canning, distilling and wine businesses.

WRITER GETS U. S. PRISON TERM AS AGENT OF JAPAN

Washington, D. C., June 12 (AP).—Ralph Townsend, 42 years old, of Lake Geneva, Wis., a writer, who pleaded guilty of failing to register as an agent of the Japanese government, was sentenced today to eight months to two years in federal prison.

Townsend was indicted with David Warren Ryder and Frederick Vincent Williams, San Francisco, Cal., publicists, who were convicted of violating the foreign agent registration act and sentenced to 16 months to 4 years each. The government charged the three were "front men" for the San Francisco Japanese committee on trade and information which, it alleged, was a propaganda agency financed by the Japanese government.

Justice T. Alan Goldsborough commented in passing sentence that Townsend was guilty "morally as well as technically," and that "there is no doubt that he was using the right of freedom of speech to mislead his own people by allowing his name to be used by representatives of the government of Japan."

SOLDIERS TO PAY CASH AT ARMY'S POST EXCHANGES

Washington, D. C., June 12 (AP).—With the double purpose of getting rid of bookkeeping and enhancing the "dignity and efficiency" of soldiers, the army announced intention today of trying the experiment of requiring cash for purchases on military posts.

The war department said the new procedure would be tried in the field "very soon."

Soldiers at present may obtain credit at post exchanges, barber shops, pool rooms, and bowling alleys on their post, obligating a portion of their monthly pay.

This system requires much paper work, the war department noted, and said the experiment will determine whether it is possible to reduce the company collection sheet by permitting credit only for certain items, or to eliminate it entirely.

Friend of the YANKS

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and personally, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

Hundreds of letters from men in military service have been received by this department asking that their names be given to civilians seeking correspondence with men in service. Many other letters have been received from civilians asking for the name of a soldier or sailor to whom they might send gifts and letters.

The war department, however, has adopted a policy to discourage correspondence between military personnel and persons unknown to them. Following is an excerpt from the letter sent THE TRIBUNE by the director of the war department's bureau of public relations:

"While it commends the spirit of friendliness and helpfulness which prompts the offer to arrange correspondence which some soldiers understandably seek, the danger that unscrupulous persons might take advantage of such an arrangement impels the war department to ask that every one refrain from furnishing names and addresses of military personnel."

A recent dispatch from Washington reaffirmed the war department's policy. "Under no circumstances," it said, "will any plan to encourage such correspondence be approved. The [war] department believes such plans are liable to abuse by unscrupulous persons."

E. D. writes: "At present I am working at a gas station. I have a 3-A classification because of a large family. I am afraid I might soon be out of a job and wonder if you can tell me where I can train for a defense job?"

ANSWER: Beginning July 6 the Illinois Institute of Technology will offer tuition free training for war jobs. The course will be called industrial engineering, and all men deferred from military service will be eligible for training. The course will include production processes, materials of industry, drawings and specifications, industrial organization, supervisory techniques, and industrial accounting. The training will cover 10 weeks, with classes running eight hours daily, five days a week. Registration will open the week of June 2° on the institute's Armour campus, 3300 Federal street.

L. F. A. writes: "I can get a commission in the navy as ensign in the armed guard service. What would my duties be in this service?"

ANSWER: You would be in charge of a gun crew aboard a merchant ship.

J. P. K. writes: "I went down to reënlist in the navy last week as a chief boatswain's mate, but was turned down because I was overweight. There must be some one here of in Washington to give me a waiver. Who is the party I must contact?"

ANSWER: Since you last applied for reënlistment the navy has reduced the enlistment requirements as regards weight, vision, and teeth. Applicants who are somewhat overweight may now be accepted if in the opinion of the naval medical examiner the weight variation is not due to organic disease. Make another application for reënlistment.

U. S. ARMY QMC. WILL CELEBRATE 167TH BIRTHDAY

There isn't much glamour in the army's quartermaster corps. Quartermasters don't bang around the countryside in tanks, fly dive bombers, or jump into combat by parachute. But the army couldn't function without this important branch, which provides food, clothing, and transportation for the troops on every American fighting front and at home.

Next Tuesday this oldest branch of the army observes its 167th birthday. By proclamation of Gov. Dwight H. Green the occasion will be properly observed as the "quartermaster corps day." Similar observances, by gubernatorial proclamation, will take place in Wisconsin and Michigan, the other states of the sixth corps area.

On the night of June 16, 1775, while the farmers of Middlesex county were building ramparts on Bunker hill, the Continental congress voted formation of the QMC, with a staff of two officers to handle the QMC problems for a small colonial army just coming into being. The 167th anniversary of this occasion, Maj. Gen. George Grunert, commanding general of the corps area, said yesterday, will be marked with displays of army uniforms and mechanized equipment thruout Chicago. Several loop restaurants will feature typical army menus on their bills of fare.

JOINS MARINES, SWORN TO AVENGE CAPTIVE BROTHER

The solemn words of the oath of induction into the marine corps had an especial significance yesterday for Donald Lloyd Adams, 17 years old, of Niles, Mich. As he repeated them after Lieut. Col. Chester L. Fordney, recruiting officer, Donald was thinking of a brother, Richard, 18. Last week the Adams family learned that Richard, a marine, stationed at Wake Island, was a prisoner of the Japs, held near Shanghai, China. Yesterday Donald promised to avenge his brother's capture. With him at the ceremony were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Adams, and two other brothers, Charles, 20, and Robert, 16.

Robert A. Yoder, 17, a ham radio operator since he was 15, yesterday closed down his station, W9MTJ at his home in Mount Morris, Ill., said good-by to his father, Harry W. Yoder, advertising editor of the Poultry Tribune, and enlisted in the marine corps. He will be rated as a staff sergeant radio man.

FOUND DEAD IN STREET.

Maxwell street police yesterday sought the identity of a well dressed man about 45 years old who was found dead in the street in front of 1527 South Halsted street, apparently from natural causes.

PAINTERS' UNION DEMANDS BACK PAY FROM CITY

Cites Legal Opinion by Attorney General.

What amounted to a demand for about $25,000 in back pay to 84 painters employed by the city of Chicago was made yesterday in a letter to Mayor Kelly by Arthur W. Wallace, president of the Painters' District council [AFL]. It cited a ruling by Attorney General George F. Barrett to the effect that the city must pay the prevailing wage rate.

The wrangle between the painters and the city goes back to 1941 when, in April, the council, composed of 23 painters' unions, won a raise of $1 an hour from the Painting and Decorating Contractors' association, comprising 18,000 to 20,000 members in Chicago and the suburbs.

Ask for Legal Ruling.

According to the union, the board of education, the park district, and Cook county and state bodies met the raise, but the city and the sanitary district didn't. A short time ago the painters took their case to the attorney general, asking a ruling on whether the state law that provides public bodies shall, as a matter of state policy, pay the prevailing wage is applicable to the city.

Barrett's ruling, issued June 3 but delayed by printing and other details, reached Wallace Thursday. He promptly wrote the mayor a letter citing the ruling, setting forth the repeated demands by the painters on the city for the full union scale, now $11 a day for six hours, and added:

"I have been instructed by the Painters' District council No. 14 of Chicago, with a membership of 21,000 to send this communication direct to you in the hope that it will not be necessary to take any further action in this matter to straighten it out."

Comment by Mayor Kelly.

Mayor Kelly said last night that when he receives the letter it will be referred to Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes for a legal opinion.

"We base our actions in the city on opinions from the corporation counsel," the mayor said. "I fail to see how we can pay back wages or increase wages during the year when the city budget was completed and passed by the council in January."

The general policy of the city has been to pay the prevailing outside wage to union employés. In rare instances such as the street workers' unions this has been a source of argument because the city has maintained there was no outside work comparable to that done by the men hired by the city.

WARNS OF PLAN BY NEW DEAL TO REMAKE WORLD

Urges Congress Move to Halt Scheme.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 12 [Special].—Merwin K. Hart, president of the New York state economic council, tonight warned the people of the United States against following will o' the wisp utopian schemes put forward by certain national leaders to involve the nation in a world-wide social revolution as a post-war objective.

Speaking only a few miles from President Roosevelt's ancestral home to the County Men, an organization of native born citizens of Dutchess county, Hart declared that efforts to impose a new deal on the world might result only in disillusionment, unnecessary bloodshed, and loss of our own freedom as it has been built up in the last 166 years.

Cites Conant's Warning.

Hart cited the recent warning of James B. Conant, president of Harvard university, against painting too rosy a picture of the world or even of the United States after the war. He criticized sharply the "lack of realism" in visionary pronouncements by Vice President Henry Wallace, Under Secretary of State Sumner Welles, and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Urging concentration on the single objective of winning the war for which Americans are ready to make "any sacrifice" Hart said he was certain neither the people nor their congress approved the idea of world revolution, which "is with certain prominent New Dealers the principal objective of the war."

"We have been subjected now for many months to a process of being edged unconsciously into this world revolution," asserted Hart. "Congress alone can stop it. If the present congress does not stop it, then I hope the question will be foremost in every congressional campaign this year."

Says Congress Shares Blame.

Hart said congress indirectly must share blame for growth of the revolution idea thru its passage of the lend-lease act.

"It is clear," he explained, "that the giving of the people's savings anywhere in this world is authorized thruout the life of the act just so long as the President wills to give it. But I don't believe that congress intended by that act to finance or shape a world revolution.

"It now appears, however, that our government is yielding to the pressure of mysterious groups to use this war and the young men in our fighting forces to extend the New Deal thruout the earth.

"Without authorization, even without the knowledge of the vast majority of the American people a plan apparently has been devised, with certain persons in the administration seeking to carry it out, to involve the United States in a world-wide social revolution.

Doubts Demand for Program.

"The vast majority of the people of this earth cannot have the vaguest idea of what Vice President Wallace, or even Mr. Welles, is talking about. If they did, there is no evidence they would want it.

"If we permit ourselves to be lured into following such visionary schemes, we can be sure the American people will wade thru a sea of blood, and if they reach the farther shore, will find nothing but disillusionment and disappointment. They will have sacrificed the independence of their nation. It is highly improbable that the common people of other nations would benefit by our sacrifice.

"I am convinced that the great majority of the American people believe that arrangements for peace should await the conclusion of the war. No man can say now what conditions then will be."

CHICAGO'S GLASS INDUSTRY CLOSED BY WAGE STRIKE

Union Demands 20 Cent Hourly Increase.

A strike by 230 glass workers, chiefly bevelers and silverers, which Thursday tied up all 14 of the glass and mirror fabricators in Chicago, yesterday apparently had reached an impasse. The workers demand a 20 cents an hour raise while the operators are offering 2½ cents.

The union involved is the Glass Workers local No. 1211, affiliated with the Painters' council, No. 14, [AFL]. Its contract with the 14 glass fabricators in the city, which includes all the big names in the glass field, expired June 1.

In 1941 the union obtained a 5 cents an hour raise, making the scale $1.05 an hour for an eight hour day and a 40 hour week, according to William McCann, business agent.

Last Tuesday a meeting between union representatives and the companies was held, at which the 20 cent demand was made and the 2½ cents offered. The strike went into effect Thursday.

Some war contracts, chiefly in the aviation industries, are involved, but company representatives said yesterday the condition is not yet serious, as they had sufficient stock piles built up to handle the calls for a few days. If the strike continues for a week, war production will be seriously hampered, the company spokesman said.

The companies also said the 2½ cent offer was made as the ultimate that could be squeezed out under the ceilings and priorities imposed by the various control boards in Washington. Their top prices are limited and their material costs are likewise inflexible, they said, and the 2½ cents an hour is all the margin there is. They also asserted that the scale here already is higher than that in competing glass areas.

Day by Day on the Farm

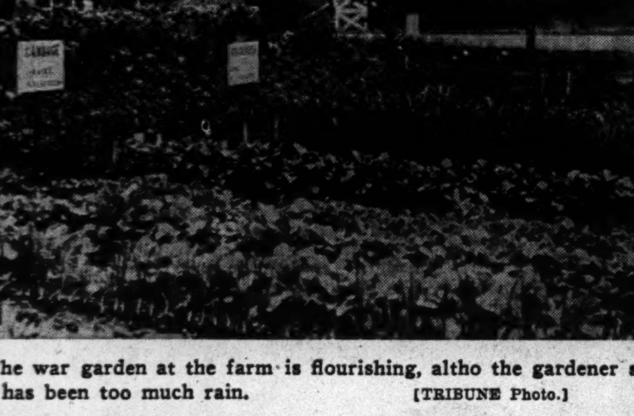
By GAIL COMPTON

Weeds Thrive on Rain.

June 12, 1942.

TOO much rain is the complaint heard around the war garden these days. Altho the vegetables are growing rapidly there has been so much moisture the gardener has found it difficult to get into the rows with a hoe. As a result the weeds present an ever increasing menace.

Fortunately the weather has been warm. Had it been cool the vegetables would have been held back and some might have spoiled. The warm days, however, spurred the seeds and the garden now presents a rank and lush growth.



The war garden at the farm is flourishing, altho the gardener says there has been too much rain. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

The bush beans are pushing up rapidly, and the pole beans are thrusting out thin tendrils around the poles beside them. Because there were no stakes available the gardener cut some willow branches to serve as bean poles. The willow branches are living and growing as fast as the beans, and are gaily decorated with green buds and leaves.

Beets Sprawl Drunkenly.

The young beet plants sprawl in their row, their red veined leaves making them look as if they had imbibed too much. The leaves are dirty from the mud splashed on them by the constant rains. The beets are the most disreputable appearing vegetables in the patch.

The feathery and fernlike leaves of the carrots stretch five inches above the ground, and it won't be long before they start to grace the farm tables. The onions are edible and some have been pulled. The gardener believes that he will allow the rest to go to seed and wait for some large bulbs. The kohlrabi, with its widely separated leaves, has made a good growth and is branching out rapidly. The lettuce is in splendid condition, the leaves forming a solid and even green row in the plot.

The gardener's old enemies, the crows, have been playing hob in the sweet corn, and have necessitated a counteroffensive in the form of a scarecrow. Every time the gardener turned his back or left the plot for a few minutes the crows would sweep down from the trees bordering the garden and go to work on the young corn shoots. In one attack they decimated 12 feet of stalks.

Crows Are Destructive.

The crows seem to delight in pulling the shoots up, shaking them, and then dropping the useless stalks neatly beside the holes. They will eat a few of the tender plants but usually destroy them for the pure pleasure of the act.

More than 600 cabbage plants were set out this week. Many were taken from the war garden when the cabbage row there was thinned out. The plants are healthy and seem to be doing well.

The garden is due for its third spraying soon. Twice all of the plants have been thoroly drenched with a lead arsenate spray to keep the bugs in check. Despite this, however, some of the cabbage and squash plants have been chewed up slightly. A third spraying should stop whatever insects are left.

ASKS AFL HELP TO RID UNIONS OF RACKETEER

Labor Chief Applies to William Green.

Chicago labor leaders disclosed yesterday that William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, had been asked to assist in an effort to drive J. Livert [St. Louis] Kelly, colored racketeer, out of the labor movement.

Kelly has been cast out of the Retail Clerks International Protective association, but under the protection of Edward Flore, president of the Bartenders and Hotel and Restaurant Workers International union, is now functioning as boss of local 444, composed of colored bartenders, waitresses, and waiters on the south side.

Letter Sent to Green.

C. C. Coulter, president of the Clerks international, has sent to Green a letter expressing surprise that Flore, after investigating Kelly's long police record, had given him a clean bill of health and indorsed him in a letter to the AFL.

"Kelly," Coulter wrote, "has been arrested on many occasions. He is purely and simply a racketeer, making his living off the labor movement.

"It is impossible for the Building Service Employés' international or ours to get rid of Kelly if some other international is going to uphold his activities. This man should be removed from all connections with and activities in the labor movement. His record is as unsavory as that of any other well known Chicago racketeer."

Copy Sent to Flore.

Copies of Coulter's letter were sent to Flore, to Victor A. Olander, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor; to John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, and to William McFetridge, president of the Building Service Employés. A copy was introduced at the Chicago federation meeting last Sunday and disposed of with the following notation:

"Motion carried, that the secretary be instructed to write Brother Coulter and inform him we will do anything we can to protect the organization in question [local 444]." Kelly was referred to as a "notorious labor racketeer and gangster."

Called Unfit to Run Union.

Sergt. George Barnes of the police labor detail recalled that he had personally delivered to Flore a letter informing him of the low standing of Kelly and giving several reasons why he was unfit to handle a union, or even to belong to one.

Kelly was a friend of Max Caldwell, former czar of the retail clerks in Chicago, who was ousted a year ago after insurgent members filed a suit asserting he had made no accounting of $910,000 exacted from the low paid members in fees and dues. Only $69 of the assets of the Chicago clerks union has been recovered so far.

SUGGEST PLAN TO SPEED MILK CARTON DECISION

Judge Benjamin P. Epstein of the Circuit court recommended yesterday that the city's fight to prevent the Dean Milk company from selling milk in paper containers be expedited so that the Illinois Supreme court may settle the dispute as quickly as possible.

The city is now being stopped from acting by a temporary injunction, but is attempting to have the injunction dissolved. Judge Epstein suggested that he overrule the city's motion to dissolve the injunction, that the case then be sent to a master in chancery for a full hearing, and after that be taken before the Supreme court.

Assistant Corporation Counsel James A. Velde said he would submit the proposal to Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes, and the case was continued to June 19. The city's long fight against the use of paper milk containers was snagged when the federal District court issued an injunction against the city in the case of Fieldcrest Dairies, Inc., a Dean company subsidiary. The United States Supreme court recently ruled the dispute was a matter for the state and not the federal courts. Accordingly the fight was reopened before Judge Epstein.

JOB PLACEMENT SERVICE MAPPED BY RELIEF BODY

Operation of a placement and vocational counseling service will be started by the Chicago Relief administration on or about June 22, George J. Klupar, relief commissioner, announced yesterday. The service will work with employers and both public and private employment agencies to speed the movement of persons from the relief rolls into employment.

Klupar said emphasis will be given to the placement of individuals who, because of physical limitations, age, background, or lack of recent training or work experience are not readily acceptable in war or usual nonwar occupations. The service will try to analyze and overcome the limitations by correcting their causes.

Main purpose of the service will be to direct and influence the individual job seeking efforts of relief recipients into particular channels where the chance of employment is most hopeful.

3 THIEVES TOW AWAY AUTO AND STEAL JEWELRY

Tow-away thieves stole $4,300 in jewelry yesterday, and at the same time ruined two automobile tires. Their victim was Simon G. Weine, 1251 South Keeler avenue, a jobber.

He parked his car in front of 3161 Madison street, put the gear in reverse, locked the doors, and stopped at a nearby pawn shop. A few minutes later three men backed their car in front of his, hooked up the front, and towed the car into an alley behind 2909 Jackson boulevard. With the gear in reverse, the roll of Weine's car was not smooth and the rear tires were roughed off.

The thieves forced open the car doors. For a moment they were opposed by Weine's airedale dog which barked until quieted with a blow. They took lockets, watch bands, and optical ware valued at $4,300, but overlooked $3,000 more in jewelry.

R. R. JACKSON, 71, EX-ALDERMAN OF TWO WARDS, DIES

Born in Malta, Ill., Mr. Jackson was brought to Chicago while an infant. At the age of 9 he began shining shoes and selling newspapers.

He was a major in the old 8th [colored] regiment of the Illinois National Guard and went with it to Cuba. In his early life he spent some 26 years in the postoffice service in Chicago. In 1911 he was elected to the Illinois legislature and served three terms before first being elected alderman of the 2d and then of the 3d ward.

Mr. Jackson is survived by his widow, Hattie Ball Lewis Jackson, and a son, George [Swy].

LAST TWO STATE SCHOOL RIOTERS CAUGHT ON ROAD

Hold Ringleaders for Attempted Murder.

Jail doors closed yesterday on the last two of 13 inmates who Thursday slugged a recreation officer of the Illinois State Training School for Boys, near St. Charles, and escaped in a school bus, kidnaping a second officer. Three of the 13, shot in the hunt that followed the mutiny, were recovering in St. Joseph's hospital, Aurora.

The state, meanwhile, acted swiftly to punish all those involved. Albert Mackowiak, 17 years old, convicted burglar, of 4940 South Honore street, Chicago, was held to the grand jury on charges of assault with intent to murder and larceny of an automobile.

Mackowiak joined Santo Sartorio, 16, an auto thief, of 3149 Princeton avenue, Chicago, in slugging Keith Armstrong, the recreation officer who was driving the bus that had taken 26 inmates of Van Buren cottage for a swim at Exposition park, Aurora, in reward for 60 days of good behavior. Mackowiak then drove the bus in the wild flight that ended near Plano.

Held to Grand Jury.

Also held to the grand jury on auto larceny charges by Justice of the Peace Nurenburg of Geneva are: Anthony D'Antonio, 15, of 1923 Erie street, who is doing a second hitch for burglary; Jack Thoemke, 17, of 3110 Seminary avenue, a burglar, and Floyd Cramer, 17, of Fulton, Ill., an auto thief.

On orders of State's Attorney Charles G. Seidel of Kane county warrants charging auto larceny also were issued for Calvin Baker, 18, of 6147 Kimbark avenue, a burglar; Ray Bauer, 17, of 2521 Division street, a thief, and Sartorio. All were wounded by Kane county deputies when they refused to surrender. Sartorio also is charged with assault to murder.

Chicago Inmates Responsible.

Others who took part in the mutiny were being questioned by Assistant State's Attorney John Petersen. Seidel said additional charges of auto larceny, conspiracy, and accessory before the fact of auto larceny and assault to murder will be filed.

Those being questioned included the last two of the 13 captured. They are: Stanley Pincus, 16, of 5061 Northwest highway, Chicago, an auto thief, and Orville Stukens, 16, of Decatur, a burglar. They were seized on route 34 between Plano and Yorkville yesterday by Sheriff Robert Woodward of Kendall county.

Most of those who took part in the break are Chicagoans and most of the 13 inmates who did not join in the escape plot are downstaters. The scheme was hatched by Sartorio, Mackowiak, and other Chicagoans, said Seidel. He added:

"It is not strange that this should be so. Most downstate judges use the school for the purpose it was intended—a haven for delinquent boys. This is not true of Cook county judges.

"They reduce charges against young felons so they can be sent to the state school."

Russell W. Ballard, managing director of the school, yesterday said that if the state fails to punish any of the runaways they will be dealt with at the school as severely as regulations permit. It is unlikely any will escape criminal action, however.

ROB MESSENGER OF $5,679 CASH, $8,471 IN CHECKS

South Bend, Ind., June 12 [Special].—Police of Indiana and Michigan tonight united in a hunt for three bandits who this morning robbed a bank messenger of $14,151.25, obtaining $5,679.54 in cash and $8,471.71 in checks and drafts.

The holdup occurred at 10 o'clock in full view of the eighth grade graduating class at St. Adalbert's school. Two members of the class obtained the license number of the bandits' car.

Alex Kruzyszewski, the messenger, told officers he had alighted from a bus near the Western State bank carrying the money in a bag, when a husky blond haired man stepped up and smashed him in the face with a gun, grabbed the bag and fled.

Kruzyszewski said he saw the bandit join two others in a black sedan and speed away.

BOY BICYCLIST HURLED 50 FEET BY AUTO; KILLED

Frank Herrick Jr., 14 years old, 4949 Meade avenue, was killed last night when he was struck and hurled 50 feet by the automobile of Henry I. Hirsch, 4535 North Sayre avenue, Norwood Park township. The accident happened in Lawrence avenue just east of River road, where the boy was riding eastward toward his home on a bicycle after he had been to a nearby "swimming hole."

Hirsch was held on a charge of involuntary manslaughter by county highway police at Morton Grove, who said they found his brakes faulty.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 325 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 259 were killed in Chicago where 9,157 were injured in traffic accidents during the same period.

CZECH CONSUL'S FUNERAL RITES WILL BE MONDAY

Expect Anti-Axis Aids to Be Present.

Funeral services for Dr. Antonin Holy, Czecho-Slovakian consul general in Chicago who died Thursday night in Oak Park hospital, will be at 2 p. m. Monday in Sokol Havlicek-Tyrs hall, Lawndale avenue and 26th street. It is expected that consular representatives of the united nations and other officials will attend.

Dr. Antonin Holy.

Dr. Jan Papanek, Czecho-Slovakian minister of information in New York, will attend the services as representative of President Eduard Benes and of Col. Vladimir Hurban, Czecho-Slovakian minister in Washington, D. C. Col. Hurban is ill and will be unable to attend.

Consul General Since 1938.

Dr. Holy had been Czechoslovakian consul general in Chicago since 1938. He attracted attention when, after the invasion of his native land by the Germans, he refused to surrender his office or prerogatives. He carried on, representing his exiled government, to his death.

The Czechoslovakian consul was born 56 years ago in Kytin, Bohemia, and was educated at Charles university, Prague, and the Sorbonne, Paris. For a time he taught the Czech and French languages in Bohemia. Forced into the German army, in the first World war, he was captured by the Russians. Before the war ended, however, he joined a Czech legion and served against Germany.

Home in Oak Park.

Dr. Holy entered the foreign office in Czecho-Slovakia in 1919, first as secretary, then as ministerial counselor, and later as consular representative. He headed consulates in Marseilles, France, and Zurich, Switzerland, before coming to Chicago.

His home was at 240 South Marion street, Oak Park. His widow, Jaroslava, a daughter, Milena, and three sons, Jaroslav, who is with the Czech information bureau in New York City; Dusan, who is in the United States army, and Jan, a high school student in Oak Park, survive.

GRAZING CATTLE YIELD PREVENTIVE FOR BLOOD CLOTS

Substance First Extracted from Spoiled Clover.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Atlantic City, N. J., June 12.—Use of a new substance, originally obtained from spoiled clover, to prevent blood clotting—a frequent cause of death and a danger after operations—was described today at the closing session of the 93d annual convention of the American Medical association. It also was reported that so-called "X-ray babies" are thriving, but there is a possibility that indiscriminate use of this technique may result in abnormalities in later generations.

The product extracted from spoiled clover and now made synthetically is known as dicoumarin. It was discovered after veterinarians noted that cattle frequently and for no apparent reason bled markedly and sometimes fatally.

They found that spoiled clover in the cattle's diet was responsible for the hemorrhages and concluded that the bleeding agent might have a benign use in forestalling blood clots in humans. Three physicians from the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn., Drs. Edgar V. Allen, Nelson W. Barker, and John M. Waugh, told today of giving dicoumarin to 159 patients.

Administered Thru Mouth.

Dr. Allen said that in only two of the cases did blood clots form in the period when the drug was administered. He warned that dicoumarin—given thru the mouth—should be administered only when its effects can be accurately determined and that the physician must be on guard against hemorrhage. He said experiments will continue, but the drug has proved its essential worth.

Heparin, a substance isolated from horse liver, has been used for some time to dissolve blood clots. It must be given by injection thru the veins, however, and is 10 times as costly as dicoumarin.

"X-ray babies" is the term applied to children born after the mothers' reproductive organs had been stimulated by radiation. The mothers previously had been unable to have children and X-rays were used as a last resort and were found to permit conception.

Babies Found to Be Normal.

Papers on the subject were presented by Dr. Ira I. Kaplan of New York City and Dr. Clarence Cook Little of Bar Harbor, Me. Dr. Kaplan's studies showed that the babies were normal. He said too much radiation, however, can bring on barrenness in women.

Dr. Little talked of similar radiation experiments on mice and other animals. He discovered that the first generation of offspring was normal but that the treatment might cause flaws in future generations. He said in-breeding may accentuate these abnormalities, leading to a warning against intermarriage by too closely related humans whose births were facilitated by radiation.

Dr. Lowell S. Selling of Detroit, Mich., spoke of the responsibility of the eye doctor for setting up satisfactory automobile drving standards.

Traffic Deaths Pace Blitz.

"The loss of life during a year of blitz in England was scarcely more than the loss of life in traffic in that country during the year," he said. "In the United States the situation still remains serious in spite of rationing, voluntary limitation of car use, and removal of drivers from the civilian community."

He added that good color vision is not a prime necessity for driving, declaring color blind people can differentiate traffic lights for the position on the standards and by taking cues from other drivers.

The comparative advantages of the coroner and medical examiner systems was debated by Dr. Samuel R. Gerber of Cleveland, O., and Dr. Thomas Leary of Boston, Mass. Dr. Gerber contended the office of coroner is more democratic, because he is elected instead of appointed, and he aids justice by investigating crime whereas the medical examiner merely determines the cause of death. Dr. Leary asserted that the post of medical examiner dignifies the doctor as a master in his own field and fosters research.

WARNS OF GREAT SAFETY NEED IN WAR INDUSTRIES

More casualties may occur in war plants than in the armed forces unless rigid safety discipline is adopted in every war industry, Harry Guilbert, safety director of the Pullman company, said yesterday.

Guilbert, who also is regional director of the government's national manpower conservation committee, spoke at the Illinois Institute of Technology before 292 graduates of a 96 hour industrial safety course sponsored by the committee.

"Cacualties have increased in war industries every month this year," he said. "The only way this trend can be halted is by 100 per cent participation in carefully planned safety programs."

RCA INSTITUTE'S EQUIPMENT NOW AT ILLINOIS TECH

Officials of the Illinois Institute of Technology announced yesterday that they had purchased all the equipment of the RCA institute, formerly conducted in the Merchandise mart by the Radio Corporation of America. This equipment is to be moved to the Lewis campus at 1951 Madison street and used in the training of radio technicians for the armed forces. Included in the laboratory material purchased are devices used in teaching electronics, Morse code, direction finding and television, and 11 standard radio transmitters of different power. Few engineering schools have such equipment.

'MY WONDERFUL ONE,' 'JEANNIE' IN MELODY SHOW

Song Dramas Will Be Featured on W-G-N.

Two song dramas, based on letters from listeners relating stories associated with their favorite tunes, will highlight the broadcast of America Loves a Melody over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system from 8 to 9 tonight. The listeners receive $25 each for the winning letters.

Thomas L. Thomas, Metropolitan Opera baritone, will make a guest appearance on the program. Marion Claire, W-G-N prima donna, will be heard and Henry Weber will direct the W-G-N orchestra and chorus.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, who usually speaks on these programs, will not be heard tonight.

Foster Song Featured.

The first song drama will be Stephen Foster's "Jeannie," to be presented by the chorus and orchestra. Thomas will be featured in the other song drama, Paul Whiteman's "My Wonderful One."

Thomas will join Miss Claire in two medleys, singing "I Got Plenty of Nothing" as part of a George Gershwin group, and Kashmiri Love song, in a "Songs of the East" group. Thomas also will sing Largo al Factotum from "The Barber of Seville."

Miss Claire's Selections.

Miss Claire will sing Maritza's entrance song from "Countess Maritza," and Victor Herbert's "A Kiss in the Dark." "Summertime" will be her song in the Gershwin medley, and "Twilight in Barakeesh" her "Songs of the East" selection.

The orchestra will be featured in "Farnandole" from Bizet's "L'Arlesienne Suite" and "March of the Grenadiers" by Schertzinger. The chorus will be directed by Robert Trendler. Kenneth MacGregor will be the producer.

TRIBUNE SALES OF SERVICE KIN PINS NEAR 40,000

The sale of service pins in THE TRIBUNE'S public service offices at 1 South Dearborn street and in the Tribune Tower probably will reach 40,000 before Monday.

Eleven hundred pins were sold yesterday in the two offices and 1,500 more were issued thru the mail, bringing sales of the gold plated pins to 37,187 for the two weeks they have been available.

The pins are to be worn by relatives of men in the armed services. Pins for those with sons and brothers in service have been best sellers thruout, with pins for wives and sweethearts of service men running third and fourth, respectively. The pins, which come in 20 combinations, may be purchased for 11 cents each at The Tribune public service offices or for 15 cents each by mail. All profit will go to the United Service organizations.

U. S. ORDERS ALL RADIO SENDING SETS REGISTERED

Phonograph Devices Among Few Exemptions.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

All persons possessing radio transmitters who do not have radio station licenses must register not later than June 28, according to a federal communications commission order.

National defense and successful prosecution of the war make it necessary for the government to know of all persons who possess apparatus equipped for the transmission of radio waves, it was stated.

Exempt from the FCC order are persons who possess certain low frequency devices, including phonographs linked to a radio receiver thru a miniature transmitting apparatus instead of by wire. Such units have a sending range of only a few feet.

Seek Unreported Sets.

The order presumably is directed at amateur operators who permitted their licenses to expire; owners of pleasure boats with transmitters that have not been licensed this season, and any person who has constructed a transmitter and failed to obtain a license to operate it. In the past many persons failed to pass the examinations for amateur licenses and received no permits. Some of these may have transmitting apparatus.

The FCC order is expected to help curb enemy operation of transmitting sets and to determine how much amateur radio equipment is available for American war needs.

The order calls for a separate application for each transmitter. Each application is to be sent to the secretary of the FCC at Washington. Forms are obtainable from the commission's offices in Washington or the 30 field offices, one of which is located in the United States courthouse in Chicago.

News and notes: Kenny Gardner, Guy Lombardo's baritone has gone into the army, and his place has been taken by Bobby Gibson. . . . Francis X. Bushman, featured on W-G-N for several seasons in various dramas, has been signed for a leading rôle in the dramatic series, "Those We Love," which is coming back to NBC on July 1 as a summer replacement for Eddie Cantor. . . . Don Dunphy, W-G-N-Mutual boxing reporter, will hear wedding bells instead of those he usually hears next Saturday. His bride will be Muriel Keating of New York City.

The Hooper radio report has revealed a steady rise in radio listening in the east since gasoline has been rationed on the seaboard. . . . Blonde Gale Robbins has been picked as the feminine soloist by Ben Bernie for his new show starting at 4:45 p. m. Monday on WBBM-CBS.

Dark Colored Hose Newest Style Conceit

BY REA SEEGER.

Since there is a definite dark side to summer fashions, a cool sheer dark tone at that, it was inevitable that dark shades of hosiery would appear. These black and deep shades of midnight blue and brown are tremendously effective companions to sleek distinctive street sheers in the same shades or with lighter dresses for sensational and flattering contrast.

For instance . . . try filmy black sheer nylons with your honey beige shantung dresses and matching pale beige summer footgear. Wear beige gloves to match and a beige bag. Team the sable tint of these new shadow thin nylons with an equally transparent black cartwheel hat and you have something every one will turn round to see. Or try midnight blue with black clothes. This deep blue tint flatters the flesh tones of the ankles with the same provocative subtlety as a blue veil over the eyelines.

There's a gorgeous dark brown shade aptly called cordovan, the deep rich brown of that famous leather. This is the shade you wear with natural toned silks, with beige linens or cottons, and with all shades of high fashion copper. Both mesh and lacey weaves are particularly effective and cool for hot weather, ideal for street daytime and spectator sports clothes. The more open meshed and lacey patterns are the newest. Price marks are exceptionally reasonable and both the nylons and the lacey meshes wear surprisingly well. If you want something different, something to make your summer costumes especially distinctive, try these black, dark brown, and midnight blue new stockings.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY.

Boss' Message.

Memorandum from the inner office: "Post card to my White Collar Girl on her vacation: 'Wish you were HERE!—Boss.'"

Job Opportunities.

The United States Civil Service commission announced this week that the ordnance inspection course at Illinois Institute of Technology is open for the first time to women who will be paid during training at the rate of $1,440 a year. Two to one was the ratio of job offers to the institute's spring graduates in the engineering and defense courses for women.

High school graduates, with six successfully completed units in chemistry, physics, mathematics, or drafting, between 21½ and 35 years old may apply to the third district of the United States Civil Service commission in Philadelphia for work in the army signal corps. The women's bureau in Washington says hundreds of women are needed as inspectors in private plants making radio, telephone and similar equipment. Those accepted receive $120 a month during training [from six to nine months] and $135 after that. Explaining the significance of the work the women's bureau comments: "Should an inspector pass a defective piece of equipment, the outcome of a military campaign might be affected."

Young women wishing to go into nurses' training, have written to this column asking if it can be done without funds. There are a few hospitals with a government subsidy for student nurses who can not afford the course. Send a stamped, addressed envelope if you would know more . . . and now the INFORMATION DESK is closed for the week-end.

Correct Spellings.

The correct spellings of the misspelled proper names in yesterday's column are: Winnepesaukee, Georgian Bay, Petoskey, Monongahela, Susquehanna.

War Word.

The newest addition to war-time speech is "gaboteur" denoting "some one who sabotages by gabbing carelessly about the war" . . . there's one in every office.

Old Glory.

Thoughts while the flag goes by: Altho a man [Capt. William Driver of Salem] christened it, in 1837, "Old Glory" a business woman made the first flag. Betsy Ross, with her husband, ran a small upholstery shop. Her daughter continued in the business of flag-making until 1857 and ever since, flags have been made, generally speaking, by women. Even today when the stars are machine embroidered [48 at one time] they are women's fingers which guide the machines. Women's fingers made the beautiful flag of 920 stars—and the two gold stars—hanging bravely in a State street store. Women's fingers made the breath-taking 50x100 foot flag which flies in Soldiers' field for the Tribune Music festival and the All-Star game—its heavy folds falling like a curtain of heaven . . . and women will continue to make flags as long as they can get materials. [Oddly enough there are no priorities on flags] . . . but priorities were unheard of 40 years ago when Kate O. Storrs made, completley by hand with fine seams, and appliqued stars, the lovely 10x14 foot flag still accorded the place of honor in her daughter's specialty shop—a marvel of needlework.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

[Reading time, 30 seconds.]

KIND: Farce comedy.

ACTING: Mischa Auer steals the show with his inimitable pantomime. . . . Joan Bennett, Glenda Farrell, Ernest Truex, and Margaret Hamilton are tops. . . . George Brent is miscast. . . . Farce isn't up his alley.

DIRECTION: Smart:

DIALOG: Sometimes amusing. . . . But the pantomime's better.

STORY: Much ado over the jealousy of a husband whose wife just loves society—especially that of men. . . . His wife is practically sleepless. . . . Then—the lady puts twin beds in their room. . . . Before the picture is over practically everybody is in and out of those beds, to the tune of much hilarious merriment on the part of the audience.

SETS, PHOTOGRAPHY, ETC.: Pleasing.

AUDIENCE APPEAL: Plenty! Audiences like to laugh these days and in "Twin Beds" rib tickling situations are rife.

See you tomorrow.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Mary Martin.

Hollywood, Cal., June 12.—It's being rumored all over the place that Bette Davis and Arthur Farnsworth will be divorced. Don't you be taken in by it. It won't happen—at least, while there's a war on.

Mary Martin, of all people, went temperamental—refused to kiss Dick Powell in "Happy Go Lucky" because he had a cold, for which I don't blame her. But then she held things up another hour because she didn't like the way the scene was written. Come, come, Mary, that's how little girls become unpopular. . . . Don Ameche got up from a warm bed to drive his stand-in to the hospital, caught cold, and has been bedded ever since. . . . Annabella will be heading east with Ty Power when he goes into the navy. She's already reading script for a new Broadway play.

Off the Record.

The longer I hang around the studios, the more their devious ways surprise me. Our stars have done a whale of a job making records, which are played by short wave to our armed forces everywhere. And the studios have been mighty cooperative, until the other day, when there was a command performance which included Bing Crosby, Dinah Shore, Don Ameche, Hugh Herbert, Carole Landis, and George Givot, with John Scott Trotter's orchestra, and the boys in Pearl Harbor had requested Kathryn Grayson. She was all-cleared by her studio, when suddenly her plans were switched, and she was whisked off to Boston instead. Which doesn't seem too bright on somebody's part.

Mars Vs. Venus.

The New Zealanders who have been in our midst for the last 10 days have been entertained at Pickfair, and by Virginia [Mrs. Darryl] Zanuck, who took them all thru 20th Century studio and showed them "My Gal Sal." They've had parties at the grove and Florentine gardens. One of the commanders said "I'm afraid I'm going to have trouble with my boys. After they've met and danced with so many movie stars, it's going to be tough bringing them down to earth again." We'll be mighty sorry to see them go. . . . Joe E. Brown says a nice gift for the men on duty in Alaska would be subscriptions to local papers. They're hungry for reading material, and the papers could be air mailed daily. How about it? . . . When Preston Foster roared onto the "Little Tokio, U. S. A." set, riding his new motorcycle, Bill Wellman told him to take it easy or he'd get hurt. And Preston replied, "Fine advice from the man who flew those coffin crates for the Lafayette Escadrille in the last war!"

How Can You Lose?

In "The Talk of the Town," they're showing two endings, and the audience will decide whether Cary Grant or Ronald Colman gets Jean Arthur. I suppose they'll judge by the amount of applause each brings forth. . . . Madeleine Le Beau is certainly getting on. Not only is she playing a part in "Casablanca," a film which her pal, Michele Morgan, turned down, but she's sitting at the director's table at Warners. . . . Humphrey Bogart thinks he's slipping. In Denver, Colo., 8 year old Rosalind Michelson went to see him in "The Big Shot." That was 8 p. m. Sunday. She fell asleep, woke at 2:35 a. m. in the blacked-out theater, was locked in, and after much screaming was rescued. "And that," says Bogy, "is my best critic."

Straight from Horses' Mouth.

On "Stand By to Die," which RKO is standing by to shoot the second Roz Russell finishes with "My Sister Eileen," they've got a studio carpenter, Ben White, for technical expert on the Midway sequence. Ben enlisted in a labor battalion right after Pearl Harbor, and has been on Midway thru six bombardments. Evacuated by the navy just prior to the last attack, he returned quietly to his carpentering job with the studio, but old "eagle eye," producer Dave Hempstead, got wind of it and grabbed him off. . . . Don't be surprised if within a year you see actual battle scenes from all fronts. Most of it is on 16 mm. colored film, which can be blown up to theater size.

Sincerest Flattery.

Mary Livingstone Benny was a great audience for "This Above All." Every time Joan Fontaine came on the screen, Mary gasped "O, isn't she beautiful!" and burst into tears. Joan not only was beautiful, but gave a beautiful performance. The picture was much harder on Ty Power, whose character at times reminded you of a heel. However, picture's beautifully done, and deserves all the raves it's getting. . . . Kitty Carlisle, who's made a big hit here in our new vaudeville show with George Jessel, Jack Haley, and others, is wanted for a concert in the Hollywood bowl this summer for the army and navy relief.

Under Cover Work.

Anita Colby has been the contact girl, rounding up beauties for Columbia's "Cover Girl." When she went to the various editors, each and every one said, "Hey! What about your doing a cover for us?" She's been photographed so much and has become so popular she'll be in the picture. . . . The most popular dog in pictures hereafter will probably be a little cocker named Whisky. A Great Dane was scheduled for scenes in "Girl Trouble," but he got sulky, so Harold Schuster, not wanting to waste time, sent for the cocker, whose nickname now is "One-Take Whisky." . . . If Paramount is intending to have Zorina do a sensational ballet in "Star Spangled Rhythm," why don't they let her repeat the one she did with the elephants opening night of the circus in Madison Square Garden?

Graduates Told by Dr. Willard of Future Tasks

The demands on the body, the mind, and the spirit will require the highest and broadest types of education if man is to survive in the post-war world, President Arthur Cutts Willard of the University of Illinois predicted yesterday at the commencement exercises for the colleges of medicine, dentistry, and pharmacy in the Civic Opera building. Two hundred fifty-two students were graduated in the ceremonies.

Asserting that there will be an enormous increase in air travel, Dr. Willard said: "Geographical and physical barriers will practically disappear and an intelligent understanding of events in far places will be vital to our continued existence as a free nation in a fast-moving world.

"All this imposes new and greater obligations and responsibilities on our universities and colleges to meet such a situation," he added. "Not only will the scientific departments face new demand but the departments of the humanities and the social sciences will be called on as never before."

Dr. Willard conferred degrees on the graduates and Dr. Raymond B. Allen, dean of the three colleges, administered the Hippocratic oath for all doctors. Eighty-five per cent of the graduating class in medicine and dentistry already have received commissions in the armed forces and will don uniforms soon.

Among the Illinois graduates who received the degree of doctor of medicine were Israel and Simon Zivin of 2138 Evergreen avenue, twins, and Seymour and Eli Cohen of 417 South Central Park avenue, two of a set of triplets. The third member of the trio, Harold Cohen, will receive his medical degree in September.

As a preliminary to graduation exercises at 5 o'clock this afternoon in Dyche stadium, Northwestern university alumni will parade, in the order of their classes, to the annual meeting and outdoor luncheon on the north campus this morning.

The commencement address will be delivered by Rear Adm. Wat Tyler Cluverius, United States navy [retired], on the topic, "The Outlook and the Outcome." Nearly 1,900 students from every state in the union and 14 foreign countries will receive degrees and diplomas on the campus.

The new $6,735,000 technological institute on Northwestern's Evanston campus will be dedicated in special ceremonies Monday and Tuesday. Principal speakers will be Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the War Productions board; Lieut. Gen. William S. Knudsen of the WPB, Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones, and Charles F. Kettering, president of the General Motors Research corporation.

In the mail:

"The news items tell us the commandos blacken their faces and wait for dark nights to attack. Old stuff, apparently, in fact about 1900 years old. Tacitus in his Germania, chapter 43, speaks thus of the 'Arii': 'Their shields are black, their bodies painted, they choose the darkest nights for attack, and strike terror by the funereal gloom of their sable bands.'

"The commandos would probably not like being linked up with the Arii or accused of imitating them, for they were a Germanic tribe, yet another Latin text has it: 'Fas est et ab hosti doceri.' ['It is right to be taught, even by a foe.']

—F. E. Munsch."

Purist.

Mrs. Frederick B. Moorehead [Margery Maxwell of opera and radio fame] was driving around the loop one recent morning, waiting for her husband, who'd gone into his bank for a few minutes. At every corner the traffic officer had an idea in which direction she should go, which got her pretty nettled after awhile. As she approached the corner of State and Randolph streets she said to a policeman: "Can I turn to the right here?" The officer saluted smartly and replied: "Madam, you may turn right at this corner."

Obsolete.

The foregoing recalls a mistake in grammar that cost a Chicago business man a pretty penny. Out of town for a few days, he wired his wife: "Have gotten tickets for ball game. Meet you at hotel." The wire read: "Have got ten tickets for ball game. Meet you at hotel." The wife was there all right, with eight guests.

Honored.

The publication of King George VI.'s birthday honors list on Thursday brought great happiness to the Donald McWilliams family in Evanston, since Mrs. McWilliams' brother, Geoffrey Shakespeare, received a baronetcy, being one of six thus honored. Mr. Shakespeare, a lineal descendant of William Shakespeare, had charge of evacuating British children to this country and Canada in the early part of the war. He has often visited his family here, the last time in October. His mother, Mrs. John H. Shakespeare, is with the McWilliamses for the duration.

I think I shall refrain in the future from any such delightful experiments. —Joanne Bertnik."

Today Marks Start of 1942 Debut Season

BY JUDITH CASS.

TODAY marks the starts of the official debut season which, in years past, has kept up in full swing from late spring to some time after Christmas. Last year's first debut was a country tea in May, but because of the war and its attendant problems the season is getting off to a slower start this year. Most of the young women to be presented this season, however, have decided on early summer parties. so the first "debut" week-end in June assumes something of the proportions of a Christmas holiday whirl. Miss Mary Mabbatt, Miss Joya Bovingdon, Miss Elizabeth Hubbard, and Miss Mary Lois Everitt are the young women who are making their bows today and tomorrow.

Miss Bovingdon's party will be a tea from 4 to 7 o'clock today in the Lake Forest home of her mother, Mrs. Thorne Bovingdon. It will be a small party, held out of doors if the weather man coöperates. Mrs. Bovingdon's fiancé, A. Buel Trowbridge Jr. of Winter Park, Fla., has come out to Lake Forest to receive today with Mrs. Bovingdon and her daughter. Mrs. Bovingdon and Mr. Trowbridge are to be married on June 25 in Dublin, N. H. The debutante plans to enter Bennington college in the fall.

Mary Mabbatt to Make Her Bow at Indoor Tea.

During the same hours today Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Mabbatt will present their daughter, Mary, at an indoor tea in Lake Forest. Here for the party is the debutante's grandmother, Mrs. Edward S. Phelps of Burlington, Ia. Miss Mabbatt was graduated this year from the Spence school, but next season she will be staying at home to study at a business school.

Many of the young guests at the two teas will be going home to dress and then on to Miss Elizabeth Hubbard's debut dinner-dance. The bud's mother, Mrs. Thomas Furness, will give the small party in her home in Lake Forest. Mrs. Furness has planned to have a buffet supper served on the lawn at 8 o'clock, but dancing will be indoors.

Two Foxcroft Classmates Guests of Miss Hubbard.

Two of Miss Hubbard's Foxcroft classmates, Miss Dede Matthiessen of San Francisco, Cal., and Miss Patricia Patterson of Pittsburgh, Pa., are her house guests over the week-end. Other out of town guests are Miss Lucy Mitchell, daughter of Mrs. Tom Byrd of Boyce, Va., who is the guest of Miss Blissie King, and Miss Ann Ordway of Battle Creek, Mich., who is visiting Miss Helen Niblack.

The bud's sister, Miss Marie Merrill Hubbard, has obtained leave from her St. Luke's hospital duties to be present at tonight's party. However, their stepfather, Mr. Furness, was unable to come from North Carolina. Mrs. Furness will be leaving the end of next week to join him.

Miss Mary Lois Everitt will have a country tea from 5 to 7 o'clock tomorrow in the home of her mother, Mrs. George B. Everitt of Winnetka. Receiving with the bud and her mother will be George B. Everitt Jr., who plans to enter the army soon. Among the young guests will be Miss Phyllis and Miss Barbara Feldmann of New York City. The party will be held indoors, but if the weather is nice the doors will be opened to allow guests to wander thru the garden.

Miss Everett was a student last year at Mount Vernon seminary but hasn't yet decided whether she'll be going back next year.

Miss Barbara Burnham's Engagement Is Revealed.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Burnham of Winnetka are not giving a party to announce the engagement of their middle daughter, Barbara, since the latter's fiancé, Charles Macgill Lynde, is unable to come on from Harrisburg, Pa. Both Miss Burnham and her fiancé, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Pleasants Lynde of Winnetka, were graduated from the North Shore Country Day school. She attended Briarcliffe Junior college, while young Mr. Lynde studied at Williams college.

Miss Burnham is a sister of Mrs.

Her Debut Planned for Late in August

Miss Mary Claire Van Hagen, who was graduated this month from Kemper hall, will be making her debut late in August, according to the plans which she and her mother, Mrs. John W. Esmond of Barrington, now have. Yesterday the bud was the special guest at a luncheon which Mrs. Wilbur Calhoun Smith gave at the Casino for the debutante group. Miss Van Hagen will enter Sarah Lawrence college in the fall. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Red Cross to Benefit from Horse Show in Hinsdale Tomorrow

A horse show that promises to be the largest in the region will be held tomorrow at the Emmett Riding club in Hinsdale for the benefit of the Red Cross. Most of the important stables from this region and individual exhibitors from all parts of the country are bringing their hunters, jumpers, trotters, and many gated animals here for the event.

Junior riders will have their part in the show; Jane Kroehler, 11 year old daughter of the Delmar L. Kroehlers of Hinsdale, who ranks as one of the best young horsewomen in this area, and Ann Krause, 13, daughter of the Charles H. Krauses, also of Hinsdale, will be on the program. Ann took the 1941 national championship in the competition for juniors.

Doyle F. Cady of Evanston is chairman of the arrangements committee. The events will be judged by James Emmett of Magnolia Springs, Ala., Stanley Luke of La Grange, and Paul Snethen of the Red Top stables in Libertyville.

House of Drama Opens Its 3d Season Tonight

The little theater group of the House of Drama tonight will present Larry Johnson's three act farce comedy, "The Mummy and the Mumps," at Forester's hall, 1016 North Dearborn street. Theodore V. Kundrat, director, also will take the comedy character rôle of Sir Hector Fish. The play will open the third season for the House of Drama, which during its first two years specialized in original scripts with bizarre plots.

Thru the Looking Glass

The same instinct that prompts women to substitute cotton for silk in their wardrobes and chintz for damask in their draperies when warm weather rolls around leads them—or should—to put their heady perfumes and their heavy creams away. A too-warm, languorous perfume is almost an abomination in hot weather and heavy creams certainly don't add to the sense of crispness that's essential for well being.

Fortunately, there are lighter fragrances and lighter creams. They're different but they serve their purposes just as well. Even the dry skinned woman whose constant fear is scanty lubrication will find that the modern "light" cleansing cream is satisfactory. If it's well made it's surprisingly efficient as an emollient as well as a cleanser.

There is, for example, a special summer cleanser we're fond of. It's light as can be; you whisk it on and whisk it off in a matter of minutes and it cleanses beautifully. Best of all it seems downright cooling because it has the delightful fragrance of fresh garden mint. It's the kind of thing you want to use on a sticky day, just as a mint flavored dish would be your inevitable summer choice at table. It has a freshening as well as a cleansing virtue, and that's what you want when your makeup façade and your spirits wilt in the heat!

It's inexpensive too; you can use it generously, and you will. But one especially endearing quality is its trick of being a fairly good lubricant. You have the comforting knowledge that you're not sacrificing the necessary emollient quality to what is best described as "coolth." It's a summer love if ever there was one.

Ruth Burrows Among Many Brides Today

A quaint satin dress which recalls the styles of 60 years ago will be Miss Ruth Burrows' bridal gown today for her marriage to Laurance R. R. Dawson. The ceremony, witnessed by relatives and close friends, will take place at 12:30 o'clock in the Lake Forest home of the bride's mother, Mrs. William F. Burrows. Weather permitting, the Rev. Herbert Prince will perform the ceremony in the garden, and later a wedding breakfast will be served on the lawn.

The bride is wearing the 1880 style satin gown with small bustle and train and the veil and orange blossoms handed down from her grandmother, the late Mrs. William F. Burrows. She will be attended by her sister, Mrs. Robert Whittemore of Boston, Mass. Deborah Williams, the Albert D. Williams' daughter, is taking the place of Nancy Clow, who was to have been flower girl until she became ill. Mr. Dawson will have his brother, Edmund, as best man, and ushering will be McPherson Holt Jr. and the bride's cousin, George Burrows. The ring bearers will be the bridegroom's young cousins, Peter and Jackie Voevodsky, sons of the George Voevodskys, with whom Mr. Dawson has resided.

Women in War Work

By India Moffett

Sixty members of the Navy Mothers club, headed by Mrs. Helen Joyce, will become Salvation Army doughnut girls on Tuesday, the annual Doughnut day sponsored by the women's division of the Salvation Army. The paper tags are doughnut shaped.

Mrs. Helen Joyce. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

This year the day has been dedicated to Gen. Douglas MacArthur and the proceeds will be used for war work. The women's division has broken down that all embracing term "war work" into statements of just what will be done with the funds.

The war work includes: making kits and articles of clothing for service men on fighting fronts, making layettes for war babies, care of mothers and children of service men who cannot afford hospital expense. The regular Salvation Army project benefiting from the doughnut sale will be the camp near Antioch where 4,000 women and children go annually for vacations. Also listed for a share of the day's proceeds are the Army's settlement on the south side, the emergency lodge on the west side, and the home and hospital on Pulaski road.

Navy mothers who will be Doughnut day captains are Mrs. Blanche Lane, Mrs. Olive Youmans, Mrs. Katherine Stumphy, Mrs. Hamilton Moses, Mrs. Reginald Reid, Mrs. Sara Hughes, Mrs. Lottie Lynch, Mrs. Eleanor Kneisley, Mrs. Margaret Becker, Mrs. Loren Lukey, and Mrs. Martha Rohman.

The public will have an opportunity to discover what real Salvation Army doughnuts and coffee must mean to tired fighting men. A special feature of this Doughnut day will be the operation of two mobile canteen units, recent gifts from employés of the telephone company. The canteens will be at the Union and North Western railway stations in the breakfast hours, in the loop at lunch time, and at the White Sox ball park in the evening. Women members of the Illinois Telephone Traffic union and the Chicago Telephone Traffic Employés union, the two organizations that gave the canteens, will operate the units. The Chicago Telephone Traffic Employés union has a membership of 7,400 Illinois Bell employés here. Mrs. Emma Jascot is president.

The National Council of Jewish Women, Chicago section, is opening a course on consumer relations as a summer program in keeping with civilian defense needs. The first meeting will be at 1:30 o'clock Monday in room 1708 of the Medical and Dental Arts building at 185 North Wabash avenue.

There will be a round table discussion on the subject "Ceiling for Your Purse." Benjamin S. Adamowski will be moderator. Participants and their subjects will be: J. Charles Laue, field representative, consumers' division of the OPA, "The Consumer's Angle"; Jack Oppenheim, head of criminal litigation, Chicago regional office, OPA, speaking, "The Government Angle," and Ray S. Erlandson, vice president and sales manager of the Rudolph Wurlitzer company, "The Business Angle."

Mrs. Gunther Plaut is chairman in charge of arrangements for the Monday meeting. Mrs. Mitchell Edelson is chairman of the council's civilian defense program.

Chaperons for the street dance the Chicago Service Men's center is holding this evening will be the Chicago women who are Service center hostesses. Mrs. Sartelle Brooks, hostess chairman, says that 30 to 50 women will be needed. Most needed will be the entire enrollment of Chicago Service center girls to make sure enough dancing partners for the troops who will be in Chicago this evening in preparation for tomorrow's parade.

The dance will begin with a grand march from the Service center, 176 West Washington street, at 6 o'clock. The procession will go to the "dance floor," which will be La Salle street between Washington and Randolph streets. The trained nurses will lead. Next will be the guides—members of the Junior league, the Service club, the La Salle Street Business Women, and the American Association of University Women. The hostesses will be next in line, followed by the SMC girls.

Mrs. Rebecca Parker, worthy grand matron of the Order of Eastern Star in Illinois, will present three ambulances to the Red Cross at the ceremonies at Soldiers' field tomorrow afternoon after the parade. The ambulances were bought with contributions from Eastern Star members thruout the state.

The ambulance fund of the Illinois Federation of Music Clubs will benefit from a concert to be given tomorrow evening by Marie Luviso, soprano, and Lydia Smutny, pianist. The concert will be given at 8:30 o'clock in Curtiss hall in the Fine Arts building. This is the first of a series of "New Stars Victory Concerts" arranged by Mathilde Ernestine.

[The Women in War Work department reports on women's activities in war and defense work and will answer questions of women wishing to take part in these activities.]

Lake Forest Academy's Commencement Is Today

McPherson Holt, president of the board of trustees of Lake Forest academy, will present diplomas at the school's 84th annual commencement exercises at 10:30 o'clock today. The exercises will be followed by the class ivy planting and a commencement luncheon.

Women Artists' Salon Gay and Colorful Exhibit

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

One of the most attractive exhibitions of the year is the Women Artists' Salon of Chicago, which opens today at the Findlay galleries, 338 South Michigan avenue. The exhibit is diversified, gay, colorful, and amusing. The Town and Country Arts club gave two prizes, one of which went to the distinguished portrait of Gen. Douglas MacArthur by Macena Barton and the other to "Blue Flower Pots" by Laura Van Pappelendam.

Eugenie Glamen is showing a picturesque "Chicago Scene — Union Stock Yards," with a group of attractive ponies lending color to the background of walls, ring, and buyers. Harriet Krawiec offers a stunning basket of cut peonies, and Anna Lynch, in "My Studio Window," works magic with another flower arrangement.

Winifred Pleimling and Averil Conwell carry off the honors for still life. Both their paintings are extremely well done. Edithe Jane Cassidy in "Commuters" and Peggy Palmer Burrows in "Victory Garden" inject the spice of humor into the show.

Mary C. Peterson offers in "Church at Tamazunchale" a beautiful Mexican landscape, with an intriguing turkey in the foreground, and Mary B. Poull gives a glimpse of "Old K Street Market, Washington, D. C." Frances Badger is clever in her terse comment on "Spring," and Julia Thecla gives an equally quick criticism of a season in her sketch of pier and nude.

Pauline Graff Little with her "Portrait of Mrs. Alfred Wallenstein," Marie Blanke with "Hill Town," Florence Arquin with "Fall Fruit," and Ethel Crouch Brown with "Bouquet" continue the decorative and independent stand of this exhibit. It will continue to June 27 and is well worth seeing.

A class of 98 students was graduated yesterday afternoon at the Chicago Art Institute. Chauncey McCormick, vice president of the Art institute, awarded the degrees and Norman L. Rice, dean of the school, delivered the commencement address. Several foreign traveling fellowships were given. The Anna Louise Raymond fellowship of $1,500 went to Frederick Heidel of Cascadia, Ore.; the Edward L. Ryerson fellowship of $1,200 went to Richard Bowman of Rockford, Ill., and the John Quincy Adams fellowship of $1,000 was awarded to Rufino Silva, who is a scholarship student of the government of Puerto Rico. Winfield Stampfer and Rudolph Penn received honorable mentions.

An attractive exhibit of posters and drawings by children presented by the art department of the public schools under the title "Children Help Win the War" opened yesterday in the eighth floor tearoom of Carson Pirie Scott & Co.

Make a Child Over? It's Not Possible

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1942: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

It has "nothing to do with the case, tra-la, has nothing to do with the case," as one of the Gilbert & Sullivan characters so merrily trills in—I've forgotten which one of those clever and amusing operettas.

I mean to say: That, whether you would like your son to be dashing, venturesome, and athletic instead of gentle and a student—whether you would like your daughter to be at the head of her class in college instead of living for parties and sports—has "nothing to do with the case." For they have an individuality determined for them by nature or the mysterious forces of heredity perhaps far back. And, if you wish they were different, your wishes have nothing to do with the case. Sometimes parents have hidden longings for a different sort of child—sometimes the longings are openly expressed.

* * *

One day I heard the mother of a really lovely little girl say, in a moment of discouragement: "O, I wish Sheila was the happy go lucky kind—always jolly, and not so sensitive and thoughtful."

And another time I overheard the mother of a highly imaginative, gifted boy say: "Sometimes I wish David was one of those calm, phlegmatic boys, like Robert. Bobbie goes on in the even tenor of his way—always cheerful, unruffled and unexcited by family squabbles or journeys, or even operations. It would be so easy."

And it is not unusual to hear people bemoan other things concerning their children, like, "I do wish Ellen was artistic;" or, "I'd give anything if Richard was a student and a book-lover, instead of being crazy about animals and athletics;" or, "It would be such company for me if Helen liked housework and sewing—but she just isn't domestic."

* * *

Such dissatisfactions even extend themselves into the physical. "I always hoped I'd have a slender, 'smart' dark haired child whom I could design clothes for; and here's Peg, short and chubby and utterly without style," bewailed a mother. And a father thinks, "I've always dreamed of a broad, husky chap for a son who would be a famous quarter back at my own college—and here's Don rather small and slender and a poet, and obviously not equipped for the rough and tumble of college athletics."

Whether you say these things, or only think them, you are making a great mistake. Your sense of disappointment will surely get in the way of your sympathy with your child. For another thing, that feeling is apt to make you try to mold your son or daughter, to try to recast him or her nearer to your heart's desire. And there lies trouble or failure, unhappiness or rebellion—sometimes all three.

Instead, first admit to yourself that what YOU would like your child to be "has nothing to do with the case." Then be loyal to him in spirit, and work with him, helping him to do the most with his true self. A real love and respect will grow up between you as a result.

How can the teacher help the self-effacing child? What can be done for the left-handed boy or girl? Parents and teachers alike will welcome "Talks with Teachers," new 28 page booklet by Gladys Huntington Bevans. Get your copy today at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price, 5 cents. Postpaid, 7 cents.

Contract According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1942: By Ely Culbertson.]

If the average player could realize how much aid and comfort he gives to the enemy, he would be highly discomfited, to put it mildly. Today's hand illustrates the sort of defense that brings joy to the expert declarer's heart.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
2 spades	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

West felt that his best defense lay in finding East with the diamond ace and getting a ruff; hence, despite North's diamond bid, opened the singleton. Dummy's ten covered the nine and East won with the jack. East, of course, could count all the diamonds, and on the wild hope that his partner might be able to overruff declarer, laid down the diamond ace. Declarer had no idea of the freakish diamond situation, but nevertheless did not make the error of ruffing with the deuce of trumps. He could well afford to put in the seven spot and did so automatically. To his pleasure, West could neither follow suit nor overruff, and this latter, of course, made the position of the spade queen obvious. The spade deuce was led to the king and a finesse was taken on the return. Then East's queen was neatly picked up. A low club was led to the ten spot, and the best West could do was go in with his ace and return a club. Since dummy was down to one trump, declarer could not ruff out both his losing hearts, but was glad to concede one of them to the defenders for their third and final trick.

East's action in leading the second diamond was tantamount to exposing his spade queen. South had bid and rebid spades, and right before East's eyes were the king, queen, ten, and nine. East knew that a second diamond lead would be ruffed, and there was certainly no ground for hoping that declarer's ruff would be low enough to permit an overruff. From East's point of view, successful defense might very well depend on declarer's inability to guess the spade queen.

That being so, East should have taken extreme pains to disguise the fact that he held that card twice guarded. Rather than return a diamond and probably expose West's inability to ruff high, East should have led a heart. It is extremely likely that, had this return been made, declarer would have lost the contract by playing for a 2-2 trump break.

You can mothproof woolens, blankets, upholstery, bathing suits, hats, furs, rugs, draperies, suits and coats by spraying them with a special liquid designed for the purpose and which, its makers assert, will keep away moths for one year. It won't shrink fabrics, nor will it affect dyes. This spray is put up in pint, quart, and gallon bottles and should be applied with a sprayer made for this purpose. Full directions are given on the containers. EDITH WEIGLE.

[Copyright: 1942: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Don't, if you're having a patriotic party, run the red-white-and-blue scheme to extremes. And don't work too hard to get blue into your foods. Red and white are natural to many foods, but blue isn't, and sometimes blue-tinted food is horribly unappetizing. Red, white and blue mints are pretty, but other blues should be confined to the tea plates, cups and saucers, or to the flowers or other decorations.

Some red and white tea table darlings: Nut bread rounds or triangles, spread with cream cheese and covered with sliced strawberries; tiny white sugar cookies decorated with halves of cherries; maraschino cherry refrigerator cookies; tiny, white-frosted cakes decorated with a cherry or strawberry; cherry angel cake.

◆

If you're carrying potato salad or deviled eggs to the picnic, keep them refrigerated until just before you leave. Eggy foods should start out very cold if they have to wait any length of time before being served. If you have a container which will keep them that cold until serving time, so much the better.

Ever take egg salad and sardine sandwiches to a picnic? They usually make a real hit. Spread the bread with egg salad and lay the sardines across it. Don't mix 'em with the salad.

◆

A pound of sugar will go a long way in cookies such as these:

Oatmeal and Rice Flakes Cookies.
[Six and a half dozen.]

1 cup butter or margarine
1 cup white sugar
1 cup brown sugar
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla or maple flavoring
2 cups sifted flour
½ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups quick-cooking oatmeal
2 cups rice flakes
1 cup coconut

Cream butter and sugars. Add eggs and flavoring and beat until very light. Sift flour, soda, baking powder and salt several times, then add to other mixture and blend well. Add oatmeal, rice flakes, and coconut. Mix thoroly. The dough will be crumbly. Mold with the hands into small balls and place on a lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 10 minutes.

Modern armies know that scurvy [caused by lack of vitamin C] has played a large rôle in the history of wars. It causes mental as well as physical disease, lowers morale, causes gloom and discouragement, melancholia, and apathy. Fear conquers an army in which scurvy exists. The American soldier's carefully controled diet provides him with plenty of vitamin C. It is said that every German soldier receives his daily ration of vitamin C in crystalline form.

During the Abyssinian campaign, scurvy was prevented among Italians by a lemon a day for every soldier. The Ethiopians were scurvy-ridden, unfortunately for them.

Crocheting Favorites

698
BE IT EVER SO HUMBLE THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE HOME
939

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Here is a crocheted hat—1094—which is flattering to every woman. It is an easy crochet trick done in one piece and fastened at the back with grosgrain ribbon. The crocheted child's dress—939—is a prime favorite among mothers who want something cool and durable for summer. No. 698 is one of our favorite mottos and the veracity of the statement cannot be denied. The cross-stitch motif is an easy embroidery stitch and the finished motto measures approximately 11 by 15 inches.

For EACH pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

"The Girl Who Stood Alone"----By Roy Vickers

INSTALMENT XLII.

ARREST.

Finding the card "in order," the guard wrote "identified" at the top of the telegram and promised to drop it at Rixham.

For all of which June thanked him verbally—and with a substantial tip—before she rejoined Rawlings' mother who was putting sugar into her teacup.

Sweetening her own tea, June wondered if perhaps she shouldn't have reported the pistol to the guard. But on second thought she was glad she hadn't, for if he'd tried to take it from the baroness she would probably have shot herself rather than surrender it. Either that or there might have been a scuffle which would have added up to more than one fatality. She'd keep an eye on the bag with the revolver in it, however. A close eye on it.

And that June did as the train sped on, with the baroness looking out of the window nearly all the while and speaking only when spoken to. Neither did she refer again to her son, so except for the train noises, there was mostly silence in the compartment.

But at long last they were within a quarter of an hour's run of Newcastle, and in a quarter of an hour, as June kept telling herself, she would know whether Glenday could retrieve his own blunder; the mistake of having her trump up the lie about talking to Wirtz.

In 10 minutes the train slowed and stopped on a signal, then resumed its journey. It was slowing again in Newcastle station when the inner door was opened by a superintendent of police. With the baroness glancing out of the window, June saw him first and grabbed the bag containing the revolver as two constables blocked the doorway.

"Baroness Rallendorf?"

At sound of her name Rawlings' mother about-faced, discovered her bag in June's hand, the police superintendent, and the constables at the door.

"I have to arrest you, baroness," said the superintendent, "and I hope there'll be no trouble."

"None, since that woman has taken my revolver. Otherwise you would have carried me to the morgue."

June took the revolver from the bag and handed it to the superintendent. Then she gave back the bag to its owner.

"I am deeply sorry, baroness, but you know I had to do it," she said. "I will keep my promise to protect Frank."

The baroness looked at her—and June would remember that look all her life.

At 9:30 the next morning June was at Kilvern street. Glenday was out, but the gaunt Miss Flinders was more than adequate.

She reported in detail and received the information that the baroness was in Holloway prison.

"They will give her seven years," said Miss Flinders, "because of the film of her taking that bag."

"How ghastly!" said June, whereupon Miss Flinders stared at her.

"You've had more successes than most of us have in a lifetime," she said. "And yet you're an amateur and will always be an amateur. And, anyhow, wasn't it pretty ghastly of that woman to convey explosive for destroying property and life?"

"O, I know! But, dash it, Miss Flinders, there is the human side."

"No, there isn't," said Miss Flinders. "How are you going to resume contact with Rawlings? Glenday says that is important."

"Whatever Glenday says is important, isn't it? Yet his mother insisted I must never see Frank again. However, she's in prison . . . they've had no chance to compare notes as yet . . . and I know a riverside café where he goes often, so I'll drop in there. If we don't meet before tonight, tho, I shall be with my aunt in Richmond."

Leaving the house, June took a taxi to Holloway prison. There she deposited five pounds and arranged that the Baroness Rallendorf should have every physical comfort and privilege that is allowed to prisoners.

Then she went to the West End garage to which she'd driven the Morstyn early yesterday morning against a possible emergency.

And by 1:30 she was sitting at Rawlings' favorite riverside café, eating a leisurely lunch, more or less sure he would put in an appearance. By 2:30 her confidence weakened. Nevertheless she lingered on and at 3:30 he came drifting down the river in a punt.

"How nice to see you!" He tied up and stepped onto the lawn.

"I was hoping you'd come, but," hesitating, "I've got bad news, Frank. Very bad."

"You couldn't get the Rosher papers in Newcastle," he guessed. "And we must try again—now." Something in her expression made him ask: "Mother?"

"Yes. They stopped the train just outside Newcastle. She had a revolver in her bag. I grabbed it, Frank, because I was afraid she would use it on herself."

"Did you?" He frowned. "I'm not sure the revolver wouldn't have been the best solution. The poor old dear was beginning to lose her nerve."

June was momentarily shocked by his callousness, but in the same tone she continued:

"She's in Holloway and I went there this morning and made what arrangements I could for her comfort."

"Why on earth did you do that! It really was awfully thoughtless of you. You have put me in extra danger. They may have trailed you here."

"I know that they did not. I parked three times on the Ripley road to make sure."

"Hm! The 'blue-eyed boy' is having a field-day. He has pretty well put me out of business. Anyhow, thank heaven, I've seen you again before they get me!"

"They won't get you," said June. "You're going to keep your nerve, Frank. And you're going to have something to eat."

"Good!" He laughed. "And to think this was to have been our wedding day. And we can't get to the registrar's in time to be married! It'll have to be tomorrow."

She could tell him they would never go to the registrar's together, or should she just let events take care of themselves?

While June was deciding on the latter course Rawlings said: "I reckon Glenday has driven me out of this country. If I can get out—an enemy alien of military age."

"You can. I feel sure of it."

"If I can, will you come with me, June?"

Again she appeared to hesitate before answering. Finally, "That's an awful lot to ask in wartime."

"It's a hell of a risk, I know," he agreed. "They've stuffed up every hole. Once in the air, tho, we can almost certainly get out of the country. The RAF would simply think we were mad civilians. But I doubt whether I can get into Laybourne aerodrome. I don't think Glenday knows I put up there, because I've 'covered' the tracks. They have, however, circulated my description to all aerodromes. Still, we might burgle Laybourne by night . . ."

"And a desperate venture that would be!" interrupted June.

"A desperate man takes desperate chances," said Rawlings, "and tonight I'll hang around and observe the habits of the local bobby and so on. You had better put up at your aunt's."

"All right, and in the meantime——?"

"I have a job for you. I want you to call at our 'postoffice' if you will. It's a little cigaret shop in Grange street off Theobald's road. You just go in and ask for the guv'nor's cigarets. They give you a box of 50 cigarets and you pay 10 bob and walk out without waiting for the change."

There was a silence while he followed his own thoughts and then:

"You're making me believe that we shall pull it off," he said eagerly. "I know where to land in Holland. We can stoke up there. Then to Berlin where I must report. And then the family estate will be the next stop."

BETTINA POUNDS ALLEN FOR 10 ROUND VICTORY

CUBS, OLSEN BEAT BRAVES, 3-2; WEATHER HALTS SOX

LEFTY YIELDS 6 HITS IN FIRST 1942 TRIUMPH

10th Defeat in Row for Boston.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs made themselves a bit more secure in sixth place, from which they have been unceremoniously bounced several times, and also perpetuated Casey Stengel's current streak of unhappiness by dusting off the Braves yesterday in the opener of a four game series. Between Vern Olsen's southpawing and the batting feats of Bill Nicholson and Laughing Lou Novikoff, the Braves just did the best they could before folding up by 3 to 2 for their tenth consecutive defeat.

Olsen, going the route for the second time this year and registering his maiden triumph in five starts, was the master of Stengel's spring flowers in all except one spot. For three innings he owned a no hitter, which was reduced to a one hit argument in the fourth, and in the fifth went into such a spin that the enemy plastered him four times for the two runs needed to tie. He revived as quickly as he had wilted to go the rest of the distance with no more damage than a ninth inning single.

Lou and Bill Are Big Shots.

Nicholson and Novikoff ruined Al Javery's appetite with five hits, three of them being mighty helpful to their left handed pal. Nicholson spotted two on base on the first inning and doubled them home. He tore off a wallop of similar proportions in the sixth and this time Laughing Lou usurped the driving-in honors by singling. His second single came later and, while it caused no entry in the run column, the Mad Russian didn't complain. It was his fifth hit in two days of endeavor.

The first inning, which put Olsen in fairly comfortable circumstances, was touched off by Stan Hack's single into center. Len Merullo sacrificed, Phil Cavarretta walked, and Rip Russell popped out. Here's where Nicholson got in his first whack against Javery's pitching, a looping blow close to the foul line in left. By the time Chet Ross, who had shifted well over toward center, retrieved the ball, Hack and Cavarretta had scored and Nick was anchored safely on second, which was where Novikoff left him by flying to Johnny Cooney.

Fifth Is Rather Painful.

Olsen's job remained hitless until two were out in the fourth, at which point Ernie Lombardi's bat, which Olsen previously had avoided by issuing a pass, rapped a single into left. This proved a preliminary for what the Braves had in mind for their fifth inning act. Eddie Miller led off then with a single and was doubled on Lew Gremp's grounder, but the Braves apparently didn't mind the twin jolt. Javery and Sibbi Sisti revived the attack by singling and Cooney was given a more or less intentional pass. Frank Demaree, the Cub alumnus, promptly tied the score by doubling to left; but Olsen bounced right back with a set of strikes for Nanny Fernandez, and went on to the finish from there, delayed only by Lombardi's second single in the ninth.

Singles by Merullo and Nicholson gave Novikoff an opportunity to assert himself in the third, but he produced only the third out. However, he was less gentle with Javery in his next appearance. Nicholson's second double, this one a thump to left center, opened the sixth and Novikoff hastened to make amends for his previous neglect. He slapped his single thru short to send in Nicholson with the run that broke the 2 to 2 tie. Novikoff tried to continue his tour, but after getting to second he wasn't quite speedy enough to reach third on Olsen's grounder which Miller grabbed in deep short.

The Big Victory Celebration Gets Under Way

Oak Park High school's baseball team put in quite an afternoon beating Streator, 7 to 2, for the state championship yesterday—but then the fun started. The Villagers opened their victory celebration by hoisting their two heroes to their shoulders. Above, on the shoulders of those at the left is Dick Demir who pitched seven and two-thirds innings for the champions. Hoisted up by those at the right is Coach Frank Foster.

Oak Park's 7-2 Victory Brings State Crown

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Oak Park's talented Villagers, living up to all their advance notices, won the Illinois State High school baseball title yesterday afternoon in their own stadium before a sunbaked crowd of 3,500. The Suburban league champions easily outclassed the Streator Bulldogs, champions of the Big 12 conference. The score was 7 to 2.

This was the game which was to have been played last Saturday night in Peoria as the climax to the second annual prep baseball tournament. But rain interfered and the tournament managers shifted it to Oak Park stadium.

No Time Is Lost.

The pattern of the game was set in the first inning. When Ken Carey leaped to his left for a glove hand stop of Don Morris' drive to turn it into the third out, it must have been discouraging to the Bulldogs. Then, in their first turn at the plate the Villagers, getting a running start on a two base error, softened up big Louis Elko with a two run attack. That's about the way it was the rest of the way—smart fielding, good pitching, and timely hitting by Oak Park.

Elko, Streator's big right hander, was knocked out in the sixth inning when the Villagers had another two run inning. Dick Demir, who started for the new state champions, also was forced to surrender before the finish. The little Serbian lasted until the eighth, when with one out, Streator made two straight singles. Just to play it safe, Coach Frank Foster called in Roy Wiedow from right field and the little southpaw mopped up stylishly.

Demir Fans Eight.

Demir and Elko each was popped for nine hits, but the 138 pound Oak Park Serbian fanned eight to his opponent's one. Dick struck out the last batter in the fourth, and three of the five who faced him in the fifth, the others getting infield hits. He fanned the first one in the sixth and also the third one to bunch six of his strikeouts. Elko had nine assists after booting his first chance.

Roy Wiedow heads for first base on his way to Oak Park's first run in the first inning. He reached second on a low throw to First Baseman Don Morris, who is reaching in vain for the ball, and scored on a hit.

Senators and Sox Will Try Again Tonight

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 12.—Weather halted proceedings tonight after the White Sox and the Washington Senators had played one scoreless inning in the scheduled opener of their four game series, a series which may lodge either team in the American league cellar.

After a long wait, the game was postponed and it was announced that the team will play tomorrow night, instead of tomorrow afternoon as planned.

Manager Jim Dykes announced that Bill Dietrich will pitch tomorrow night, thus shoving back Orval Grove who worked briefly tonight. Manager Bucky Harris expects to use Alex Carrasquel. Wally Masterson had no difficulty in retiring Wally Moses, Luke Appling, and Don Kolloway tonight before the game was called.

The Sox will wind up their series here Sunday in a double header in which Ted Lyons and Eddie Smith will do the pitching.

EWELL HURT IN JUMP TRIAL; OUT OF NCAA TRACK

U. S. C. Qualifies 15 in Bid for Title.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lincoln, Neb., June 12.—Misfortune scratched one of the nation's greatest college athletes tonight in the opening events of the 21st National Collegiate track meet in Nebraska's stadium.

Barney Ewell of Penn State, the collegiate sprint champion at 100 and 220 yards for 1940 and 1941, injured a muscle and was withdrawn from all events. Ewell was injured in the broad jump, an event in which he never has competed in the NCAA games, but in which he has proved his superiority for three years on the eastern seaboard.

After warming up on the track and running thru for his marks in the broad jump, Ewell missed his stride and fouled on his first jumping trial. On his second attempt, he again missed his stride, ran into the pit at full speed and pulled a tendon in his right thigh. He was helped from the field by his coach, Chick Werner. The accident occurred only a few minutes before Ewell would have run in the 100 yard dash trials.

Davis Probable Sprint Winner.

Ewell had just completed three years of competition in the IC-4A meeting. He had won the broad jump and both sprints during this period for an astounding total of nine individual championships.

Ewell's withdrawal apparently assures California's Hal Davis the sprint championships. Davis was a standout tonight and got two of his team's three qualifying positions.

Southern California piled up 15 qualifying places in nine events and made certain that it will win its eighth consecutive team championship. Ohio State, Big Ten track champion, was second in the trials with six qualifiers and Nebraska was third with five. Twenty-seven universities and colleges placed men in the nine finals.

Other Stars Fail.

Bad luck dogged other fine athletes. Harold Hall of Rice, who won the Central collegiate 440 yard race last Saturday night, and Bob Ufer of Michigan failed to qualify in this event. Russ Owen, Ohio State Big Ten title holder at 440 yards, barely managed to get in the select group. Ed Hertl of Stanford, while running in first place in the second heat of the 220 yard low hurdles, hit the last barrier and failed to qualify. He did not fall.

Charley Hlad, Michigan Normal's splendid hurdler who has run the 220 yard highs in 13.9 seconds, was disqualified this evening for false starting. Hlad came back, however, to qualify in the low hurdles.

The Farmers Are Complaining.

"Isn't it hot?" I said to a man,
A bit of talk maintaining,
"Yes," he replied, "we sure need rain,
The farmers are all complaining."

"I wish this rain would stop," I said,
"And not be quite so sustaining."
"Yes," said the man, "the ground's too wet—
The farmers are all complaining."

One chilly day I mentioned the fact
How cool it kept remaining,
"Yes," said he, "it's bad for the corn,
The farmers are all complaining."

Before I die I hope I'll see
One day with all acclaiming,
To which farmers will say, "This is okay"—
With nary a hint of "complaining"!

Strikes a gay note so alien to gloom,
While lamplight throws on us its cozy shine.
Like scent of peonies, the thought of you
Ensnares my heart in this enchanted hour,

Fight Decisions

At Chicago Stadium—Melio Bettina beat Altus Allen [10]; Billy Murray beat Jackie Nichols [10]; Hezzie Williams beat Jesse Jackson [4]; Al Globe knocked out Paul Kurlytis [2]; Willie Joyce beat Carmelo Fenoy [10].
At Jacksonville, Fla.—Tommy Gomez beat Tommy Tucker [10].

BY FRANK MASTRO.

Melio Bettina, Beacon, N. Y., heavyweight challenger, attained his 12th victory in a row by beating Altus Allen, former Golden Glover, in a 10 round bout in Chicago stadium last night. The decision was unanimous, but it was greeted with mingled boos and cheers.

Bettina won every round except the seventh, which was called a draw, and the fourth, which went to Allen. Referee Tommy Gilmore's score card showed 52-48 for Bettina. The judges—Rube Metz and Livingston Osborne—gave Bettina a bigger edge. Metz voted 57-43 and Osborne scored 54-46.

Altus Isn't Good Enough.

The attendance of 3,836 was one of the smallest crowds ever to see a show in the huge west side building. Gross receipts were $7,680. Bettina received 30 per cent of the net, or $1,920.

Because Bettina was the pre-fight choice, fans were rooting for Allen to score an upset. Altus didn't come close to achieving this ambition, but his aggressive, two fisted style won him new backers. He made Melio step fast all the way.

Bettina, was looking to the future. He has an important match coming up with Harry Bobo in Cleveland and another with Bob Pastor in Chicago. Consequently, he was cautious all the way against Allen.

Joyce Whips Fenoy.

It was Bettina's 63d triumph in 76 appearances. He weighed 189 pounds, the heaviest he's been in ten months. Allen was at 187.

Willie Joyce, Gary lightweight, outpointed Carmelo Fenoy, claimant of the 135 pound championship of South America, in a 10 round secondary feature, which was presented after the main event. In an additional match of 10 rounds Billy Murray, lightweight stablemate of Bettina, outboxed Jackie Nichols of Gary to score his 17th consecutive decision.

Al Globe, El Paso, Tex., light heavyweight, registered the only knockout on the card when he sent Paul Kurlytis of Scott field spinning to the canvas in the second round. Hezzie Williams, 1941 Golden Gloves 175 pound titleholder, defeated Jesse Jackson in a four round opener.

MANGRUM, LITTLE WIN TWICE AND LEAD INVERNESS

Toledo, O., June 12 (AP).—Lloyd Mangrum and Lawson Little went out in front today in quest of the $2,150 top prize in the eighth annual $7,650 Inverness four-ball matches, chalking up an aggregate plus 7 count with two victories.

They registered a 4-up victory over Denny Shute and E. J. [Dutch] Harrison this morning, and then came back for a 2-up victory over Henry Picard and Sammy Byrd, to go three points ahead of the field.

Tied for second place, with scores of plus 4 for three of the seven matches, were Herman Keiser and Chandler Harper, and the defending champions, Jimmy Demaret and Ben Hogan.

Demaret and Hogan, leaders at the end of the first round, stretched their edge this morning with a 2-up conquest over Byrd and Picard, but they lost to Byron Nelson and Jimmy Thomson, 2 up, this afternoon.

SUN CHARIOT, ONE OF KING'S HORSES, VICTOR IN OAKS

Big Game, Also of Royal Stables, Derby Favorite.

NEWMARKET, England, June 12 (AP).—King George VI today won the first half of a racing double no sovereign has ever captured when Sun Chariot, the Irish filly his majesty leased for her racing career, came from far back to take the mile and a half Oaks.

It was the royal stables' first victory in this ancient fixture for 3 year old fillies and left Sun Chariot with a record of having been beaten only once in her career. With his undefeated colt, Big Game, the choice for tomorrow's derby, King George was favored to run out this double and thus sweep the big four for 3 year olds. Previously this season Big Game won the 2,000 Guineas and Sun Chariot the 1,000 Guineas.

Wins by Length.

The filly broke poorly today and lost some six lengths at the start by running wide. Once Gordon Richards, the King's jockey, got her straightened out, however, she picked up her rivals in a hurry, took command at the five-sixteenths pole and galloped home a length to the good over Lord Rosebery's Afterthought. Lord Glanley's Ferberion was third in the field of 10.

Odds on at 1 to 4 in the betting—second shortest price in the history of the race, Sun Chariot ran the 12 furlongs in 2:33 1-5 as the thousands who crowded the stands roared cheers for her popular victory. The Oaks has been run faster only one before—the 2:30 2-5 in which Godiva covered the route two years ago.

Jockey Was Confident.

"I never had any anxieties, even tho she took to running wide at the start," Jockey Richards said later. "She actually went on to win in a canter."

Afterward it was announced that the filly would not start in the derby tomorrow, altho she also was eligible for that mile and a half grind. With her withdrawal, Big Game's chief threats figure to come from the earl of Derby's Watling Street, ridden by last year's jockey champion, Harry Wragg, and Lord Rosebery's Hyperides, winner of the Fakenham stakes. No sovereign has won the Derby since King Edward VII.'s Minoru did it in 1909.

MARKET WISE TO MEET WHIRLAWAY IN SPRINT TODAY

New York, June 12 (AP).—Whirlaway and Market Wise were named today to hook up at Aqueduct tomorrow in the 7 furlong Carter handicap.

A dozen other horses were entered along with the top two, but since there has been so much hullabaloo for a match race between this pair ever since Lou Tufano's colt trounced Whirlaway in the Suburban handicap a couple of weeks ago no one was particularly interested in the rest of the field.

Except for two 6 furlong tighteners early in the spring—both of which he lost—this will be the shortest distance Whirlaway has been asked to travel for more than a year. Market Wise had two sprint outings last winter at Hialeah Park and dropped both of them. Mostly, these two like a mile and a quarter or thereabouts.

RACING COLT IS UNHURT IN LEAP OFF FAST TRAIN

Needles, Cal., June 12 [Special].—Passengers on the Chicago-bound Santa Fe Chief were startled yesterday when they saw This Freedom, 2 year old race horse, jump from the door of the car where it was tethered as the train sped thru a mountain pass at 50 miles an hour. The animal, which belongs to the Louis B. EQUIFOX HEADS FIELD OF FIVE IN LA SALLE STAKE

Designate Program as Gen. MacArthur Day.

Handicap Field

FIVE horses were named yesterday in the overnight entries for the $5,000 La Salle handicap which will be run today at Lincoln Fields. The field for this mile and three-sixteenths race in order of post positions follows:

Horse.	Wt.	Jockey.	Prob. odds.
Vinum	101	No boy	15-1
Step By	105	S. Brooks	10-1
Equifox	118	A. Craig	3-5
Omelet	107	W. Garner	4-1
Royal Cr's'der	109	L. Balaski	5-1

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Equifox will go after his first stake victory of the season in the $5,000 La Salle Handicap this afternoon at Lincoln Fields and his competition is so undistinguished that it will be surprising if he fails to bring it off. This son of Equipoise, one of the best handicap performers on Chicago tracks last season, is expected to go to post as approximately 3 to 5 odds against a field of four rivals—Omelet, Royal Crusader, Step By, and Vinum.

Today will be Gen. MacArthur day at the track. Every race will be named for an outstanding military man except the sixth which is the handicap. The fifth will be named in honor of the famed southwest Pacific commander.

Legionnaires to Drill.

The opening feature, at 2 o'clock, will be a parade to the flagpole, followed by a flag raising by members of American Legion post No. 131 color guards, with Sergt. Andrew Marthler in charge. The Englewood Post Drum and Bugle corps also will participate in the opening and drill for 10 minutes between the fourth and fifth races.

Lincoln Fields fans already have seen that Equifox is in mighty sharp condition. In the Francis S. Peabody Memorial handicap he was beaten by Technician by the margin of a nose, but the circumstances were such that his rider couldn't do him full justice. Thru most of the stretch drive, Equifox was pinned so closely between Technician and Heartman that he couldn't let go with one of his characertistically strong finishes.

Further Trouble Unlikely.

With today's small field it seems unlikely that he will get into that kind of trouble again. Arthur Craig, who handled him on Memorial day, will ride him again this afternoon. He will race under the black and gold colors of his owner and trainer, Howard Wells.

The distance of a mile and three-sixteenths will suit Equifox very well. His performance in the Peabody Memorial at a mile and a sixteenth indicated that he is far enough along in his training to undertake the longer route. He is a comparatively slow beginner but usually does a lot of fast moving between the last turn and the finish line.

If Equifox is to get much competition, it is expected to come from Omelet and Royal Crusader. Omelet won a stake at Santa Anita in the winter season of 1941 and Royal Crusader took two at Del Mar. The latter competed in the Peabody Memorial two weeks ago but he tired in the stretch and finished fifth after racing prominently in the earlier stages.

'LIGHTS OUT' RULE WRECKS 8 RUN MONTREAL RALLY

Jersey City, N. J., June 12 (AP).—Jersey City's first effort to complete a twilight-night baseball game before the lights were turned off by defense decree backfired tonight, but the Giants took a 3 to 2 decision over the Montreal Royals in eight official innings.

The ninth inning started long before the 9:24 p. m. deadline, set by defense officials as the time for "lights out," one hour after sundown. But the Royals suddenly exploded an eight run rally against three Jersey City pitchers.

The Giants finally retired the side and got a man on base in their half of the ninth before the lights were turned off with only one man out.

Under baseball law, the game reverted to the eighth inning, giving the home club the victory. The Montreal team entered an immediate protest.

Tonight's schedule:

Mansfield, Ohio, vs. Garden City Maids at Shewbridge field.

Peoria Dieselettes vs. Parichy Bloomer Girls at Parichy stadium.

battery mate who has attracted the New York Giants, threw out two runners at second and had another nailed if Bob Schmidt, the second baseman, had not dropped the throw. Bob Nussbaumer, center fielder, who also is a track man of note, waited until the seventh for his first hit, a triple. The Cleveland Indians are interested in this young man.

Wild Throw Starts Scoring.

The Oak Park scoring got under way when Wiedow went all the way to second on George Kahenec's wild throw to first in the opening inning. Wally Schmidt drove in his mate with a single to center, but was out trying to make second on the throw-in. Nussbaumer bounced to Elko and was safe on the pitcher's wild throw to first. Bob stole second and Carey walked. Kemper's single sent in Nussbaumer.

Demir doubled to right center with one out in the second and after Wiedow had flied out, scored on Wally Schmidt's single. The Villagers counted again in the fourth when Norm Dawson led off with a single, stole second, advanced on Demir's roller to Elko, and scored on Wiedow's squeeze bunt. Then Wally Schmidt bunted into a double play, Elko catching the ball with his bare hand near the third base line and throwing to Don Morris at first.

Bob Ciarmelli's single opened Oak Park's two run sixth and he was bunted to second by Bob Schmidt. After Elko threw out Dawson his first pitch hit Demir in the back. Wiedow hit the first pitch to left center for a two run triple. When Wally Schmidt was hit by a pitched ball George Green, center fielder, and Elko, exchanged jobs. Schmidt was caught off second for the final out.

Nussbaumer Triples and Scores.

After greeting Green with a triple to open the eighth, Nussbaumer scored on Kemper's fly which Ben Kristal dropped in left field.

Streator went down in order in the first, but Ralph Novotney walked and Kristal singled in the second. Kahanec singled with one out in the third and took second when Demir threw the ball away trying to pick him off first. George Green's single to left center drove in the run.

Novotney walked to open the fourth, but after Joe Lucas flied out, was caught trying to steal. This was followed by Kristal's triple to right center. Then Demir started his strikeout act. Bob Novak went down swinging for the third out. John Dzuris took a third strike in the fifth, but Kahanec singled over second. George Green was called out on strikes and after Morris beat out a slow hit to third, Elko went down swinging.

Enter Mr. Wiedow.

Novotney struck out on a three and two pitch to open the sixth. Lucas walked, but Kemper's arm cut him down at second. Then Kristal fanned. Novak opened the seventh with a single to right. Jim Guttilla, batting for Dzuris, popped to Bob Schmidt and Novak was doubled. Kahanec walked, but was forced at second when Ciramelli made a diving stop of George Green's smash near the base.

Elko singled with one out in the eighth and when Novotney's single sent his battery mate to third, Wiedow came in from right field to pitch. Elko scored while Lucus was grounding out to Dawson for the last run of the game.

A team which entered the finals by a smashing 14 to 3 upset over an almost perennial champion and one which skidded into the payoff battle on a steal of home in the ninth battle today in Comiskey park for the 1942 baseball championship of the City High School league.

That steal of home gave Harrison, Central section champion, a 1 to 0 triumph over Calumet. Prep fans couldn't believe it when they heard Lane Tech had been walloped so vehemently by Bowen. Telephone girls on newspaper switchboards were asked to repeat the score and the winner when they announced Bowen had beaten the Yankees of Chicago high school baseball.

Bowen Slight Favorite.

Bowen, south side champion, is a slight favorite, even tho it was beaten twice by Calumet, the team which battled Harrison to a standstill until Joe Sinkovec stole home with three on and one out in the ninth inning last Tuesday. In this game Stan Ryczek held Calumet to a pair of hits and fanned 10.

Bowen's ace pitcher, Ray Rapacki, held Lane scoreless for seven innings in the semi-final game. Then, with the south siders ahead, 11 to 0, Ray was blistered for three runs in the eighth.

Pitchers' Battle Likely.

Today it will be Rapacki and Ryczek, two of the town's finest prep pitchers, against each other. It's a glorious climax for Ryczek, who will be rounding out a four year career with Harrison. During this time he has won 41 and lost only 5 games. He has won 8 and lost none this season.

Both Rapacki and Ryczek are important cogs in their teams' offense. Each bats third. Rapacki, up to the Lane game, was batting .457. His battery mate, John Kosich, had a .478 mark until this contest.

Bowen is coached by Joe McGinnis and Harrison by Jim Smilgoff.

Fleming Will Pitch for Cubs in Game Today

Leslie Fleming, who thus far has a record of one victory against no defeats, will make his third start as a Cub today in the second of the series with the Braves. The latter's pitcher will be Tom Earley.

Jim Foxx was in uniform yesterday, but after exercising quickly discovered the leg muscle pulled in Thursday's muddy argument was in no mood for work. So Rip Russell moved from second back to first base and Lou Stringer was restored to second. Foxx now can rest not only the ailing leg, but also the sore rib which was bothering him when he was purchased from Boston.

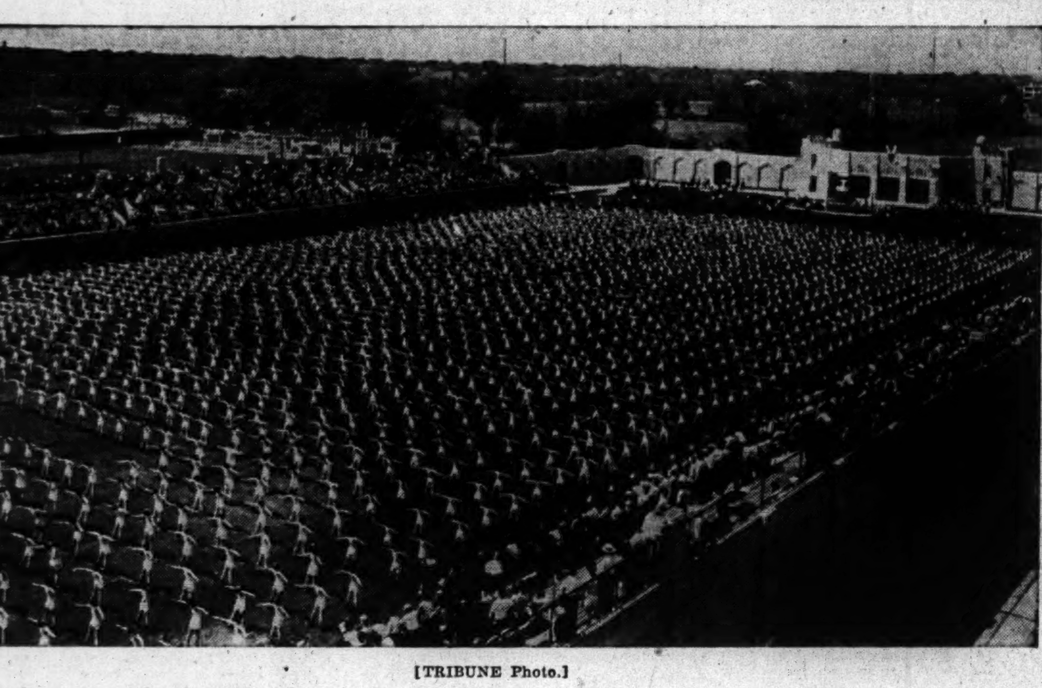
Mass Gymnastics Opens New Lane Stadium



[TRIBUNE Photo.]

A mass gymnastics exhibition by more than 2,500 prep athletes was one of the features of dedication of Lane Technical High school's new stadium yesterday. This is a picture of that part of the program, which also included demonstrations of many other sports and dedicatory speeches.

PIKE BITING, BUT MUSKIES AWAIT WARM WEATHER

BY BOB BECKER.

Intermittent rains in the northern Wisconsin fishing country haven't kept Chicago fishermen from sinking their hooks into some good catches of muskies, wall-eyes, and northern pike. Wall-eyes and northerns have been more eager to strike than the good sized muskies, but a little warm weather is expected to tune up the big ones.

From a fishing standpoint this is a notable season for John M. [100 Per Cent] Nichols, former Englewood banker. Mr. Nichols, widely known as a successful deep sea fisherman, now is a member of the "I Caught a Muskie" club. He caught his first one a few days ago. Nichols used Ghose lake [near Hayward] as a base camp for his offensive against the muskies.

Wall-Eyes Bite at Hayward.

The wall-eyed pike fishing in the Hayward area has been so good recently that the old timers are saying it's "like the old days." But the pike have been working on a "night shift." They may be indifferent to lures during the day, but along toward sundown they really go to work.

Among the fishermen from Chicagoland who have been connecting with both pike and muskies in the Hayward country are Prof. H. A. Finney of Northwestern university, who has been fishing with his two sons, and Eugene Spaid, chief of police of Lake Bluff. They landed muskies weighing 12 and 15 pounds as well as a number of wall-eyes.

Grover C. Elmore and his party of Chicago fishermen, consisting of Irwin Newman, Franklin Eulette, Harry Hershenson, Donald Morrison, and William Lancaster, found the northern pike in a hitting mood on their recent trip to Spooner, Wis. The largest specimen, a 12 pounder, was taken by Elmore. The catches were most consistent in Loon, Cadott, Sand, Little, Long, and Big McKenzie lakes, reached via Spooner and Birch Island lake.

Bass Jump the Gun.

The wall-eyes have been hitting well in this area. The fishermen report that they had to put back many out of season bass which are supposed to wait for the bell to ring June 20, the official opening of the Wisconsin season.

Fishermen who expect to visit the Manitowish chain of lakes this summer will have a chance to meet the tame muskie which again has made its appearance near the dock of a bait vendor. Roy J. Jorgenson of Manitowish writes us that he believes this Manitowish muskie is even smarter [?] than the one which is drawing crowds to Squirrel lake near Minocqua and Woodruff, Wis. Jorgenson says it takes a smart muskie to look over all the docks in a lake and pick the one that is next to big supplies of minnows and live suckers owned by a man who sells them to fishermen and makes a practice of tossing occasional fish to his finny pet.

CHICAGO DRIVERS BID FOR MIDGET HONORS TONIGHT

Raceway park, 129th street and Ashland avenue, will hold another midget auto race meet tonight. Four sprint races of 10 laps each on the quarter mile banked speedway, a 15 lap handicap for the eight fastest cars to qualify for the 40 lap feature and a consolation race for nonwinners will be the order of events.

Several drivers are closely bunched behind Tony Bettenhausen in the point standings and can move into the lead by a pair of wins tonight. Myron Fohr, Ray Richards, Bob Muhlke, Cowboy O'Rourke, Teddy Duncan, and Jimmy Caris lead the local entries. Frank Burnay and Gus Klingbiel of Milwaukee, Harry Turner of Kenosha, Eddie Kracek of Omaha, and Harry Hartz of Kansas City are headliners from out of town.

Qualifying trials start at 7:30 o'clock with the first race at 8:45.

Eddleman to High Jump in Coast-Big Ten Meet

Dwight Eddleman of Centralia, outstanding prep athlete, will share the spotlight with Cornelius Warmerdam in the Big Ten-Pacific coast track meet to be held in Dyche stadium Tuesday night. Eddleman, who has leaped 6 feet 6¾ inches, will give an exhibition of his high jumping technique, while Warmerdam will try to better his world pole vault mark of 15 feet 7¾ inches. The invitation was extended by Big Ten officials thru K. L. [Tug] Wilson, Northwestern athletic director.

2,000 WILL SING IN LANE STADIUM FESTIVAL TODAY

First Preliminary of Chicagoland Fete.

More than 2,000 adults and children will take part in the music festival to be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon, marking the second day's celebration of the dedication of the new stadium at Lane Technical High school, Western and Diversey avenues. The event will be the first preliminary show of the 13th annual Chicagoland Music Festival, sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc. Admission is free.

Miss Irma Cooper, soprano, who was chosen the "best woman singer" in the 1940 Chicagoland vocal contest, will sing "The Star Spangled Banner" and Philip Maxwell, director of THE TRIBUNE festival, will speak.

Sponsored by Council.

The festival is sponsored by the Lake View Community council. Harold Giroux is president. Harry A. Starr, secretary of the council, is festival chairman and Orville T. Owen is general festival director. Hugh C. Dickerson is choral supervisor.

Two large choruses will appear. One thousand singers, under the direction of Harry T. Carlson, will present Keller's "American Hymn" and Elgar's "Land of Hope and Glory" and 250 women, all members of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, will sing under the baton of its state music chairman, Mrs. J. W. Heylmum. Two other features will be tenor solos by Earl Eichel, chosen the second best man singer of THE TRIBUNE'S 1941 vocal contest, and numbers by Dorothy Dykema, blind pianist. Dr. Samuel Burkholder is the festival accompanist and Dan Basil will direct a festival orchestra.

Marines to Post Colors.

United States marines will post colors at the opening of the show and the audience will join in the pledge of allegiance to the flag, led by T. W. Merryman, district Americanism officer of the American Legion.

The dedication of the stadium took place yesterday afternoon. Charles E. Lang is principal of Lane Technical High school. Special guests yesterday afternoon were Mayor Kelly, James B. McCahey, president of the Chicago Board of Education, and William H. Johnson, superintendent of public schools.

GREENBERG, JAKE, EVERT, LARNED IN NET SEMI-FINALS

BY WILLIAM FAY.

Seymour Greenberg, Gardner Larned, Jimmy Evert, and Bobby Jake moved into the semi-finals of the Illinois state tournament yesterday before what was easily the largest crowd in tennis history.

The crowd was estimated at 52,237. Of these, 52,099 watched from the elevated trains which rumble along the east boundary of the Fullerton club courts. The remaining 138 were non-transient spectators and players.

Greenberg, top seeded favorite from Northwestern, defeated Howe Atwater of Wilmette, 6-4, 6-3. Gardner Larned, the defending champion, who is seeded No. 2, edged out Bob Smidl, of River Forest, 6-2, 10-12, 6-3. Jimmy Evert, No. 3, beat Ben Migdow, No. 8, 3-6, 8-6, 6-4. Jake, No. 7, eliminated Olen Parks, No. 4, 6-4, 6-2. Jake's victory was not an upset, despite the seedings, because Bobby had beaten Olen in the Notre Dame-Northwestern match last month.

Bankhead Driving Duel.

Larned's victory was exciting. On game point at 2-all in the third set Gardner and Bob settled down into a backhand driving duel. While the point was progressing, a fire truck roared by down Sheffield street, the bells in a nearby church tolled 5 p. m., and the Evanston Shopper's Special thundered overhead.

Unperturbed, Gardner finally got into the net to stow away a winning volley. Which indicates that the Larned temper, an explosive commodity which cost Gardner the national junior title last summer, finally has been brought under control.

Migdow, the state high school champion, from Crane High, twice appeared to have the Evert match in the satchel. Ben led, 4-2, in the second set after taking the first with almost errorless play. Evert switched to net rushing and rallied to lead, 5-4, then even the match at 8-6.

Migdow led again in the third set, 4-2 and 40-15. Evert got out of that tight spot with near service aces, broke Ben's serve, and volleyed thru the last two games with the loss of only three points.

Keeps Parks on Defensive.

Jake's severe service and powerful volleys kept Parks on the defensive thruout. Greenberg was too steady from the baseline for Atwater, the 16 year old junior who upset Thane Halstead, the sixth seeded veteran from Wheaton, in the second round.

Greenberg, who is trying to play his matches and also keep graduation commitments at Northwestern, will meet Evert in the first semifinal match at 10:30 o'clock this morning. Larned and Jake will play at 2:30. Finals in singles and doubles are scheduled for tomorrow afternoon.

DODGERS SHIFT FIVE GAMES TO TWILIGHT TIME

Brooklyn, N. Y., June 12 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers today announced that the five games originally scheduled to be played at night during their June 15-July 1 home stand at Ebbets field will start at 7 p. m., eastern war time, with the lights being turned on if necessary.

Larry MacPhail, president of the Dodgers, said he had received permission from Maj. Gen. T. A. Terry, commander of the 2d corps area, to turn on the lights for one hour after sundown or approximately 9:30 p. m. The National league also has relaxed its rule against finishing daylight games under lights.

MacPhail said the umpires would be notified before each game as to the time the lights must be turned off.

The games affected by the new starting time are, with Chicago, June 15; St. Louis, June 18; Pittsburgh, June 23; Cincinnati, June 25, and Boston, July 1.

SLOAN CAUTIONS G. M. HOLDERS ON WAR PROFIT CURB

Cites Federal Price Cuts and Rising Taxes.

New York, June 12 (AP).—Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman of the General Motors corporation, in a letter to stockholders today warned them against undue expectations as to the earning capacity of the big motor car manufacturer now turning out war materials. Restricting factors include reductions in prices on government contracts and high taxes, he said.

Despite conversion problems, Sloan indicated, General Motors' 1942 war material production might set a new record of total dollar volume of output.

Cites "Remarkable Results."

"Remarkable results are being obtained by management in reducing costs thru changes in engineering design and improved processing," he said. "These savings substantially reduce selling prices to the government and this has the effect of reducing profits and dividends to the stockholders.

"As the volume of war materials increases, thru bringing into action new plants and expanding the conversion of existing plants, the effect normally would be to increase profits, but due to the high rate of excess profits taxes levied, made necessary by the war, comparatively little is gained for the stockholders."

Accompanies Dividends Checks.

Sloan's message accompanied second quarter dividend checks for 50 cents a share, bringing total dividends for the first six months of 1942 to $1 a share, against $1.75 in the corresponding period of 1941.

He commented that the directors' policy was to distribute "as large a proportion as practicable of the corporation's net income," and said that over the last 10 years about 85 per cent of net income had been paid in cash dividends.

RYERSON HEADS SAFETY DRIVE IN STEEL INDUSTRY

Edward L. Ryerson, chairman of the Inland Steel company, has been appointed to direct a national campaign to safeguard production in the iron and steel industry thru reduction of accidents, it was announced yesterday.

As national chairman of the iron and steel division of the War Production Fund to Conserve Man Power, he will head a drive to obtain $400,000 to finance a two year safety campaign. Ryerson will endeavor to have the iron and steel industry maintain its low accident percentage.

The man power organization is an agency created by a group of industrialists as a part of the National Safety council. The council reported that 101,500 persons were killed in accidents last year, 350,000 were permanently disabled, and 3,750,000 workers were injured, depriving industry of 460,000,000 man-days of labor.

Union Agrees to End Glass Cutters' Strike in 10 Cities

Toledo, O., June 12 [Special].—Window glass cutters in 10 cities, on strike two days, agreed today to return to their jobs after the War Labor board promised an immediate meeting with the four major manufacturers. The strike was called by the American Glass Cutters' league [AFL] against the Libby-Owens-Ford, Fourco, American, and Pittsburgh Plate Glass companies. A new agreement with pay increases approximating 6 per cent had been demanded, and negotiations were under way when the union called out 1,439 members.

RFC Will Lend to Mines of Unproved Production

Washington, D. C., June 12 (AP).—The Reconstruction Finance corporation announced today readiness to make loans up to $5,000 to any one borrower to finance preliminary development of mines that may yield metals needed for war purposes. Previously, such loans were available only for development of proven mines.

Lumber Production Rises 4% in Week Ended June 6

Washington, D. C., June 12 (AP).—The National Lumber Manufacturers association reported today that lumber production for the week ended June 6 totaled 263,259,000 feet, 4 per cent more than both the preceding week and a year ago.

CONTENDS PRICE CEILINGS WON'T HALT ADVANCES

Statistical Expert Says Profits Will Fall.

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 12 (AP).—Describing the 1942 economic situation for several hundred delegates of the American Marketing association's mid-year convention, Laurence S. Sloan, executive vice president of Standard and Poor of New York, statistical agency, predicted today that over-all price ceilings largely would fail to halt the advancing trend of prices in the United States.

Industrial profits, which last year were the largest since 1929, will be cut by about 25 per cent from their 1941 figure, he estimated.

View on Price Ceilings.

"I find few economists," Sloan said, "who are naive enough to believe that the over-all price ceilings will halt the advancing trend of prices. To begin with, they cover only a portion of the structure, not the whole of it.

"They cannot be made applicable to farm prices until such quotations have reached 110 per cent of parity, and since this magic 110 is not an economic stopping point, but wholly a political one, established by congress acting not in the public good, but from purely and basely selfish motives, no one today knows where the ultimate ceiling over farm prices will be built, if any."

Sloan attacked the federal government for its "shameful spectacle in the failure to place a ceiling on wages," and declared that this too would aid in spiraling prices upward.

Gas and Rubber Forecasts.

On rubber and gasoline he made these forecasts:

GASOLINE—"The shortage is very real, due in great extent to the necessity of providing a given amount of tanker space to every regiment of American soldiers which moves overseas. Military demands for this tanker space will steadily increase. The gasoline situation will get worse this summer, and then somewhat better in the autumn. Nation-wide rationing of gas may be postponed until after Nov. 3, for reasons which you of course will understand.

RUBBER—"During the summer government agencies will decide what type of synthetic rubber to produce, and therewith we will be off to the races on a rubber production program which will have implications of tremendous future consequences. There will be very little profit in it for any one during the development years. But even should we achieve the absolute practical maximum in the construction of rubber during the next two or three years, our output would be needed entirely by the military and related lines."

RETAIL BUSINESS STILL FAR UNDER EARLY 1942 PEAKS

New York, June 12 (AP).—Dun & Bradstreet reported today that civilian buying, after declining for several weeks, edged up slightly this week on increased demand for seasonal goods.

Wholesale demand still ran largely to merchandise for immediate selling but showed signs of opening up more actively in fall season lines.

The dollar volume of business in the wholesale and retail markets, in spite of the rise in prices, remained well below the heavy turnover earlier this year and below sales figures of a year ago.

Retail dollar sales for the country were estimated at 5 to 10 per cent below the corresponding week of 1941.

Carnegie-Illinois Plant Workers Choose CIO Union

The CIO was reported yesterday to have won victories in plant elections at various mills of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation to determine the employés' bargaining agency. Of the 500,000 voting in the Pittsburgh area more than 90 per cent were reported to have voted for the United Steel Workers of America. Of the 14,311 eligible to vote at the south works in Chicago 8,654 cast ballots for the CIO union and 542 opposed it.

EXPECT SMALL SURPLUSES IN RUBBER SUPPLY

Depends on Safety of Ceylon, India.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Akron, O., June 12.—The united nations will be able to meet their military rubber requirements and have small surpluses to spare thru 1945 if they can hold Ceylon and India and if the synthetic rubber production program proceeds on schedule. If Ceylon and India fall to the Japanese there will be deficits in our rubber supply in 1943 and 1944 and it will be 1945 before the supply exceeds the demand.

John L. Collyer.

These estimates on the rubber outlook are made in a survey of the rubber situation just completed by John L. Collyer, president of the B. F. Goodrich company.

Urges Immediate Construction.

Collyer declares that nothing must stand in the way of the immediate erection of synthetic rubber plants. He urges the nation to make certain "that we have enough rubber on time and not too much, too late."

The Collyer survey, which is a last minute scrutiny of the rubber situation, places this year's total supply for the united nations at about 1,093,500 tons whereas military needs are estimated at 655,500 tons, leaving a surplus of 438,000 tons with which to go into 1943. Military requirements are expected to approximate 785,250 tons [possibly more] in 1943, 1944, and 1945.

However, should Ceylon and India fall to the Japanese the united nations would lose production [mostly in Ceylon] of well above 100,000 tons annually. It is this production which would give the united nations a moderate surplus over needs thru the years until the government's synthetic rubber production reaches a goal of at least 800,000 tons annually.

Private Plants Producing.

In addition, private plants will be producing about 32,000 tons by the end of this year. Canada will have an annual production of 30,000 tons in government financed plants.

If Ceylon and India can be held, the rubber position for 1942, 1943, 1944, and 1945, after provision for military needs, according to the Collyer survey, will be:

For 1942—693,000 tons of natural rubber, 368,500 tons of crude rubber imports, and 32,000 tons of synthetic, leaving a surplus of 438,000 tons.

For 1943—438,000 tons of natural, 183,250 of natural rubber imports, and 250,000 tons of synthetic, with a surplus of 86,000 tons.

For 1944—86,000 tons of natural rubber still remaining, 196,000 tons of natural rubber imports, and 650,000 tons of synthetic leaving a surplus of 146,750 tons.

For 1945—146,750 tons of natural rubber, 212,500 tons of imports, and 862,000 tons of synthetic, leaving a surplus of 436,000 tons.

Shortage If Ceylon Falls.

Should Ceylon and India fall to the Japanese, shortages of 108,250 tons in 1943 and 72,250 tons in 1944 may be expected and it will be 1945 before a surplus of 144,250 tons can be attained.

Estimates of military requirements do not take into account civilian needs. In 1940, America used about 600,000 tons. This was an amount sufficient to make enough 6.00x16 inch tires—the size used on popular priced cars—to circle the globe twice at the equator, or about 50,000 miles of tires, with one rim touching the other.

Schaff's Duties Extended to Include Big Four Road

The jurisdiction of W. F. Schaff, vice president of the New York Central system at Chicago, has been extended to include the Big Four railway, it was announced yesterday.

NEW BLACKOUT BULB WITH ORANGE SPOT TO GO ON MARKET SOON

A new "black-out" light bulb, black except for an orange spot at the bottom about the size of a quarter, is expected to be put on the market soon, Carl W. Zersen, manager of the Chicago Lighting institute, told the Illinois chapter of the International Association of Electrical Inspectors in the Hotel Sherman yesterday. It will be about the size of present 15 watt bulbs, he said.

Such a bulb would give enough light for most rooms in a home, he said, but the resident probably would want windows completely blacked out in the bathroom, kitchen, and bedroom. To some extent, he said, a hysteria has been created by constant discussions of black-out precautions, with the result that black-out devices, many of little value, have flooded the market. He urged prospective purchasers to talk to an authority on the subject before buying black-out equipment not officially approved.

Maj. A. B. Pattou, plant protection officer of the Chicago ordnance district, said 25 per cent of the fires reported in war plants are of electrical origin, and urged the inspectors to make sure war plant electrical equipment is used properly.

Oil Men Indorse Big Pipe Line; Rep. Arnold Calls It a Waste

Chicago oil men and a spokesman for motorists indorsed the proposed Texas-Illinois pipe line yesterday as Rep. L. F. Arnold (D., Ill.) criticized the project as a waste of money. The details:

Termed Aid to State

Chicago oil men said yesterday that the projected 24 inch oil and gasoline pipe line from Longview, Tex., to Salem, Ill., will not curb the flow of Illinois oil. They agreed with Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior and petroleum coördinator, that transportation of oil from Salem can be increased and that the new line will benefit the Illinois terminus by expanding activities and employment.

Following Wednesday's announcement that the War Production board had approved the line, Salem oil men expressed the fear that the Illinois quota might be lowered to allow Texas oil to pass thru to the east. The line, which is expected to be completed in five or six months, is designed to help relieve shortages in the east.

No Burden Expected.

Ickes said in Chicago Thursday that Illinois oil production has been declining and that the flow thru the new line would not place a severe burden on existing lines from Salem to Chicago. He indicated that most of the additional Texas oil would be carried from Salem by river barge and railroad tank car.

Salem residents also said they were confused by a Washington announcement that altho the new line would end in the Salem area, the actual terminus would be at Mount Vernon, Ind., a barge and rail center on the Ohio river about 100 miles to the southeast. Ickes, however, announced the line would terminate at Salem and said much of the new oil would be carried by barge to Pittsburgh.

Representatives of the oil industry in Chicago explained that the line proper would terminate at Salem because that city is already well established as a line terminus and has the necessary facilities, but that since the oil is to be shipped by barge, a "loop" will be built to Mount Vernon for loading the barges. Salem has no waterway transportation.

New Devices Necessary.

The Chicago oil men said that to handle the oil flowing thru the new line—its capacity estimated at 300,000 to a maximum of 450,000 barrels a day—it will be necessary to build a large number of "racks," or pipe devices for loading tank cars. They also said that it will probably be necessary to increase Salem's rail facilities. Ickes admitted there is a possibility of a bottleneck at Salem but said engineers were working to solve those problems.

Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones announced in Washington yesterday that the Reconstruction Finance corporation would finance the estimated 35 million dollar cost of the 550 mile government owned line. He said he has authorized immediate placement of orders for pipe, pumps, and other equipment.

Jones also announced authorization of contract negotiations with builders. The oil industry will provide the personnel to construct and operate the pipe line and will furnish without cost the engineering plans and surveys already made. The secretary said he understood the line would be used jointly "by the Sinclair interests, Atlantic Refining, Sun Oil, Standard of New Jersey and New York, Gulf, Texas, Tidewater, and Cities Service companies, and any other interested oil company."

May Copper Output Sets Record of 101,683 Tons

New York, June 12 (AP).—The Copper institute said today domestic copper production of 101,683 tons in May was a new monthly record. Output was 94,295 tons in April and 95,265 tons in May, 1937—previous monthly record. Tonnage shipped to domestic consumers last month was 134,079 against 106,701 in April. May stocks of refined copper were 77,383 tons compared with April's 83,789.

Steve Hannagan to Run Press Bureau for Ford

Detroit, Mich., June 12 (AP).—Edsel Ford, president of the Ford Motor company, announced today the appointment of Steve Hannagan to handle the company's press relations. The announcement said a bureau to be established under Hannagan's direction "will be responsible for the release of all news and news statements from the Ford Motor company."

Urges Lifting Curbs

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 12.—Rep. Laurence F. Arnold [D., Ill.] today protested the project of Interior Secretary Harold Ickes for the construction of a 35 million dollar pipe line from Longview, Tex., to Salem, Ill.

"I don't know why taxpayers' millions should be spent to bring Texas oil into the southern Illinois oil field, where the output could be increased at no cost to taxpayers if Mr. Ickes would unshackle the private operators," said Arnold, whose home town, Newton, is in the Illinois oil belt.

"By removing the Ickes restrictions we could boost the Illinois output 200,000 barrels this summer. The pipe line isn't scheduled for completion until Dec. 1. We could relieve the petroleum shortage in Atlantic seaboard states long before the pipe line will be of any help.

Use of Steel Cited.

"We could drill more wells with less use of steel than will be required for the pipe line. The 550 mile pipe line will require 125,000 tons of finished steel. A recent survey found that private contractors have enough pipe on hand for the new wells.

"The drilling would require fewer man hours of labor. Because drilling has been restricted by Mr. Ickes since Dec. 23, production in the Illinois fields has dropped 113,000 barrels a day, almost a third of the peak."

HENRY INDORSES LINE

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., June 12 [Special].—Thomas P. Henry, president of the American Automobile Association, tonight indorsed federal action toward construction of the Texas-Illinois pipe line, to relieve the oil and gasoline shortage in the east.

"I think it will help the situation considerably," he told the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Motor federation. "There's a great change in the government's point of view toward the passenger car, and altho confusion exists as to policies and objectives, as evidenced by the controversy over rubber and gasoline conservation, a change for the better from our standpoint is taking place.

Earlier Attitude Changed.

"Soon after Japan attacked Pearl Harbor, responsible government officials talked in terms of 20 million automobiles going off the road, with no rubber of any kind available for tires until the war's end. There was a tendency to regard automobile operation as something that could be dispensed with as part of an anti-inflation policy.

"We took the position that such an attitude would be disastrous to the war effort, and in this have won general support."

Henry said he was confident that new cars frozen by the government and dealers' used cars would be utilized before private owners are asked to give up their cars.

MEAT SUPPLIES SHRINK DESPITE RECORD OUTPUT

Shipments to Allies Offset Gains.

The amount of meat available for American consumption shrank heavily during May despite the operation of packing houses at a record rate, the department of agriculture's monthly report on cold storage holdings of perishable foods disclosed yesterday.

Purchase of millions of dollars worth of meat and other foods to be sent to Britain and Russia offset the greatest production of meat, poultry, and dairy products the nation has ever experienced, the statistics showed.

Marketing experts said that altho in some instances stocks of some products were the largest on record or substantially larger than normal, a big percentage of these stocks is owned by the government and is awaiting shipment abroad. Domestic consumption of all foods is at an unequaled pace.

Storage Space Too Small.

Meanwhile, the amount of refrigerated storage space available for keeping reserve stocks for the American consumer has shrunk alarmingly, storage men revealed. Chicago warehouse officials say they no longer solicit space buyers, but rather have to allot space to their customers.

The department said that occupied space in public warehouses on June 1 was 55 per cent of cooler capacity and 65 per cent of freezer capacity. Eggs, cheese, and butter are kept in the coolers, and meats, poultry, and frozen eggs must be kept in the freezers.

The report on holdings follows:

MEATS—Total meat stocks of slightly more than 774 million pounds were the smallest since January in face of record meat production during the period. They fell almost 181½ million pounds during the last year.

Stocks of Lard Small.

LARD—The department's figures showed a withdrawal of about 9 million pounds of lard from storage stocks during the last month, a period in which lard stocks normally have increased. Lard holdings of 111¼ million pounds are the smallest since December, 1940, and the smallest for June 1 since 1936, the all-time low.

BUTTER—Reserves were the second largest for June 1 on record and commercial holdings were the largest for that date. However, increasing amounts of butter are being purchased by lend-lease buyers for Russia.

EGGS—Stocks of shell eggs, the largest percentage of which are owned by processors so that they will not be available for sale in consumer channels when production runs low next fall, are the largest since 1937. Frozen egg stocks are at a new all-time high, but much of this supply is expected to be dried for shipment to England.

Government Owns Big Part.

CHEESE—Of the new record stocks of cheese of 195,999,000 pounds, the government owns 77½ million pounds. Dairying officials have said that in addition, a substantial part of the remaining stocks has been sold but not delivered to the government.

June 1 storage reserves [in thousands of pounds with exceptions noted] and comparisons, as reported by the department of agriculture:

Land Bought for Machine Firm's Fourth Expansion

Land to be used for the expansion of the Clearing Machine corporation, 6499 West 65th street, has been purchased by the Defense Plant corporation, a governmental agency, it was disclosed yesterday. The land, 115 by 408 feet, was bought from the Clearing Industrial District, Inc. This will be the machine corporation's fourth expansion since its establishment in 1933.

WLB Orders Union Maintenance

Washington, D. C., June 12 (AP).—The War Labor board, with the partial support of its employer group, today ordered maintenance of union membership clauses written into two industrial contracts, and unanimously voted a wage increase in one of them.

An additional 10 cents an hour was allowed employés of the Ranger division of the Fairchild Engine & Airplane corporation, Farmingdale, Long Island, because of "glaring inequalities" in comparison with wage rates in other plants. In that case the four employer representatives divided on the union security issue. The vote was 10 to 2.

The same two employer members supported the union security provision in both cases. They are Roger D. Lapham, chairman of the American-Hawaiian Steamship company, and Richard R. Deupree, president of the Procter & Gamble company.

Chicago Member Dissents.

A dissent in both cases was filed by Horace B. Horton, of the Chicago Bridge & Iron company. In the Ranger case, H. L. Derby, president of the American Cyanamid & Chemical corporation, also dissented. The other case involved the E-Z Mills company.

The maintenance of membership provisions ordered were slightly different from those written into previous orders, to which the employer members had objected as a group.

The board's usual practice has been to make the clause effective upon signing of the contract and the opportunity of employés to withdraw from the union between the time of the order and the signing of the contract was implicit. In the Ranger and E-Z Mills cases, however, the board specified a period of 15 days, starting today, in which employés may withdraw from the union. Thus, if the contract should be signed sooner, the withdrawal period would not be affected.

Hiring Rate Increased.

In the Ranger case the CIO United Auto Workers, representing the 1,150 employés, had asked an increase of 15 cents an hour. The board, besides raising the wages 10 cents, unanimously ordered that the new hiring rate of 60 cents an hour should be increased to 65 cents after 30 days, to 70 cents after 60 days, and to 75 cents after 90 days.

Wayne L. Morse, public member of the board who wrote the Ranger opinion, said the board "has accepted as a solemn obligation the President's instructions that it should stabilize wages."

The E-Z Mills case involved only the union security issue. Approximately 450 employés were represented by the AFL International Ladies' Garment Workers union.

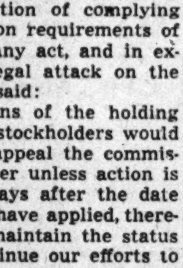
Big Utility Asks Court Review of SEC Order

New York, June 12 [Special].—The North American company, one of the nation's largest utility holding companies, today petitioned the United States circuit court of appeals for a review of an order by the Securities and Exchange commission requiring the company to break up in conformance with the "death sentence" provisions of the public utility holding company act.



Edward L. Shea.

Edward L. Shea, president of North American, said the action was taken so that stockholders would not lose the right to appeal the commission's break up order of April 14.

Gives Company Year to Act.

In its order against North American, the commission gave the company one year in which to dispose of all its utility investments and assets except the main properties of the Union Electric Company of Missouri, which serves St. Louis and surrounding territory.

North American repeatedly has announced its intention of complying with the integration requirements of the holding company act, and in explaining today's legal attack on the commission, Shea said:

"Under provisions of the holding company act, our stockholders would lose the right to appeal the commission's April 14 order unless action is taken within 60 days after the date of the order. We have applied, therefore, in order to maintain the status quo while we continue our efforts to work out a constructive solution of our problem that will meet the approval both of the commission and of our investors."

First Attack on Provision.

North American's challenge of the constitutionality of the "death sentence" marks the first legal assault against this highly controversial provision of the holding company act.

Since the passage of the act in 1935, the utilities bitterly resisted application of the "death sentence" and it is only in the last year or so that most major holding companies have agreed to contract their operations in a manner defined by the commission.

North American, which has main utility investments in Cleveland, Milwaukee, St. Louis, and Washington, D. C., and substantial interests in properties in San Francisco and Detroit, charged that the SEC order violated the fifth amendment to the constitution in attempting to deprive the company of its properties without due process of law.

SOAP PRICE HIKE CANCELED TO END "PRICE SQUEEZE"

Washington, D. C., June 12 (AP).—Three large soap manufacturers today canceled price increases posted in February and March, averaging 3¼ per cent, in order to relieve the "price squeeze" on retailers and wholesalers.

The action was taken by Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company, Procter & Gamble Co., and Lever Brothers at the request of the OPA.

It carries the factory price of soap back to levels prevailing before the end of February.

British Use of Dried Egg Powder to Be Explained

J. G. Hopkins, a member of the British food mission stationed in Washington, D. C., will tell midwestern egg processors today at a meeting in the Bismarck hotel how the English are using dried egg powder the United States is sending them under the lend-lease program. More than 4 million dollars worth of dried eggs were purchased for lend-lease this week.

Bankers' Acceptances Dip to Low Mark for 25 Years

New York, June 12 (AP).—Bankers' acceptances outstanding at the end of May totaled $173,906,000, a decline of $3,387,000 in the month and a drop of $41,099,000 from a year ago, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported today. The May total was the lowest in 25 years and showed the fourth consecutive monthly drop.

Record Ore Loadings

Washington, D. C., June 12 (AP).—A record number of freight cars were loaded with iron ore and other ores in the week ended June 6, the Association of American Railroads reported today. The week's total was 92,452, compared with the previous high of 89,087 in the week of July 14, 1923. The new total was 13,931 cars, or 17.7 per cent more than for the same week of 1941, and 9,567 cars above the week ended May 30, 1942. The 1941 high was 81,289 cars.

Bunching Calls Causes Phone Service Delay

Chicagoans have been "bunching" their telephone calls to Washington between 2 and 4 p. m. during the last two weeks, the Illinois Bell Telephone company said yesterday, and as a result there are delays in completing the calls. Delays range from 5 minutes to an hour, and average 15 to 20 minutes. Little difficulty is encountered in other periods.

Until about two weeks ago, the company said, peak periods on the Chicago-Washington calls were 10 to 11 a. m., 2 to 3 p. m., and 7 to 7:30 p. m. Company officials could give no reason for the change.

The congestion continues, the company reported, despite a 150 per cent increase in direct circuits from Chicago to Washington within the last year. Nearly 1,000 Chicago calls to Washington are made daily.

To relieve the situation, the company urges business men to place their calls at other times in the day when possible, and to give the operator telephone and extension numbers of those to receive the calls when the numbers are available here.

NEW MATERIALS PLAN EXPLAINED TO 82 COMPANIES

The production requirements plan was explained to more than 100 Chicago manufacturers representing 82 companies yesterday at the second priorities clinic conducted by the WPB in the Civic Opera building. The plan, to replace blanket preference ratings in most industries July 1, will be the basic instrument used in quarterly apportionments of materials to individual companies.

John McParland, plan specialist of the Chicago WPB priorities office, who is in charge of the clinics, said that because of heavy attendance four more clinics will be held Tuesday thru Friday next week at 2 p. m. He asked manufacturers to register in advance with Mrs. Jo Ford Adamsson, clinic secretary, at the Civic Opera building, or by telephoning Andover 3600.

CARNEGIE STEEL REPORTS RECORD OUTPUT OF PLATE

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 12 (AP).—Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation reported today a record breaking production of 329,069 tons of steel plates in May and credited the performance to conversion of its Irvin works from light steel to plate production in 37 days.

The May output of plates exceeded the previous monthly record by 41,000 tons, a margin big enough to build 12 large cargo ships.

Conversion of the Irvin works was accomplished, the United States Steel subsidiary said, by assembling "bits and pieces" of equipment from other plants, rebuilding them, and installing them at Irvin. The company estimated 8 to 12 months would have been required if the finishing facilities had been purchased as new equipment.

In May the Irvin mill produced 38,000 tons of plates and is scheduled to increase its rate to 47,000 tons this month. Before July it will be geared to 55,000 to 60,000 tons.

Deere & Co. Head Resigns to Accept Army Position

NOTICE

The Employment Office of the CARNEGIE-ILLINOIS STEEL CORPORATION, South Works, 3426 East 89th Street, will remain open from 8:00 A. M. to 4:00 P. M. daily, including Saturdays and Sundays.

Pulp Makers Told to Curb Priority Pleas

Washington, D. C., June 12 (AP).—The War Production board told the pulp and paper industry today that, as a means of sharing the burden of industrial conversion to war, it must restrict its applications for priority ratings "to the minimum necessary for essential repair and maintenance."

In a statement of policy, the WPB pulp and paper branch disclosed it had fixed standards for use as guides in assigning preference ratings, and that companies should determine their eligibility in the light of these standards before applying for ratings.

Deny Expansion Requests.

All requests for priorities for expansion of productive facilities will be denied, the branch said, unless WPB has specifically requested the expansion. Major improvements should be postponed for the duration of the war, "even tho postponement may mean a loss in production," it added.

Substitute materials must be used wherever possible even tho their use will prove inefficient or uneconomical.

In the event partial breakdowns of equipment have occurred, special priorities assistance will be granted.

No ratings will be assigned for additional inventory when stocks exceed a practicable working minimum, and, in general, priorities will be denied for spare motors, pumps, and other critical equipment. A liberal policy will be followed, however, in granting ratings to obtain second hand machinery.

May Production Declines.

MONTREAL, June 12 (AP). — The Newsprint Association of Canada reported today that May production of newsprint in the dominion was 251,831 tons, 11.6 per cent under output in May, 1941. Operations were at 68 per cent of capacity against 75.1 per cent a year ago. Shipments were 266,443 tons, 24,669 less than last year.

PRICE OF WASTE PAPER FALLS IN MARKET FLOOD

Mills and Dealers Yards Glutted.

As old newspapers, wrapping paper and boxes piled up in record volume thruout the nation, Chicago waste paper dealers declared yesterday that confusion prevails in their industry, with prices on the skids.

Many Chicago housewives were irate when alley peddlers offered as little as 10 cents a hundred pounds for waste paper, compared with 40 to 45 cents three weeks ago. But, as one of the big dealers described it, the peddlers "are taking a terrific amount of undeserved abuse."

Several Factors Blamed.

Spokesmen for the dealers attributed the chaotic state of their trade to these factors:

1. Since May 26, when the price collapse began, mill prices f.o.b. Chicago have fallen steadily from the ceilings which had prevailed since the Office of Price Administration established them last fall. Prices on No. 1 mixed paper dropped to $9 a ton, from $14. No. 1 newspaper fell to $10 from $15, and the value of old containers fell $7.50 to $20. Mills have been buying comparatively little, however, even at the reduced prices.

2. Paper mills, faced with sharply diminished demand for their finished products, have continued to buy in recent months at the request of the government. Their storage facilities are filled to capacity and their supplies are by far the largest on record. Some have piled waste paper in the open.

Plants Overflowing.

3. Plants of Chicago waste paper dealers are filled to overflowing and a number of freight cars loaded with waste paper can't be moved. Dealers' delivered prices to junk shops have dropped to $5 a ton on mixed paper, to $6 on No. 1 newspaper, and to $10 on old containers. After the costs of the junk man and peddler are taken out, there is little left for the original owner. Dealers are buying only part of what is offered, favoring those with whom they regularly do business.

4. In western states, shipping costs amount to more than the waste paper is worth at the mills. Thus, piles of waste paper gathered thru the Office of Civilian Defense campaign and thru patriotic efforts of citizens can't be given away to the mills. The price is so low in southern states that collections won't pay expenses. When a waste paper shortage was threatened last winter, mills were willing to pay uniform ceiling prices thruout the country, regardless of the distance to mills.

Mill Consumption Falls.

Mill consumption of waste paper has dropped about a third in the last six weeks, dealers said in explaining the fall in prices. The OCD drive hit its peak about this time, while May moving and spring house cleaning brought out increased offerings of waste paper.

The decline in demand for finished paper products accelerated in recent months as civilian industries canceled orders when operations became difficult under government war restrictions. Federal officials' talk of a paper shortage had caused consumers to be satisfied with less paper than they normally would use. Packing cartons, for example, have been used over and over before being discarded.

AGREE ON PRICE RISE IN SUMATRA CIGAR TOBACCO

Washington, D. C., June 12 (AP).—The OPA announced today that the Netherlands Indies Produce corporation, sole United States importer of Sumatra leaf tobacco used in cigars, had agreed to sell its tobacco domestically at prices not more than 20 per cent above average prices of last year.

Officials said the agreement was reached because of expressed fears of the cigar industry that speculative price rises would occur in a completely uncontroled market.

No new tobacco is being imported from Sumatra, but about 31,000 bales averaging 175 pounds to the bale are available for sales.

SALES PRESSURE LIGHT, BUT STOCK MARKET FEELS IT

Final Hour Rally Fails to Erase Most Losses.

New York, June 12 (AP).—The lightest kind of selling lowered stock market trends today without touching off much real weakness. An attempted recovery shift at the start soon faded. Losses, ranging from fractions to more than 2 points at the worst, were substantially reduced in the final hour but few leaders were able to close in the advancing column.

The drying up of offerings brought in a little late bidding on the theory the downward move since Monday may have gone a long way toward correcting the recent sharp rally.

Taxes Worry Traders.

Business and tax prospects still were cloudy enough to restrict demand for securities. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .3 of a point at 35.5. Transfers of 220,220 shares were the smallest since May 18.

American Telephone, down 2½ at one time on the revival of dividend apprehension resulting from reductions in disbursements by its subsidiaries, cut the decline to ⅝ point at the close. Off a point or so were Liggett & Myers B, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Deere, and J. I. Case.

Minor advances were held by Johns-Manville, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, and Boeing.

CHICAGO LIST UNEVEN.

Prices declined unevenly on the Chicago Stock Exchange yesterday in trading restricted to 9,000 shares. Fourteen issues advanced, 26 declined, and 17 closed unchanged. General Motors, the volume leader, declined ½, Central and South West fell 1-16, and Libby, McNeill & Libby advanced ⅛.

Commodities

Cotton futures closed 10 to 25 cents a bale lower yesterday after light trading. Prices fluctuated over a narrow range most of the day in the face of confusion over the status of farm legislation. Wool tops ended 0.1 to 1.1 cents a pound lower.

LARGER BUYING ORDERS BOLSTER MARKET IN HOGS

Lamb Prices Dip After Setting June Peaks.

Larger buying orders bolstered prices in the hog market yesterday. Early losses extending to 10 cents per 100 pounds were erased and some grades closed a little higher than on Thursday. The day's average price was steady at $14.05, altho the top price was off 5 cents at $14.25.

Strength was most evident in the market for stock over 250 pounds.

Farmers shipped about the same volume as a week earlier, but the tonnage is running much larger than in 1941, because of increased numbers as well as the heavier average weights of hogs this year. Eleven large markets during the first five days of this week received 378,000 hogs, compared with 319,000 a year ago.

Fall pigs under 225 pounds in weight comprised a smaller part of the day's receipts, and butchers running from 250 to 300 pounds were more plentiful. The proportion of sows was the heaviest of the season.

The market for fat lambs weakened when buyers balked at the 13 year June peaks established on Thursday. The best offered sold at $15.75, with none good enough to test the $16 top quotation. The scant supply of cattle on the market sold slowly on a steady to weak basis. The best steers available brought $13.85.

STORES' STOCKS LARGE, RESERVE BOARD REPORTS

Washington, D. C., June 12 (AP).—Department stores seem to have unusually large stocks of most of the items consumers want, the federal reserve board said today.

A survey of inventories showed that on April 30 the value of stocks was 60 per cent more than a year ago. The size of these stocks, it was indicated, will delay the time when shortages of some items will occur because of conversion of civilian industries to war production.

The board concluded, "there seemed to be unusually large stocks of men's and boys' wear; piece goods, particularly woolen dress goods; home furnishings, except major household appliances; small wares; and miscellaneous items, such as toys and games, sporting goods, luggage, and the like."

Basement departments were especially well stocked.

SHORT SELLING IN CORN MARKET LOWERS PRICES

Other Grains Influenced by Its Weakness.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

Concentrated short selling of corn futures on the Chicago Board of Trade in anticipation of large scale liquidating sales toward the end of the month lowered prices almost a cent a bushel yesterday and imparted weakness to other grains. Late covering brought a minor rally, with prices closing ¼ to ½ cent below Thursday's final levels.

Wheat closed unchanged to ¼ lower after light mill buying early in the session had influenced a rise of about a cent. The July wheat future closed at $1.18⅞. Oats were off ⅛ to ⅜ cent. Rye closed unchanged to ¼ cent lower, and soy beans unchanged to 1½ cents lower.

Switch to Other Futures.

Selling of July corn and buying of the September and December futures was evident. Pit observers estimated that uncompleted July corn futures contracts would be reduced by more than a million bushels. At the start of trading there were open contracts calling for the July delivery of 27,221,000 bushels of corn on the board of trade.

A department of agriculture prediction that the supply of hogs available for slaughtering this year would reach 96 to 100 million head, compared with a previous high of 86 million, was a bullish factor in the corn market.

Cash Sales Limited.

Offering of cash corn out of Buffalo at lower prices slowed Chicago carlot trading with sales limited to about 35,000 bushels.

A report that domestic consumption of refined cottonseed oil in May totaled only 198,655 barrels, against 217,545 in April and 373,170 in May, 1941, caused some weakness in soy beans. The break in the cotton and cottonseed oil futures markets also attracted attention.

Rumors of new inquiry for rye flour for lend-lease purposes gave rye futures some independent strength. Oats were under moderate hedging pressure and the influence of generally favorable crop reports.

The Lexington after two United States destroyers came to her assistance, one to pick up members of her personnel who slid down 50 foot ropes, the other to pump water into the big vessel in a vain effort to quench fires raging in her.

This is the mortally wounded United States aircraft carrier Lexington in its death throes after the battle of the Coral sea. All hands had abandoned ship, however, when this navy picture was made. No lives were lost in leaving the ship.
